COLD WEATHER NEW PERIL TO FLOOD VICTIMS

Thousands Homeless and 10 Dead as Ohio River Assault Continues.

DYKE AT CINCINNATI GIVES BEFORE WATER

Many Kentucky Towns Across River Cut Off; Relief Problem Critical.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 21 (A. P.).—The mad Ohio River and its tributaries continued an unyielding assault upon bankside cities in Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana tonight as the murky torrent approached the Mississippi.

The crest of the flood rode hard upon Cincinnati during the night while a score or so of municipalities upon each side of the peak water struggled to care for many thousands of temporarily homeless.

The relief problem was the more acute because winter had returned to the valley. Although the cold blast had curbed the heavy rain of the last fortnight, it also made imperative the need of food and shelter for the destitute.

The four-day-old flood had cost ten lives and probably many millions in property.

Body of Child Found.

The body of 8-year-old Roy Spidell was recovered from a rain-swollen creek near Columbus today. He was the tenth victim of the flood waters in this region. The child fell into the creek while playing. Usually the stream is only knee deep.

Ohio officials alone said damage to bridges and highways in this State was more than $1,000,000.

Such large centers as Cincinnati, Newport, Ky.; Covington, Ky.; Louisville, Madison, Ind., and Portsmouth, Ohio, were harassed by the climbing waters.

Two dykes protecting part of Cincinnati's East End were seriously threatened and one of them actually gave way at an isolated point, sending torrents of water into an unused portion of the municipal airport.

Workers on Levee.

Meanwhile erratic Mill Creek, in the west end of Cincinnati, spread backwaters into suburbs of the city far from the Ohio.

The town of New Richmond, Ohio, cared for its 1,500 residents as best it could, although only five buildings were left high and dry. Every road but one to the outside world was impassable, and the Cincinnati Red Cross and National Guardsmen were directing relief.

Farther upstream several hundred men believed they had won a battle to reinforce the levee that protected part of the town of Portsmouth, Ohio. The workers toiled in rising spray and in a furious wind, dumping sand bags on the dyke throughout the day. As they began work the river stage was 60.3 feet.

Kentucky Towns Cut Off.

Across from Cincinnati, on the Kentucky shore, Newport, Bellevue, Dayton, Fort Thomas and Southgate, Ky., were cut off from neighboring Covington and some 3,000 were homeless as water crept across the Ohio River flats. Only one outlet remained for them to Cincinnati.

Cincinnati's suburbs of Mount Washington and Sedamsville virtually were isolated, water edged up to Third street, downtown, lapped at the new Union Railroad Terminal, disrupted street car service on some lines and made boats essential in the warehouse district.

Hoch Hitler

Is Heard Over Germany as Country Nears End of Popular Rule.

Berlin, March 21 (A.P.).—The Reichstag convened today to sign its own death warrant and the death warrant of popular government in a session intended to last only a few days.

All Germany blazed with national spirit in celebration of the advent of this first federal legislature completely controled by Chancellor Adolf Hitler's Fascist Nazis.

The tone of these celebrations was defined this morning in a ceremony of consecration, attended by President von Hindenburg, the new chancellor and representatives of the old imperial house, and held in the Garrison Church at Potsdam where Frederick the Great and others of the old German leaders lie buried.

There the venerable president sounded an impressive call for "a national rebirth of the soul for the weal of a unified, free and proud Germany."

The spirit of Frederick the Great was invoked, and the spirit of the drill field pervaded the scene.

But Chancellor Hitler appealed for

PRINCIPLE OF ARMS PLAN PLEASES PARIS

Paris, March 21 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini's peace plan was accepted in principle today by the French, who made modifications which now have been referred to Rome.

The moral support of the United States for the four-power peace pact is ardently desired, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain told the press after all-day negotiations with Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour of France. Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary, also took part in the conversations.

The French ministers said in a communique that they desire to see the four European powers—France, Britain, Italy and Germany—cooperate to keep peace within the framework of the League of Nations.

Mr. MacDonald asserted that no special views were being pushed by one side or the other. The four great powers are the center of the scheme, he explained, because they are the permanent members of the league council and hence would bear the brunt "if worst came to worst."

He denied reports that the Mussolini plan was designed to operate for a period of ten years, but he declined to discuss the details of the project.

The conversations will continue in an effort to harmonize the various interests through regular diplomatic channels. Mr. MacDonald and his foreign secretary are returning to London tomorrow.

It was understood that at the start of today's conference M. Daladier expressed tentative acceptance of the Mussolini plan, reiterating that methods to be pursued must be within the spirit and the framework of the League of Nations.

The nature and extent of proposed revision of treaties must be defined, the French insist, and Poland and the Little Entente must be treated as equals. They also insist that the affected powers must be consulted if frontiers are to be altered.

Deranged Texan Kills Wife, Son and Himself

10 Sent to Street By R Street Fire

The three-story stone home of W. C. Allison, jr., at 1901 R street northwest, was badly damaged early today by fire which started in the basement and spread rapidly throughout the structure.

The flames were discovered by a colored janitor who spread the alarm. Ten persons in the house, members of Mr. Allison's family and his friends, fled to the street in night apparel.

Two alarms were sounded. Flames were flashing through the second story windows while the firemen sprayed the house with water.

The house, one of the oldest in that section of the city, is owned by the estate of Marion Throck, late representative from Pennsylvania. It formerly was occupied by a college fraternity and was the home of Josephus Daniels when he was secretary of the navy.

FORESTRY PLAN TO AID 250,000 OFFERED IN BILL

Proposed in Both Houses Soon After Message of Roosevelt.

PASSAGE IN 2 WEEKS URGED BY PRESIDENT

Proposal Rapped by Connery Because of $1 Daily Wage Provision.

In the face of instantaneous opposition from the ranks of organized labor, the administrative branch of the Government pushed forward last night in preparation for a vast conservation program in the national forests, as outlined by President Roosevelt yesterday in a special message to Congress.

In the Forestry Service, Department of Agriculture, selected areas were marked for the possible early beginning on the experimental employment relief program, and in the Labor Department, the Employment Service shaped plans for recruiting the projected civilian army of 250,000 men from the ranks of America's 12,000,000 unemployed.

Within two hours of receipt of the President's message, the bill embodying his plan had been introduced in both Houses. Democratic Leader Robinson presented the measure in the Senate and Majority Leader Byrns in the House.

Refuses to Introduce Bill.

The first rumblings of organized labor's determined opposition came when Chairman Connery of the House Labor Committee refused to introduce the bill. After informing the White House of his decision, Chairman Connery told newspapermen he could not "father a $1-a-day wage for married as well as single men."

"The American Federation of Labor is against the proposal," the Massachusetts Democrat said. "The bill provides for the enlistment of men for one year and sets a wage rate of $1 a day. It would compel married men to send an allotment to their families out of that. I come from an industrial district, and throughout my career in Congress I have sought to maintain a living wage rate."

Advised of Chairman Connery's decision, Speaker Rainey asked Mr. Byrns to introduce the bill. No copies were available in the House last night, but Senate committee prints were at hand at the other end of the Capitol. Representative Byrns said he anticipated hearings would begin this morning, before the Labor Committee. Secretary of Labor Perkins was expected to be among the first witnesses.

Outlines Her Plan.

After the regular Tuesday Cabinet meeting yesterday, Secretary Perkins outlined her tentative plans for en-

Confidence Vote Won by Daladier

Alleged $70 Theft Before War by Official Is Made Issue.

Paris, March 21 (A.P.).—Premier Daladier, who spent most of today in conference with Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain won a vote of confidence on a comparatively minor issue in the Chamber of Deputies this evening.

He staked the life of his government on the defense of Gaston Hulin, undersecretary of state in the ministry of war, who was accused by a member of the Chamber of absconding with the funds of a small organization in the days before the war when he was 25 years old. The amount involved was $70.

Hulin denied having done any wrong and the premier made the issue a question of confidence. The Chamber vote was 367 to 164. By a vote of 375 to 45 the Chamber expressed its confidence in the honor of M. Hulin.

Planned French Tax Hit As Ruining U. S. Trade

Paris, March 21 (U.P.).—A heavy tax which Americans here said threatened to ruin their trade with France will soon be imposed on exports from the United States and other countries to France, it was learned today.

"The tax will be in accordance with a provision in the March budget, authorizing the government to place a tax on import licenses. The ministry of commerce today began negotiations with the American Chamber of Commerce.

Mob Seizes Deputies At Farmer Debt Sale

Attorney Is Freed When Foreclosure Delay Is Agreed To.

Three Are Held Nearly Hour Until Demand Is Reported Met.

Aberdeen, S. Dak., March 21 (A.P.).—Postponement of a mortgage foreclosure sale brought freedom late today to an attorney held prisoner in the sheriff's office by several hundred protesting farmers.

A. C. Hendrickson, of Watertown, walked away after the farmers were told their demand for the foreclosure postponement had been met by the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co., the firm he represented.

The company holds a mortgage on the 160-acre farm owned by William Schlicting. Sale to satisfy the lien was scheduled for today.

Announcement of postponement until May 1 caused dispersal of the crowd, leaders of which had said Hendrickson would not be released until a delay was ordered.

The farmers sent a resolution to Gov. Tom Berry at Pierre demanding he take "immediate action to stop all foreclosures for a period of two years" by proclaiming a moratorium on such procedure.

Pennsburg, Pa., March 21 (A.P.).—Though one fired his pistol into the air, three deputy sheriffs seeking to sell out a farmer for debts were seized today by a crowd estimated to number 300 to 500, mauled and held virtual prisoners for nearly an hour.

The "captive" officials were allowed to return to the Montgomery County courthouse at Norristown after Sheriff H. S. Lever was summoned by telephone and was understood to have said that the sale was postponed until April 3.

"It was mob rule," said Lever. "Why, they tore the clothing off one of my men."

Back at his office, however, Lever said he had made no promise of postponement, and said the sale would "stick." He declared it was legal.

Recently farmers of Montgomery, Berks and Bucks Counties have agreed not to bid or to offer low sums when neighbors' property is sold by the sheriff's office.

LEADERS CALL HALT TO BILLS 'HYSTERIA'

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Congressional leaders called an abrupt halt yesterday to the national emergency hysteria which has ruled on Capitol Hill since March 9.

Henceforth, it has been agreed, the House and Senate will proceed with greater deliberation on all matters presented for consideration. Every effort is to be made to observe the subtleties of constitutional routine.

The more temperate and judicial pace was reflected yesterday in the Senate's quick adjournment a few minutes after noon—for the sole purpose of delaying the beer bill for 24 hours. It was reflected also in the decision on both sides to hold extended hearings on the President's reforestation program. Again, it was reflected in the decision of the House leaders to extend debate on the farm bill until today.

Although the Senate was in session only about half an hour, the Banking and Currency Committee helped put the brakes on the Constitutional holiday by deciding to withhold the Steagall State banking bill from consideration pending a thorough inquiry into its purposes and potential dangers. Several Senate amendments were accepted by the committee.

Even as these developments in the Senate Will Continue Overton Ballot Probe

(Associated Press.)

Further hearings in the 1932 Louisiana Democratic senatorial primary investigation were decided on yesterday by the Senate's Special Campaign Funds Committee, but no date was set.

Chairman Bratton said the committee expected to confine itself to evidence of excessive expenditures or corruption and the fitness of Senator John H. Overton for the office. The investigation revolves around Overton's defeat of former Senator Edwin S. Broussard in the Democratic senatorial primary.

POTOMAC SAVINGS WILL GO NATIONAL

Georgetown House, Oldest of Type in District, Will Open Next Week.

Potomac Savings Bank, oldest savings bank in the District of Columbia, is being organized at the suggestion of the United States Treasury Department, to open next week as the Potomac National Bank. This important announcement was made yesterday by William H. Clarke, laundry owner and director of the bank, acting as chairman of a committee of citizens of Georgetown, nearby Maryland and Virginia, sections served by this institution, engaged in completing the plan.

The Potomac Savings Bank has grown to such importance in the foregoing community that its continuance is necessary to the progress of this section, Mr. Clarke said. Conferences of his committee with present officers and directors of the bank have been held with this end in mind, he added.

As a result of these and at the suggestion of the Treasury Department, Mr. Clarke said, it is planned that the Potomac National Bank be organized with a capital stock of $300,000 and a surplus of $200,000. This stock is to be of par value of $30 a share together with $20 for the surplus fund, making each share of stock sold, $50. There will be 10,000 shares of stock and it is the desire of the committee to have them distributed generally among the outstanding persons of the neighborhood served by the bank.

Under the plan, Mr. Clarke said, the new stockholders will elect from

Albert Halstead Hurt By New York Taxicab

New York, March 21 (A.P.).—Albert Halstead, newspaperman and recently retired as American consul general in London, was seriously injured tonight by a taxicab at Fifty-fourth street and Sixth avenue.

Prior to service in London, Halstead, who is 65 years old, was consul general in Birmingham, England; Vienna, Stockholm and Montreal.

55 Out as Federal Shake-Up Is Started by Miss Perkins

By VYLLA POE WILSON.

The immediate need to make available the mass of statistics and other information vital to prompt action on critical matters pending in her department is the incentive for the reorganization and consolidation now going on or planned by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Miss Perkins held her first press conference yesterday. She seemed surprised at the number of women among the newspaper folk who crowded into her office on the seventh floor of the Labor Department Building to ask her to make public what she intends to do in important matters of labor and immigration and kindred subjects.

This little woman, who seemed still smaller back of the wide mahogany desk, already has made a firm start in reorganizing the department.

The Immigration Service has been the first to feel a shake-up in personnel. Miss Perkins has discontinued the posts of 55 special immigration investigators and has put on furlough 16 others because of the impending exhaustion of the $200,000 appropriation under which they operate. Among the investigators no longer with the service is Murray Garsson, whose resignation has been accepted.

Garsson, a New Yorker, began under Doak two years ago as a $1-a-year man to assist in ridding the Nation of alien smugglers and aliens illegally in this country. Recently he has been prominent in conducting investigations among Hollywood's foreign contingent. His salary was raised to $9,000 a year by Doak, according to testimony made before a House committee.

The department's "secret service" also is scheduled for abolishment, as

MAPES' SCHEME FOR D. C. TAXES MAY BE REVIVED

CITIZENS' OPPOSITION IS ANTICIPATED ANEW

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Revival of the drastic Mapes program of District taxation, effectively buried by the Senate at the last session of Congress, was definitely scheduled last night for special session consideration.

This was made known by Chairman William H. King, of the Senate District Committee, following conferences yesterday with Representative Carl F. Mapes (Republican), Michigan, and Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri.

Senator King today will appoint Senator Warren R. Austin (Republican), Vermont, chairman of a special subcommittee to inquire into the whole question of local revenues and the part the Federal Government should play in the picture, he said last night.

Representative Mapes, author of the bills proposing some $4,000,000 in additional District levies, declined to say whether he will reintroduce his measures at the special session, but declared he will cooperate in any plans Senator King might have.

Meet Opposition.

Senator King insisted he will introduce the bills in the Senate, in modified form, if Representative Mapes fails to do so in the House. He will encounter the united opposition of local citizens' groups, which successfully fought the program to its death at the last session.

"It is my purpose to distribute more equally the tax burden in the District, and if posible, lighten a bit the load on the home owner," said the new Senate District Committee chairman.

"I would like to see a reduction in local real estate taxes, and there are certain features of the Mapes program that I am not in accord with, such as the proposed 2-cent increase in the gasoline tax, and the tax on automobiles according to weight.

"But I do think there should be a District income tax, and a local estate tax. The entire issue will be laid before the special subcommittee I am preparing to name, and they will bring their recommendations before the full committee."

To Call Subcommittee.

Meanwhile, Representative James P. Buchanan (Democrat), of Texas, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, planned to call his deficiencies subcommittee together

Chicago Exchange Orders Publicity

Also Bars Peddling of New Issues on "When and If" Basis.

Chicago, March 21 (A.P.).—The Chicago Stock Exchange today revised its rules, requiring full publicity of corporation reports and eliminating the practice of "peddling" new issues on a "when and if" basis.

"Securities will not be listed coincident with a public offering," said Paul H. Davis, president of the exchange. "Applications will only be considered when a company demonstrates that the securities to be listed are sufficiently distributed to the public to assure a free and open market."

Another new rule adopted by the exchange's board of governors specified that full information on the status of corporations whose securities are being offered must be filed with the exchange.

Man Found Murdered On Farm in Maryland

Fullerton, Md., March 21 (A.P.).—The bullet-riddled body of a man between 25 and 30 years old was found face down in a thicket on a farm several miles north of here late today.

He had fifteen bullet wounds in his back. Police said they believed he had been killed by a fusillade of shots fired from bootleggers' guns as he fled. An automobile registration card and Navy discharge papers found on the body bore the name Charles Griffin, of Baltimore. Dr. Gustave Fritz, Overlea coroner, said the man probably had been dead since Saturday night.

C. E. MITCHELL ARRESTED ON '29 TAX COUNT

CHARLES E. MITCHELL.

PAID NO LEVY, PROBER SAYS

U. S. to Present Case to Grand Jury and Ask Early Trial.

New York, March 21 (A.P.).—Charles E. Mitchell, who resigned recently as chairman of the National City Bank, was arrested tonight on a Federal charge of attempting to evade a $657,152 income tax in 1929.

He was released in $10,000 bail furnished by a surety company pending a hearing before a United States Commissioner March 29. After posting bond he left the Federal Building with his attorney and declined to make any statement.

The warrant was issued on the order of Attorney General Cummings, who announced tonight that President Roosevelt "has been kept advised of the developments and they have his approval."

Cummings ordered the prosecution on the basis of a report made to him last week by United States Attorney George Z. Medalie, and said tonight Medalie would "proceed forthwith to present the case to a grand jury with a view to pressing for an early trial."

Instigated by Hoover.

The investigation of the banker's case was instigated by President Hoover through Attorney General William D. Mitchell. When President Roosevelt last week approved continuance of the Senate stock market investigation the White House said Cummings had been directed to prosecute any cases of law violation disclosed by the committee.

Mitchell's testimony before the committee led to the investigation. He disclosed that in 1929 he sold 18,300 shares of National City Bank stock to a relative, later identified as his wife, at a $2,800,000 loss which he deducted from his income in his tax return. Later he repurchased the stock, he said.

Detailed in Affidavit.

The Government charges that this was not a sale in fact, that no money was passed, and that the transfer was effected by an exchange of letters between Mitchell and his wife.

The transaction was detailed in an affidavit by Thomas E. Dewey, chief assistant United States attorney, as a "purported" sale of the stock at $212 a share December 20, 1929, and a "purported" repurchase of it at the same price March 24, 1932, although it then was selling at about $40 a share.

Dewey's complaint states that Mitchell had a gross income for 1929 of $3,006,705.76, including $1,206,195.02 from salaries, $140,105.47 from interest on bank deposits and bonds, and $1,388,237.97 profits from sales of stocks and bonds.

Other items making up the gross income Dewey said, were $262,874.80

U. S.-BRITISH DEBT TALKS START SOON

President Shortly to Name Congressional Group to Aid in Study.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Negotiations between the United States and Great Britain for the adjustment of the intergovernmental debt situation between the two countries will be undertaken in the immediate future, it became known authoritatively here yesterday.

When the discussions between British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay and the President begin, they will be conducted under the sign of two important principles. First, the United States expects Great Britain and the other European debtor nations of this country to acquit their June 15 debt payments without any hope of deferment by this country, and, second, the President himself will appoint shortly an advisory committee of leaders in both Houses of Congress to "consult" with him on the development of the debt settlement.

The announcement of this Congressional advisory committee rejoiced the sensibilities of the Democratic leaders in both Houses who were beginning to grow restive under the hitherto disregarded role of Congress in the final settlement of the debt problem.

The exact composition of the committee has not been announced. However, ever since his Warm Springs address, the President has indicated his intention of creating some sort of congressional agency to keep the leaders on the hill abreast of developments in the adjustment of the gnarled problem of the war debts. In the general anxiety over the more pressing and more immediate solution of the domestic difficulties of a banking situation, the carrying out of this pronouncement had been temporarily postponed. When the debt negotiations begin their devious way once more, Congress will be represented in the preliminary stages of the discussion by a group that in all probability will be comprised of the leading Democrats in both Houses.

Senators Pat Harrison and Key Pittman, Speaker Henry T. Rainey and the chairmen of the more important committees in the House will be included in the liaison group and their influence will go far to-

Poland Reserves View On Mussolini Plan

Warsaw, Poland, March 21 (A.P.).—Poland has received with reserve the plan advanced by Premier Mussolini of Italy for a four-power agreement to stabilize the peace of Europe. Unofficially it was said there is in the proposal for a four-power combination an element of pressure against which other European states might protest.

Poland, one commentator said, never will submit to allowing other nations to regulate her affairs without consulting her. The Italian proposal, he said, appears to be directed against the League of Nations, which for Poland, is preferable to any bloc of four.

Polish Senate Reduces Currency's Gold Ratio

Warsaw, Poland, March 21 (A.P.).—The Senate today approved a bill lowering the required gold coverage of Polish currency from 40 per cent to 30 per cent.

Also it approved a grant of dictatorial power to the government during the forthcoming parliamentary recess, permitting President Moscicki to govern by decree, except in matters involving a change in the constitution.

BEER MEASURE GOES TO PRESIDENT TODAY

(Associated Press.)

Groomed by Congress for the statute books, the beer bill was ready last night for delivery to the White House except for a technicality that will block its enactment until today and delay flow of the foamy beverage until April 7—the lack of a signature from Vice President Garner.

Congressional action was completed with swift adoption by a tumultuous House of the conference report of the measure legalizing 3.2 per cent beer and wine and levying a tax of $5 a barrel on each. The report was approved Monday by the Senate.

President Roosevelt was holding himself instantly ready to sign the measure last night, but the Senate, with little to do, recessed until today at too early an hour to permit the Vice President to place his name upon the completed bill.

Awaits Reassembling.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, failed to get the consent of the Senate for Mr. Garner to sign it while that branch was not meeting. This final congressional formality will have to await the reassembling of the Senate today.

Robinson said he was not informed of the legislative status of the administration measure in the House. Otherwise, he explained to newspapermen, he would have asked the Senate to recess until later in the day to permit the signing in time to allow beer to become legal one day earlier.

Second Time in Session.

This is the second time since the beginning of the special session that the Senate has delayed final enactment of President Roosevelt's emergency legislative proposals. The first was when Robinson permitted the Senate to adjourn over the last week-end without the Vice President's signature to the $500,000,000 economy bill.

Set for enactment of the measure yesterday, Speaker Rainey and Representative Cullen, of New York, assistant Democratic leader in charge of the legislation, obtained its speedy adoption by a voice vote after only fifteen minutes of debate by one prohibitionist member, Representative Blanton (Democrat), Texas.

Meanwhile, the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol announced it would enforce the pending new law so far as production, inspection and supervision were concerned, and that revenue stamps of the same kind used before prohibition already were in the making to be turned over to the Internal Revenue Bureau. That organization will take care of collecting taxes upon the brew.

Former Dry Agent Drops Libel Action

Nations Takes Step After Out-of-Court Accord Is Reached.

Attorneys for Gus O. Nations, former prohibition enforcement official, of St. Louis, Mo., yesterday dropped his suit against Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant Attorney General; H. R. Baukhage, David Lawrence and the Current News Features, Inc.

Mr. Nations brought suit when a series of articles written by Mrs. Willebrandt on prohibition enforcement after she had resigned from the Government service were printed.

Through Attorney Guy Mason, Mr. Lawrence and the other defendants fought the suit and finally reached an out-of-court settlement, the terms of which were not announced. The suit asked $200,000 for alleged libel.

7½-Cent Plate Lunch Enjoyed by Roosevelt

(United Press.)

President Roosevelt ate a 7½-cent luncheon at his desk yesterday and said "it was good."

The menu, worked out by the home economic department of Cornell University at the request of Mrs. Roosevelt, consisted of hot stuffed eggs with tomato sauce, mashed potatoes prune pudding and coffee.

MAPES TAX SCHEME TO BE RECONSIDERED

early next week to consider estimates on the District appropriations bill due from the Budget Bureau in the next day or two.

The principal issue at stake will again be the Federal Government's lump-sum contribution to the District, which is closely tied in with the tax question. Conferees last session fixed the figure at $7,600,000, after the House had insisted on $6,500,000, and the Senate had held out for $9,500,000.

Indicating he would like to decide this perennial problem once and for all, Representative Buchanan yesterday called on the Bureau of Efficiency for results of a study it made of Federal-District fiscal relations when the Senate District Committee was studying the Mapes program.

He was informed the study is not yet complete. Mr. Buchanan then withdrew his request, pending determination of how much it will cost to complete the report. It is still possible the study will die with the bureau when that goes out of existence in June.

Representative Cannon, chairman of the last House District appropriations subcommittee, will sit in on District bill hearings with two other remaining members of the local subcommittee, Representative Blanton (Democrat), Texas, and Representative Granfield (Democrat), Massachusetts. Pending appointment of a new District subcommittee, however, the hearings will be handled by the deficiencies group.

Senator King said Cannon agreed to cooperate with the Utah senator's plan to reduce District expenditures.

The burden of granting the District what it asks and needs in the way of appropriations will again fall on the Senate District appropriations subcommittee, which will get the District bill after the House gets through with it. The chairman of this group is as yet unnamed, but the choice lies between Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat) New York, and Senator John B. Kendrick (Democrat), Wyoming, both proven friends of the District.

Message of President On Relief for Jobless

To the Congress:

It is essential to our recovery program that measures immediately be enacted aimed at unemployment relief. A direct attack in this problem suggests three types of legislation.

The first is the enrollment of workers now by the Federal Government for such public employment as can be quickly started and will not interfere with the demand for or the proper standards of normal employment.

The second is grants to States for relief work.

The third extends to a broad public works labor-creating program.

With reference to the latter I am now studying the many projects suggested and the financial questions involved. I shall make recommendations to the Congress presently.

In regard to grants to States for relief work, I advise you that the remainder of the appropriation of last year will last until May. Therefore, and because a continuance of Federal aid is still a definite necessity for many States, a further appropriation must be made before the end of this special session.

I find a clear need for some simple Federal machinery to coordinate and check these grants of aid. I am, therefore, asking that you establish the office of Federal Relief Administrator, whose duty it will be to scan requests for grants and to check the efficiency and wisdom of their use.

The first of these measures which I have enumerated, however, can and should be immediately enacted. I propose to create a civilian conservation corps to be used in simple work, not interfering with normal employment, and confining itself to forestry, the prevention of soil erosion, flood control and similar projects. I call your attention to the fact that this type of work is of definite, practical value, not only through the prevention of great present financial loss, but also as a means of creating future national wealth. This is brought home by the news we are receiving today of vast damage caused by floods on the Ohio and other rivers.

Control and direction of such work can be carried on by existing machinery of the Departments of Labor, Agriculture, War and Interior.

I estimate that 250,000 men can be given temporary employment by early summer if you give me authority to proceed within the next two weeks.

I ask no new funds at this time. The use of unobligated funds, now appropriated for public works, will be sufficient for several months.

This enterprise is an established part of our national policy. It will conserve our precious natural resources. It will pay dividends to the present and future generations. It will make improvements in national and State domains which have been largely forgotten in the past few years of industrial development.

More important, however, than the material gains will be the moral and spiritual value of such work. The overwhelming majority of unemployed Americans, who are now walking the streets and receiving private or public relief, would infinitely prefer to work. We can take a vast army of these unemployed out into healthful surroundings. We can elimipate to some extent, at least, the threat that enforced idleness brings to spiritual and moral stability. It is not a panacea for all the unemployment but it is an essential step in this emergency. I ask its adoption.

REFORESTATION AID MEASURE INTRODUCED IN BOTH HOUSES

listing the civilian conservation army. Enlistments will be obtained through the existing recruiting system of the Army, in cooperation with the United States Employment Service.

The President's message urged enactment of the measure within two weeks. Secretary Perkins estimated her department would be ready to put the plan into operation by that time.

One of the immediate jobs of the Forest Service will be to select approximately 2,500 labor camp sites throughout the country, in which to harbor the conservation army. The various types of work available and the geographical distribution of the most pressing forestry needs are being plotted daily, said Chief Forester R. Y. Stuart. Other steps are being taken to insure the essential cooperation between State and Federal authorities on a number of projects. He anticipates that the average camp will care for not more than 100 men, as larger aggregations would require the workers to travel too far from their normal moorings.

In presenting the experimental program to Congress, President Roosevelt said he soon would supplement this project with two others, one looking to further direct relief funds for the States and the other contemplating an extensive public works program.

The conservation camps are to be financed largely from unexpected surpluses in the Treasury. The President's message gave no details as to the financing plans contemplated for the public works and direct relief measures.

The message also urged creation of a new Government position, to be known as the Federal Relief Administrator, to supervise and coordinate all Federal aid grants to the States and their subdivisions.

The conservation project, the message added, "is an established part of our national policy."

"Military control and military domination, with its segregation plans, transgresses in a very large degree upon the free exercice of labor," Mr. Green's public statement said. "In itself this is repugnant to those who are earnestly endeavoring to bring about the restoration of normal economic and industrial conditions."

He said organized labor would support a substitute measure, to be presented in a few days.

CONGRESSIONAL CHIEFS CALL HALT TO BILLS "HYSTERIA"

Capitol signalized the end of the hit-and-run legislative methods, a new break in the Democratic ranks in the House forewarned of stormy sailing for the reforestation program; and a three-hour House debate on the farm bill pointed conclusively to the drastic revision of that measure before its course is run in Congress.

Of twenty-two speakers who took the floor for and against the measure yesterday, not one gave the Wallace-Tugwell bill unqualified indorsement. The qualifications ranged from experimental acceptance in the name of party loyalty, to uncompromising resistance against "collectivization."

When the debate began printed copies of the bill were on every member's desk, and the printed committee report was available in the chamber. This was the first measure in the present session to be taken up in the House under these conditions of regular procedure.

Special Rule Voted.

After accepting the conference report on the beer bill in zipper fashion, the House Democrats rushed through a special rule limiting debate on the farm bill to four hours and prohibiting amendments from the floor. The necessary two-thirds majority was counted without a roll call.

Chairman Marvin Jones, of the Agricultural Committee, who refused yesterday to introduce the bill and announced he would have nothing to do with it in its present form, opened the argument for the measure. He said in normal times he would not consider such a proposal for an instant; but the present position of agriculture seemed to demand drastic action. He said the decision of the Democratic leaders at the White House Monday night to see the bill through demanded the party allegiance of the majority.

Attacked by Hart.

The sharpest attack on the bill from the Democratic side came from Representative Hart, of Michigan. He characterized it as unvarnished Communism. He attacked the farm leaders who assisted in writing the measure as mere job-seekers and urged the House to turn them out of the Federal Treasury.

"Why, these are the same gentlemen who dispensed this $500,000,000 they obtained under the farm marketing act. These men are not supported, and have not been for years, by the farmers. When they noticed their falling revenues from the farmers they came down here and got legislation and got their hands into the Treasury; and now as the Farm Board passes out they have a new and glorified farm board contained in this bill. I predict that not only will they spend $500,000,000, but under this bill there will be expended of the people's money something like $1,500,000,000 before we get through with it. I can not go along with any program of this kind."

Representative Clarke, of New York, a Republican member of the Agricultural Committee, said the central idea of the bill was the collectivization farming and centralized agricultural bureaucracy of Soviet Russia. He observed also that there was "not a single legislative precedent" for any step in the progress of the farm bill before it reached the floor.

The bill was a revenue measure which did not originate in the House; it was reported out of committee without any opportunity for hearing opponents; only four witnesses appeared before the committee and two of those helped frame the bill before the committee ever saw it.

Mr. Clarke objected to setting up "a glorified farm board," adding that the removal of the Civil Service requirements in committee would open the way for lucrative Government positions for professional farm leaders at $10,000 a year.

White House Denial.

Before the House took up the farm bill, the White House formally denied the Monday night conference had been called to align support solidly behind the measure.

"The President is confident that the farm bill will get through," the statement said, "and reports were denied that the conference last night was held to strengthen the bill. This is only one of the many subjects discussed. The President is not concerned about the passage of the farm bill. The conference was held merely for the purpose of keeping Congress in session without a recess."

Representative Bankhead, of Alabama, sponsored the special rule, under which debate is to be terminated at midafternoon today.

Representative Snell, the majority leader, charged the measure was purely "a Democratic patronage bill." Representative Britten (Republican), Illinois, told his colleagues in a brief speech that in all his 20 years in Congress he had "never seen a more flagrant pork-barrel bill."

Representative Fulmer, of South Carolina, who introduced the bill for the Agricultural Committee, told the House that Secretary Wallace had urged him not to permit any changes in the text in committee, "because it would be necessary to submit them to the President."

Representative Chase, a Minnesota Republican, voiced the temper of a considerable section of the House in his opening sentence favoring enactment.

"This bill is bad legislation," he shouted dramatically, "yet I intend to vote for it."

Are Not Wholehearted.

He added that not a farm leader in his State whom he had been able to contact "has been willing to express himself as wholeheartedly for this bill."

Members of the Senate Agricultural Committee served notice yesterday they would hold extended hearings on the farm bill when it comes over from the House.

Farm leaders were advised informally the measure probably would not be enacted for a month or more. Senate leaders anticipate several important amendments, either in committee or from the floor.

HART HITS TUGWELL AS FRIEND OF REDS

Michigan Democrat Assails Economist as Framer of Farm Relief.

A vigorous denunciation of the alleged Communist sympathies of Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, marked the House debate yesterday on the farm bill.

Representative Hart, of Michigan, a Democrat, said Mr. Tugwell had been influential in framing the bill, in conference with farm leaders. He then read into the Record from a Communist magazine words of praise for the professor's earlier interest in communistic national planning.

Mordecai Ezekiel, who was described as an economic adviser of the Department of Agriculture, also was charged by Representative Hart with having helped frame the farm relief measure now before the House.

"Let us see who collaborated in the writing of this bill," Mr. Hart said. "Prof. Tugwell, of Columbia University, is the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture. Another professor or economist, Mordecai Ezekiel, was the economist who steered the farm bill through to its so-called successful conclusion. He is another one of the gentlemen who collaborated in the writing of this bill.

"Let us see who Tugwell is. He is a member of the advisory committee of the people's lobby. He is a member of a committee of the American Civil Liberties Union. This is the organization which defends anarchists when they shoot somebody. He is one of the ten contributors to Socialistic Planning and Socialistic Progress. This is Mr. Tugwell's history. He spent two years, I am told, in Russia. Mordecai Ezekiel, I am told, spent another year in Russia. Now let me quote from the Communist of January, 1930, quoting Mr. Tugwell:

This eminent professor of the University of Pennsylvania believes the only escape from the blind alley of growing unemployment is the creation of a national planning commission. To this, Prof. Tugwell, of Columbia University, who has been in the U. S. S. R., replied that, then it is necessary to study a planned system, not at a conference of New York and Philadelphia engineers and economists, but in the Moscow Gosplan (State Planning Commission), where it is actually functioning. But even that does not help, since the competitive system can not be reconciled with a planned system.

"This is from the Communist of January, 1930," Representative Hart continued. "I am not going to follow Communism. This bill bears all the evidence of a brainstorm. That is the only way I can account for it."

Earlier in his five-minute address, Representative Hart had explained he is generally disposed to support the party program in Congress. He is serving his second term, having been elected in the by-elections in November, 1931, which gave the Democrats control of the House in the Seventy-Second Congress.

"This measure will be passed under the cry of 'Back the President,'" Representative Hart said. "I am one of those who started backing our President way back in 1930. I backed him on his banking legislation; I voted for it. I backed him again on his economy measure."

After denouncing the activities of the farm lobby, he added: "I can not go along with any program of this kind."

Earlier in the debate Representative Clarke, of New York, ranking Republican member of the Agriculture Committee, had told the House, "If you read that book by Tugwell, you will find where the Soviet ideas and Socialistic tendencies of this bill come from."

Mr. Tugwell is author of a number of works on economics, including two on the Russian system of economic dictatorship.

U. S. WILL PROTECT JEWS IN GERMANY

Embassy in Berlin Ordered to Investigate Charges of Mistreatment.

(Associated Press.)

The United States moved promptly last night to obtain from its embassy in Berlin official information on complaint brought to the attention of the State Department by American Jews that members of their race are being mistreated by followers of Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

Immediately after receiving from a delegation headed by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, complaints of "indignities and outrages" against Jews in Germany, the department cabled Ambassador Sackett in Berlin telling of the "deep concern" being caused by these reports and asking detailed information as to their accuracy.

The action was interpreted as meaning that if the reports are verified officially the United States may make formal protest to the German government headed by the fiery Hitler, whose accession to power was marked by reports of widespread action against the Semetic classes.

The protest was laid before Undersecretary Phillips by Rabbi Wise, who is honorary president of the congress; Bernard Deutsch, New York, its president, and Max Rhoad, its Washington representative.

Earlier, Rabbi Wise appeared before the House Investigation Committee to lodge a protest.

The group told newspapermen as they left the State Department late yesterday that they had pointed out the American Government, thus far has done no more than protest on behalf of American nationals who had suffered mistreatment.

If the facts as learned officially by the department justify, they declared, they desired to have the Government take notice of the anti-Jewish campaign on general and humane grounds.

Rabbi Wise said the group was visiting various Government officials on the same errand.

Sergeant of Detectives Injured in Auto Crash

Detective Sergt. Thomas Nally, 53, of 238 Thirteenth street northeast, was seriously injured yesterday when his automobile was struck by another car at Illinois avenue and Upshur street northwest. He was treated at Casualty Hospital for a possible concussion of the brain, cuts and bruises.

William Napier, 21, McLean, Va., alleged driver of the other car, was held on a charge of reckless driving in connection with the collision.

foreign amity. "We who realize what sacrifice war entails desire to be honest friends of a peace that will at least heal the wounds from which all are suffering," he said.

It is almost an absolute certainty that under the Nazi aegis the Reichstag will pass an enabling act not only giving the government dictatorial powers, but completely setting aside the present constitution and abrogating rights considered sacred and fundamental in that constitution.

The adoption of this enabling act will mean that for four years democracy will be extinguished in Germany, in fact as well as in name, and that a new constitution on authoritary lines will be handed to the German nation.

The Reichstag functioned with drill field precision. Within 9 minutes organization was completed and within 25 minutes the first business session was adjourned until Thursday when Chancellor Hitler will deliver his first declaration of the govenrment's policy.

Tonight the government submitted for President von Hindenburg's signature a decree providing imprisonment at hard labor for persons found guilty of maliciously disseminating reports damaging to the prestige of the nation, of the government or of the political parties supporting the administration.

The decree also establishes the death penalty, in extreme cases, for unqualified wearers of party uniforms who commit illegal acts with the intention of terrorizing the people or causing difficulties with foreign nations. Proceedings against Germans who commit such acts abroad also are provided for.

This evening bonfires flared and torchlight parades were set in motion in all cities and hamlets as a sign of national jubilation.

Prague, March 21 (Jewish telegraphic Agency).—Large numbers of Jewish doctors from Berlin hospitals have arrived here for treatment following alleged mishandling by Nazis. Many of them said they had been forcibly ejected from the Berlin hospitals and beaten up.

FARM BOARD COST U. S. $350,000,000

Morgenthau Fixes Deficit; Will Check High Wages of Cooperatives.

(Associated Press.)

Henry Morgenthau, jr., new Farm Board chairman, yesterday estimated losses from the board's stabilization and other operations during the Hoover administration at about $350,000,000.

Of the original $500,000,000 fund placed in the hands of the board, Morgenthau explained there is a balance of about $38,000,000 in cash and "good loans" which he said former Chairman James C. Stone, who retired March 4, had estimated would bring the assets of the board to from $140,000,000 to $159,000,000.

In revealing portions of the new administration's policy, Morgenthau presented a detailed analysis of its cotton operations, which he said indicated a loss to date of $159,254,349. The revolving fund balance will be sufficient to carry out the board's new loan policy, under which it will continue making advances to cooperatives who are able to qualify. Each cooperative seeking aid hereafter will be examined thoroughly to determine its financial responsibility, Morgenthau said.

He will require budget estimates and added that the payment of "high salaries" would not be approved. Just what will be considered "high salaries" Morgenthau declined to explain.

"No loans will be made available for speculation," the chairman declared. "We want to help cooperatives continue their activities—we do not intend to do the sheriff act in cases where cooperatives now owe large sums."

Morgenthau reported that the Cotton Stabilization Corporation, set up by the board under the old administration to help "peg" cotton prices, would be abolished when its present holdings are disposed of, as will the Grain Stabilization Corporation of Chicago.

Kiwanis Charter Given To Club in Annapolis

Charter night of the Kiwanis Club of Annapolis, which was organized February 28, was observed at the Carvel Hall Hotel last night.

Edwin F. Hill, governor of the Capital District, presented the charter, which was accepted by Clarence M. White, sr., president of the Annapolis club. A Canadian flag was presented to the club by Dewey Zirkin, president of the Washington club; a United States flag by Lee D. Mahon, president of the Baltimore club, a gong and gavel by Lawrence E. Ensor, president of the Towson club, and a Kiwanis banner by Lawrence W. Hecht, president of the Havre de Grace club.

Petworth Group Ballots on Beer

Would Forbid Sale Within Mile of Soldiers Home.

Foreseeing the enactment of legislation legalizing beer in the District of Columbia, the Petworth Citizens Association last night passed a motion seeking the enforcement of the law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating beverages within one mile of Soldiers Home. The motion referred the porposed enforcement of the law to a zoning commission, with instructions to include a provision prohibiting the sale of intoxicants within two blocks of a school or church.

A voluminous report on unemployment in the District was submitted by a special welfare committee headed by Washington Y. Boyd. It was recommended by the committee that people receiving help from welfare groups be obliged to put in a certain amount of work on a "community farm or some other such enterprise."

A motion indorsing William McK. Clayton for Commissioner was passed by the association.

Hippo Is Ill

Bronx Zoo's Huge Boarder Has Mumps; Gargle Is Given With Hose.

New York, March 21 (A.P.).—Peter the Great, 34-year-old hippo at the Bronx Zoo, greeted spring today with an ailment diagnosed as mumps.

Off his diet, he ate only two bales of hay and two bushels of vegetables yesterday, instead of his normal ration of three bales and four bushels.

A zoo physician devised a gargle, which was administered with a garden hose. Peter didn't like it.

Keeper Fred Taggart tried to devise a bandage out of burlap sacks, but finally 36 yards of red flannel were ordered to warp around the hippo's neck.

Meanwhile, hot applications of spirits of turpentine and water were administered with a long-handled bill poster's brush.

After all that, the director of the zoo and the curator of mammals decided that Peter's condition might not be due to mumps at all, but just to a throat irritation caused by swallowing a cockle burr.

Playground Fund Urged by P.-T. A.

Langley Group in Favor of $15,000 Appropriation by Congress.

Launching a drive for the improvement of the Bloomingdale Playgound between Bryant street and the reservoir, the Langley Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association last night urged that Congress include an appropriation of $15,000 in the District budget for improvement of the recreation center.

The association also urged the District government to institute condemnation proceedings for the acquisition of two lots near the Emery School on Lincoln road northeast, to advance the expansion of the playground of this school.

The playground campaign has been mapped out by the Gage, Emery-Eckington, Langley and McKinley Parent-Teacher Associations and the North Capitol Citizens Association. These groups are responsible for the present recreation development in the northeast section.

MRS. WALKER SOBS AT DIVORCE HEARING

Husband's Attorney Admits That Plaintiff Has Proved Case.

Miami, Fla., March 21 (A.P.).—Sobbing as she testified, Mrs. Janet Allen Walker today said in divorce testimony that her husband, James J. (Jimmy) Walker, former Mayor of New York, deserted her without cause in 1928, and that he has since refused to live with her. She asked dissolution of the marriage on the grounds of desertion.

"It appears that she has proved her case," said Benjamin Cohen, Walker's attorney, when testimony before Master in Chancery T. J. Dowdell was completed.

"He just left," was Mrs. Walker's description of their separation. "I don't know that there is anything else I can say. Mr. Walker has left me—and that's all."

Master Dowdell was appointed by Circuit Judge W. W. Trammell to hear evidence in the case and recommend final disposition of the suit for divorce, which Mrs. Walker filed here last week.

Dowdell said he would make his recommendation tomorrow. Walker will not file an exception, Cohen said.

Walker, who resigned as Mayor of New York while proceedings for his removal were being heard by Franklin D. Roosevelt, then Governor of New York State, now is in Cannes, France.

Through his Miami counsel he entered a general denial to Mrs. Walker's charges that he deserted her, but beyond that he made no contest of the divorce action. He offered no testimony rebutting Mrs. Walker's claims.

Since their separation, Walker has contributed to her support, Mrs. Walker testified, and has "never been anything but kind in that respect."

Halloran Denies Guilt In Ruth Judd Murders

Phoenix, Ariz., March 21 (A.P.).—John J. Halloran, Phoenix lumberman, denied to the Arizona Board of Pardons and Paroles today that he ever had any knowledge of the slaying by Winnie Ruth Judd of Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, or that he aided or arranged to have the condemned woman helped in disposal of the bodies.

Mrs. Judd, in her self-defense plea to the board, made in an effort to escape the gallows for murder of Mrs. Leroi, had sought to involve the wealthy lumberman in events immediately subsequent to the slayings, including dismemberment of the body of Miss Samuelson and the sending of both bodies as baggage to Los Angeles.

BONDHOLDERS ASK STRAUS RECEIVER

Also Seek Removal of Banks From Management of Bonded Property.

New York, March 21 (A.P.).—A receiver for all the properties against which S. W. Straus & Co., Inc., sold bonds totaling $350,000,000 was asked in a motion filed late today in supreme court by Patrick Harrigan and other bondholders.

The receiver for the properties is sought in addition to the receiver appointed recently for the assets of the Straus company itself.

The motion also asks the removal of an "independent bondholders' committee," headed by Lewis H. Pounds, Republican mayoralty candidate last November, and George Gordon Battle, attorney.

Large Fees Charged.

The action charges that the Straus company has been collecting large fees through the appointment of various "protective committees" for defaulted bonds and that it recently brought into existence the "independent bondholders' committee" to continue to collect fees after consenting to the appointment of Louis F. Schultze as receiver for the company.

Besides Pounds and Battle, the committee includes Frank J. Murphy, Simon Newman, George W. Retz, John D. Rielly, George U. Tompers, A. L. Werner and Milton W. Eisenberg.

Further Action Asked.

The removal of five companies and four banks from the management of Straus bonded property also is asked. They are Reliance Property Management Co., Harvey Brokerage Co., Committee Service, Inc., New York Property Management, Inc., Straus Securities Co., Inc., Manufacturers Trust Co., Continental Bank & Trust Co., Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., and the Bank of Manhattan Trust Co.

The motion will be heard March 31.

The plaintiffs demanded that the defendants turn over to them a list of all the bondholders so that "a true bondholders' committee" could be formed.

Treason Trial Secret To Protect Witnesses

London, March 21 (A.P.).—All through this afternoon the doors of the hall at the Duke of York's Military School in Chelsea, where Lieut. Norman Baillie-Stewart is being tried on charges of having sold his country's military secrets, were locked and guarded.

Secret witnesses were giving evidence. Some of these witnesses are foreign subjects and, according to the prosecution, their lives might be jeopardized if their names were published. Only once during the afternoon were the doors opened and then two women came out and drove away in a taxicab. One of them was weeping.

TRIAL OF WADE BALL OPENS IN ARLINGTON

Jury Locked Up First Time Since 1922 in Shortage of $515,959.

Over objection of defense counsel, Judge Walter T. McCarthy, in the circuit court of Arlington County, yesterday ordered the jury in the case of E. Wade Ball, former county treasurer on trial for alleged failure to turn over county funds totaling $515,959, locked up. The jury, in custody of Sheriff Howard B. Fields and Deputy Sheriff Archie Richards, will be housed at the home of Edward Bell, Aurora Heights.

This is the first time since 1922, when the late Judge Samuel G. Brent is reported to have ordered a jury locked up in a murder case, Capt. Crandal Mackey, defense counsel, objected.

Attempt to Bar Denny.

The defense immediately upon the opening of the case lost its first skirmish.

Capt. Mackey attempted to have Assistant Attorney General Collins Denny, jr., barred from the case, claiming that the laws of the State did not permit him to act as prosecutor in the case since there were no State funds involved.

Judge McCarthy ruled that the objection had not been "in the proper forum."

The indictment was read charging Ball that when he resigned February 26, 1932, he should have turned over to the then county clerk, William H. Duncan, the sum of $515,959 of county funds, but instead he had misused, feloniously and knowingly misappropriated the said funds.

Ball in a clear voice said "Not guilty."

More than three hours were consumed questioning prospective jurors, during which time 25 were excused for various disqualifications, including the fact that they had read, discussed and formed a definite opinion of the case.

J. O. Gunter, Virginia Highlands, carpenter; Carl R. Fuss, salesman, Lyon Village; H. W. Beattie, Clarendon, electrician; E. J. Hoon, Thrifton Village, carpenter; Robert W. Livingston, Lyon Village, carpenter; Albert H. Solomon, Thrifton Village, Government surveyor; Robert Bullen, Barcroft, insurance; Albert F. Wood, Virginia Highlands, Government clerk; Esmond E. Davis, Virginia Highlands, Government clerk; Anthony Puelle, Barcroft, bricklayer; Walter J. Venske, Aurora Hills, Government clerk, and H. H. Glass, Virginia Highlands, carpenter.

Douglas Outlines Charges.

In his opening statement Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas told the jury the Commonwealth "would show that Ball was county treasurer from 1908 to February, 1932, inclusive, and it first came to the attention of county officials the latter part of February, 1932, that school bonds had not been paid, and further will show that State auditors came to the county that month and started investigation which developed that Ball showed a shortage in county funds of $515,959, which was not paid over to the county clerk when he resigned.

"The Commonwealth intends further to show that on June 30, 1930, from a paper in his own handwriting, he was accountable for $127,500, amount kited in checks. In June 30, 1931, the Commonwealth will also show that he again kited checks to the amount of $108,000.

"We are going to answer the question which is in the minds of the people of Arlington County of what became of the money—not all, but to a very substantial part of the $515,959," Mr. Douglas declared.

Capt. Mackey, in his opening address to the jury, declared: "For 13 months we have been trying to find out what our client is charged with. The indictment does not say grand larceny or embezzlement.

Report Termed Misleading.

"The report of the auditors I say is misleading and unjust. No one can understand it. The indictment does not say that Ball stole one cent. The State auditors never gave him an opportunity to explain anything. We will show that they have been dealing with a man upright in every particular and a model for the county to pattern after."

Following a short recess the State opened its case with the questioning of Ralph E. Remmington, deputy clerk of the court, which was carried on by Collins Denny, jr.

Mr. Remmington was only questioned to the extent of identifying the signature of Ball to his resignation under date of February 26, 1932, and the court order signed by Judge McCarthy directing Ball to turn over all funds and books in his office to Mr. Duncan.

their group a strong board of directors and that board will elect officers. The new stockholders may elect any of the present bank officers they desire, and this will insure an efficiently managed institution with ample capital and surplus as well as the advantages of a national bank and the Federal Reserve System.

While the bank is now operating on a restricted basis, Mr. Clarke reminded that there has been no question at any time upon the part of Treasury Department regarding its solvency. The service of its present officers will be available to cooperate with the new venture, he said, and it is apparent that all of them probably will be continued in office.

The present directorate of the bank is composed of William P. Ames, William W. Anderson, Alphonse M. Baer, Emory H. Bogley, B. Agee Bowles, William H. Clarke, Davenport B. Elgin, Harry K. Hobart, James C. Hoyle, Frank A. Kerr, Malcolm W. Morgan, George W. Offutt, Henry W. Offutt, C. Wendel Shoemaker, J. William Stohlman, Henry A. Storm, J. Clinton Tribby, Joseph M. Wise.

Its officers are George W. Offutt, president; Alphonse M. Baer and B. Agee Bowles, vice presidents; C. Wendel Shoemaker, cashier; Emory H. Bogley, secretary; Elmore T. Burdette, assistant cashier. The bank was incorporated under the laws of Virginia in 1903 and opened for business May 18, that year, at Wisconsin avenue and N street northwest. In December, 1905, it moved to more spacious quarters at the northeast corner of Wisconsin avenue and M street, now occupied by the Farmers & Mechanics Branch of Riggs National Bank. On October 1, 1909, it removed to its present location at the northwest corner of Wisconsin avenue and M street northwest, which it rebuilt in 1919, thrice enlarging its floor space.

G. M. C. AND R. F. C. BACK DETROIT BANK

(Associated Press.)

With the Government matching dollar for dollar with the General Motors Corporation, to raise $25,000,000 as capital, there was created today the National Bank of Detroit, a new institution to provide adequate banking facilities for the Michigan city.

The new bank, the first formed under President Roosevelt's emergency bank law, will take over part of the assets of the First National Bank of Detroit and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce of the automobile city, assuming also part of the deposits of both. The remaining assets of the old banks will be liquidated to the depositors by the Comptroller of the Currency.

Announcement of the formation of the bank was made in a joint statement by Jesse H. Jones, of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Alfred P. Sloan, jr., president of the General Motors Corporation.

Partnership Affair.

They said the motors corporation had underwritten $12,500,000 of common stock of the bank and had paid for it in cash, while the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had subscribed for $12,500,000 of the institution's preferred stock.

In administering the new law, Jones said, the Reconstruction Corporation has adopted the principle of matching dollars with the stockholders and depositors of banks in aiding them to reopen or to organize by subscribing a dollar of preferred stock, where they subscribe a dollar of common stock.

"When necessary," he said, "the Government will endeavor to help those who help themselves, but can not be expected to furnish all of the new capital required."

Temporary Arrangement.

In the joint statement, Sloan said General Motors underwrote the common stock of the new bank as its contribution toward settling the "very serious situation" which existed in Detroit and not with any desire to enter the banking field there or elsewhere.

He said all depositors and stockholders of the old banks would be given opportunity to subscribe for stock of the new bank at the same price paid for it by General Motors, which was $50 a share.

Sloan added that as soon as the banking situation was stabilized he hoped General Motors could withdraw entirely from the bank.

The joint statement said that, depending upon legal details and agreement with the old banks, it was hoped the depositors of the old institutions would get about 40 per cent of their deposits immediately.

James R. Postal Is Dead at Detroit

R. F. C. Examiner, Native of Michigan, Had Lived in Washington.

James R. Postal, 49, Reconstruction Finance Corporation examiner, died Monday in Detroit, Mich., at the home of a friend, Mel D. Wilson, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Mr. Postal, who had been ill for more than a month, had gone to Michigan to recuperate. He had been a resident of Washington for about a year, living at the Hay-Adams House.

Before accepting his position as an examiner of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Mr. Postal was a vice president of the Central National Bank, New York, and subsequently held the same position with the Chatham-Phenix National Bank & Trust Co., there.

He was born in Evart, Mich., and was a graduate of the University of Michigan. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Ide Postal, who was with him when he died. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

MANDAMUS GRANTED IN 2 PUPILS' BARRING

Dr. Ballou Is Ordered by District Supreme Court to Appear March 30.

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of public schools, yesterday was ordered by the District Supreme Court to appear on March 30 and show cause why he should not be compelled to reinstate the children of H. H. Entz in Thomson School.

Through Attorney Daniel S. Ring, Mr. Entz yesterday informed the court in a petition for a mandamus that the Entz children, Barbara Louise and Daniel J. Entz, had been vaccinated once by Dr. R. M. Rosenberg.

That, he contended, complied with the law which directs that school children be vaccinated. However, he said, on March 16 and succeeding dates the children had been forcibly restrained from entering school.

Mr. Entz, who resides at 1224 Thirteenth street northwest, claimed he had fully complied with the law.

Family Quits Scene After Kidnap Notes

Porters Leave When More Threats Are Received in Fredericksburg.

Fredericksburg, Va., March 21 (A.P.).—The H. P. Porter family, whose four-month-old daughter has been the object of threatening kidnaping notes, quietly left Stafford County during the past week-end, authorities here disclosed today.

Commonwealth's Attorney G. B. Wallace said the family went to the home of Mr. Porter's mother in Massachusetts.

Notes sent to Caroline Musante, 14, who was abducted and questioned about the Porter family, have threatened the safety of the infant, authorities said.

Mr. Wallace revealed, also, the receipt of two more menacing notes by Caroline at Stafford High School, where she is a pupil, making a total of four.

MISS PERKINS IS COMPILING LABOR DATA FOR QUICK USE

Miss Perkins expressed determination in tossing out all what she termed "ballyhoo" in connection with the recent campaign against alien racketeering. The "secret service" was organized by Doak.

Mme. Secretary said she was alarmed at the expenditure of the $200,000 fund and declared that she was forced to act promptly in face of only $12,970 remaining in the appropriation March 15 to cover a monthly salary scale of $11,168 and $4,000 for expenses.

Miss Perkins was all serenity at the press conference and answered every question frankly and in such a lucid manner that the members of the press, not labor experts, could follow her line of thought. She held her ground against some of the onslaught, this rather pretty woman with healthy color in each cheek.

She wore a smart black crepe de chine dress made with a surplice front filled in with crisp white mull to match the white mull bow pulled through an eyelet in the dress. Her hat was of black felt, with a white feather at one side. While she made no attempt to cut short the press conference the woman Secretary of Labor gave warning that she must leave in time to be present at the Cabinet meeting at the White House. "I always make it a rule to be on time at a Cabinet meeting," she said, "for I am not going to let the men members point to the woman as the late one."

An important announcement made by Secretary Perkins was the proposed reorganization of the Federal employment service. She said that, at the present time, it is not possible to give out definite plans, but that she hopes to make this service more practical and immediately useful.

Silent on Appointment.

Secretary Perkins would not make any announcement on the matter of a new Commissioner of Labor Statistics as such an appointment is in the hands of the President of the United States. Miss Perkins did announce, however, that the American Statistical Society of which Steuart Rice is president will be asked to appoint a commission to make a survey of Government work relating to its adequacy, scope and kindred essentials. She believes that such a survey by these expert statisticians is important to the methods, extension and expansion to cover each community.

The object of this is to get at material which will be of vital use at once. She praised the statisticians of the Labor Department, but pointed out the need of a stading advisory commission being appointed to work with the Secretary and the department's statistical bureau.

The new Secretary of Labor made it plain that she is anxious to give out information important to labor and the public and talked over with the newspaper representatives the best methods of doing this.

In explaining the abolishment of the staff of employes of the Labor Department working under the section having to do with the investigation and control of importation of alien contract labor, Miss Perkins said that this was an economy measure. When she took her place in the Labor Department she found that the appropriations for this staff were exhausted. On March 6 she sent an order for all these agents, some of them in distant parts of the country, and some in foreign countries, to return to their homes.

Laws on Immigration.

In regard to the immigration laws the new Secretary of Labor says that the object is to comply with the laws as well as enforce them. She said that she intends to concentrate and centralize much of the work of this important part of departmental activity in order to eliminate confusion.

Secretary Perkins said she regretted the lack of clear understanding of laws, codes and court decisions by the public. She expressed the intention to make these clear and available for everybody. She holds that all persons interested should be given opportunity to know all they want to know of such matters.

The Secretary expressed herself as being extremely interested in the Children's Bureau of which Miss Grace Abbott is chief, and the Woman's Bureau, of which Miss Mary Anderson is chief. She would not make a statement on the possibility of the success of a number of "pet projects" these two women chiefs have urged for a number of years.

U.S. ARMS EMBARGO DENOUNCED BY FISH

House Committee Action on Resolution Delayed by Criticism.

(Associated Press.)

Stiff opposition on the ground that it would further embroil the United States in troublous foreign affairs yesterday delayed House Foreign Affairs Committee approval of a resolution that would give President Roosevelt the right to declare embargoes against shipments of munitions to disputing nations.

Democratic leaders indicated, however, they expected the resolution to be approved by the committee shortly and adopted by the House, since the President has asked for the authority.

The administration's desires, and practical questions of how the new authority would be used, were explained to the committee in executive session yesterday by Joseph R. Green, the State Department's munitions expert.

He said the resolution would let the Executive declare an embargo against arms shipments to any country, provided he could get a similar agreement from the other principal munitions-producing nations.

The State Department has not spoken publicly as to whether it would use the new measure in Manchuria, but Representative Fish (Republican), New York, in a statement after yesterday's hearings, said:

"This proposed embargo is not an act of peace but an act of war. If applied to Japan, which, in my judgment, is the main purpose of the resolution, it would mean that the United States would be holding the bag for the League of Nations and eventually have to do all the fighting."

91-Day U. S. Offer Is Oversubscribed

Loan to Take Place of Tax Receipts in Extension Is $100,000,000.

The short-term Treasury loan to provide funds in place of income tax receipts during the extension of time for filing income tax returns was oversubscribed nearly four times, the Treasury announced today.

The issue was $100,000,000 of 91-day Treasury bills, and tenders in the amount of $386,000,000 were received. Tenders totaling $100,569,000 were accepted, at prices ranging from 99.826 to 99.494. The average rate of interest on these prices, on a bank discount basis, was about 1.83 per cent. This interest rate is lower than that of the March 6 issue of bills, but is higher than rates prior to this month.

Income tax receipts for March 18, announced yesterday, were $24,077,637, as compared with $28,509,044 on March 17, and to a high mark for this year of $35,585,679 on March 16. Collections this month are still about $2,000,000 behind a similar period last year, the figures being: 1933, $122,254,602; 1932, $124,581,907.

Police Hold Wife In Stabbing Case

Woman Alleged to Have Cut Wrist and Wounded Husband in Home.

Police are holding Mrs. Alice Hamilton, 35, on a charge of investigation, for questioning about an altercation in her home at 3505 Brothers place southeast, where her husband, Robert E. Hamilton, 32, was stabbed in the abdomen and seriously wounded yesterday.

The stabbing occurred during a quarrel between the pair, according to Detective John Boxwell, of the Eleventh Precinct. Mrs. Hamilton was said to have seized a 15-inch butcher knife and attacked her husband, who she claimed was under the influence of liquor.

They were treated at Casualty Hospital, Mr. Hamilton for the abdomen wound, and his wife for a cut, allegedly self-inflicted, on the wrist. Mr. Hamilton was unable to make any statement. The couple have seven children.

New Hampshire House Votes Liquor Control

Concord, N. H., March 21 (A.P.).—The House of Representatives of the New Hampshire Legislature, by a vote of 233 to 146, this afternoon passed a bill which provides for State controled sale of liquor. The measure now goes to the State Senate.

The proposed law would not become effective until 30 days after possible repeal of the eighteenth amendment and then only if New Hampshire has voted for ratification of the repeal amendment. A State board would be created under control of the governor.

Child Kills Tax Collector.

Cruz Alta, Argentina, March 21 (A.P.).—A boy of 5, Ricardo Pignon, today shot and killed a tax collector, Pedro Bernaola, when the collector visited his grandfather's home. The boy said that he heard the visitor demand money and believed him to be a kidnaper, because he had heard much discussion recently of abductions and kidnapings.

Free Tune

Barnacle Bill, the Sailor, Whistles Self Out of Fine and Term.

Setting his lips to the tune of "My Wild Irish Rose," Tex Latches, known to radio fans, he said, as "Barnacle Bill, the Sailor," yesterday whistled himself out of a sentence of 30 days in jail or a fine of $150.

He did it thus:

Placed on trial on a liquor violation charge, Latches claimed he had served in the war and had never been in trouble before. Then he informed Assistant United States Attorney Roger Robb that he was a professional whistler, and that he had made appearances on the radio. Judge Isaac R. Hitt, informed of the assertion, directed the man to do his stuff.

When he had completed the tune, Hitt complimented him, and directed that he be given a suspended sentence. Tex smiled broadly as he left the courtroom, vowing to confine his artistry to whistling.

MAJ. S. W. SAXTON FUNERAL IS TODAY

One of Oldest of Surviving Union Officers Was in 104th Year.

Funeral services for Maj. S. Willard Saxton, 103, who before his death Sunday was probably the oldest surviving officer of the Civil War, will be held today at 1:30 p. m. at the S. H. Hines funeral home. Interment with full military honors will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Maj. Saxton, who would have been 104 years old in August, died at his home, 1347 Harvard street. A native of Massachusetts, he learned the printing trade at 15, and in 1853 went West, working along the then transcontinental railway. From the West he went to Memphis, Tenn., where he again entered the printing trade. He joined the Union Army in 1861 and was made a major in 1865, after having served as a captain on the staff of his brother, Gen. Rufus Saxton.

He came to Washington to live shortly before the close of the war, when stationed in the Capital as a member of the staff of Gen. O. O. Howard. After the war, he was employed in the Treasury Department, Commerce Department and Census Bureau, retiring from Government service in 1921.

He is survived by four children, Edward H. Saxton, of Boston; Mrs. Harry L. Clapp, of Chicago; Mrs. James E. Miller, of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Rees E. McDuffie, of Guilford, Conn., and five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

MRS. M'CONNELL DIES.

Charity Worker Succumbs After Long Illness; Funeral Tomorrow.

Mrs. Lucy C. McConnell, 66, died last night at her home, 417 Fourth street northeast, following a long illness.

A native of Manchester, Iowa, Mrs. McConnell came to Washington about 23 years ago. She was active in charity in the city and was a member of the National City Christian Church at Thomas Circle.

She is survived by her husband, Thomas C. McConnell, a retired Government clerk.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at National City Christian Church. Interment will be in Manchester.

MRS. L. M. HAWES RITES.

Widow of Former Justice Department Employe Buried in Connecticut.

Mrs. Louise M. Hawes, widow of William H. H. Hawes, at one time connected with the Justice Department here, died Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Minnie H. Hilton, of Newburgh, N. Y. Funeral services were held at Newburgh on Saturday. Interment was in New London, Conn., her former home.

She is survived by her daughter, two sons, Richard P. and John G., of this city, and three grandchildren.

Transfusion Studied To Save Lambert's Life

Columbus, Ohio, March 21 (A.P.).—Doctors tonight considered resorting to a blood transfusion in an effort to save the life of Dr. F. A. Lambert, well-known football official and member of the advisory council of the National Football Rules committee, who was shot today by his 17-year-old son during a family quarrel.

Dr. Lambert was unconscious in a local hospital with a wound inflicted by a bullet which grazed a lung and penetrated the liver. Before lapsing into unconsciousness, however, he absolved his son of all blame, saying the youth shot in self-defense. Mrs. Lambert told police she called the boy to her assistance when her husband attempted to choke her and twist her arm.

SIDNEY BESSELIEVRE SERVICES ARE TODAY

Retired Naval Architect Was Prominent in Masonic and Civic Circles.

Funeral services for Sidney I. Besselievre, 70, secretary and director of the District National Bank, who died Sunday at his home, 117 Rock Creek Church road, following a heart attack, will be held today at 3 p. m. at the home. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery. The Rev. John C. Palmer, Masonic grand chaplain of the District, will officiate.

A native of Philadelphia, Mr. Besselievre devoted most of his life to naval architecture. He retired from the Government service as a naval architect in 1906, after 25 years in that department, to practice his profession privately.

He was educated in the public schools of Philadelphia and later at Georgetown Law School and St. John's College, Annapolis.

Came to Washington.

He began service in the Navy in 1880 as an apprentice in the shipfitters' shop in the Philadelphia Navy Yard. Later he went to Roach's Shipyard, Chester, and to Columbian Iron Works, Baltimore, where he became draftsman in charge. He came to Washington in 1889 and entered the Bureau of Construction and Repair, Navy Department.

While a resident of Washington Mr. Besselievre became closely connected with the commercial, social and fraternal activities of the city. He was one of the organizers in 1906 of the Citizens Savings Bank, which was consolidated with the District National Bank in 1912.

Was Prominent Mason.

He was secretary of Benjamin B. French Lodge, No. 15, F. A. A. M., and a member of Mount Vernon Chapter, R. A. M.; Albert Pike Consistory, Almas Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S.; past grand regent, Grand Council, Royal Arcanum; past vice president of the District Society, Sons of the American Revolution, and a member of many other organizations.

In 1884 he married Miss Nellie M. Ecker, of Philadelphia, who survives him. He also is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Nellie B. Lamb and Mrs. Jessie B. Hamilton, and five grandchildren.

MRS S. R. SHAFER DIES.

Widow of Former Olney Resident to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Mrs. Susan Rebecca Shafer, widow of Andrew Shafer, of Olney, Md., died yesterday at Montgomery County Hospital following a short illness.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. from the Brookville M. P. Church. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

REV. N. J. KINNEY RITES.

Held at Methodist Protestant Church; Burial Will Be in Ohio.

Funeral services for the Rev. Nicholas J. Kinney, 77, who died of a heart attack while attending Sunday school at Rhode Island Avenue Methodist Protestant Church, were held yesterday at 2:30 p. m. at the church.

FOUR BILLS PROPOSE TEACHER PAY CUTS

Ritchie Program Introduced; Washington County Local Liquor Option Voted.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 21.—The administration program, carrying cuts in teachers' salaries ranging from 10 to 15 per cent and otherwise affecting the public education system of Maryland under reductions made by Gov. Ritchie in his budget, is incorporated in four bills presented in the Senate today by Senator Ridgeley P. Melvin, Anne Arundel County chairman of the Senate education committee. Reductions in the original budget estimates aggregate $1,000,000.

Salary cuts would affect superintendents in the several counties, down to the lowest paid teachers. The scale would be 10 per cent for those receiving $1,200 or less; 11 per cent, between $1,200 and less than $1,800; 12 per cent, $1,800 and less and $2,400; 13 per cent, $2,400 and less than $3,000; 14 per cent, $3,000 and less than $3,600; 15 per cent, above $3,600.

All to be Affected.

Teachers in white and colored schools alike will be affected, as also will supervisors, helping teachers and attendance officers, and it is stated there will be no increases above the scale for 1932-33, because of additional expense.

The second bill is the school equalization fund measure, reducing from 60 to 47 cents, the amount each county must levy. This bill also stipulates that the counties provide the minimum program necessary for transporting children to elementary schools, and half the cost of conveying high school pupils.

The third bill reduces from 34 to 30 cents to a minimum tax levy for school maintenance in nonequalization fund counties, while the fourth proposal makes it possible for boards of education to fix uniform fees and tuition charges at State normal schools for white pupils.

Liquor Bill Passed.

By a vote of 81 to 21 the House passed the local option liquor bill for Washington County. The measure carries a referendum provision. The House also approved, 96 to 16, the bill liberalizing the Sunday blue laws for Baltimore County, by permitting movies and other forms of entertainment. Similar measures applying to Allegany, Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties also are on the road to passage by the House.

Glenn L. Martin, airplane builder, was before the House ways and means committee advocating a proposal counter to that in a pending bill authorizing a bond issue of $4,000,000 for widening Philadelphia road from Baltimore to the Delaware State line to 40 feet. He urged the committee to discard that plan, and build a new road paralleling the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad as far as Aberdeen.

Arlington Kiwanis Club Inducts Members Today

The quarterly installation of new members of the Kiwanis Club of Arlington County will be held at a luncheon meeting at Windsor Arms at 12:30 p. m. today. It will be in charge of Harold A. Whittle, chairman of the committee on Kiwanis education. The new members are Bailey P. Byars, Basil DeLashmutt and Ernest B. Seering. Edwin F. Hill, governor of the Capital District of Kiwanis, will be installed as an honorary member of the club. President John F. Webster will preside.

A number of members of the Arlington club went to Annapolis, Md., last night to participate in the chartering of the new club there. Other clubs participating were those from Washington, Alexandria, Baltimore, Towson and Havre de Grace.

U. S.-BRITISH DEBT TALKS START SOON

ward assuring congressional approval of any solution of the debt situation that is made by the President and his Secretary of State.

Reports had suddenly come to the surface of international waters that the United States was prepared to consider a general postponement of the June 15 debt payments, pending a settlement of the problem either on a lump sum basis or on an echelonned agreement. This report was denied yesterday in high quarters as extremely tendentious and with no basis for factual acceptance. On the contrary, the United States needs more than ever the increments that are expected to form the total of the June 15 amounts, payments which will be considerably in excess of the December 5 total. This total would have been more than $120,000,000 if all the countries had made their payments. However, notably in the cases of France and Belgium, these payments were not made, although there have been indications here that payment of the French amount was to be either coincident with the arrival of the new French Ambassador, Lefebvre de la Boulaye, or even before his arrival.

The adjustment of the British debt problem will first be undertaken by this Government. Of late there has been a stiffening of the British attitude with regard to the tariff concessions and exchange understandings that the United States regards as necessary preliminaries to the debt settlement. As revealed here yesterday, the British authorities consider that they are feeling no discomforts from the fluctuations of the British pound sterling and that its stabilization would render such a service to the international credit markets that they should not be asked to make any other sacrifices. The payment of the British debt on December 15 assured their international credit, even at the cost of considerable internal financial flurry, and the opinion seems to be gaining ground that another such effort, if the forthcoming negotiations are not harmoniously concluded before June 15, will be more than the present British financial situation can stand.

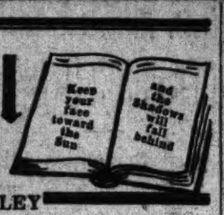
The Federal Diary



By GEORGE D. RILEY

IF you are a stamp collector you probably already know or have heard of Michael L. Eidsness, jr., superintendent, division of stamps, Postoffice Department. If you do not collect stamps it is well to know Mr. Eidsness, for sooner or later you probably will add stamp collecting as a hobby. Most everyone else has the hobby.

And more strangely, Mr. Eidsness is not a stamp collector himself. Nor is any one in the agency. It has become a fixed rule that there shall be no possibility of charging any employe with discrimination in the equitable distribution of stamps to collectors. Hence the rule.

But the boss of the division of stamps does have his hobbies. Mention baseball, boxing and juvenile stamp collectors and you've struck topics, the language Mr. Eidsness speaks fluently. Some day we'd not be surprised but what Mr. Eidsness will write the story of his experiences officially with stamp collectors. They should be of far more than ordinary interest.

In passing, this brief sketch would not be complete if we failed to mention Mrs. Louise Shawen, Mr. Eidsness' secretary efficient, who is his "right hand man." And Mrs. Shawen has been associated with the division of stamps seventeen years.

And, as superintendent of the stamp division, Mr. Eidsness has charge of production, issuances, accounting and redemption of all postage-stamped paper. His duties do not end there. He also has direct charge of stamps, hundreds of thousands of dollars worth annually distributed to stamp collectors.

M. L. Eidsness.

Mr. Eidsness literally knows his business from foundation up, for it was on July 1, 1907, that he was appointed page boy at $360 a year in the Postoffice Department. The next year he became personal page to Postmaster General Meyer. Two years later, 1910, he rose to clerk, division of stamps, where he discharged various assignments.

After handling a heavy job as chief of the war savings unit, supervising war savings and internal revenue activities covering the issuance and accounting of more than two billion dollars in various securities, he then became head of the division of stamps.

STRANGELY enough, while the Postoffice Department wrestles with an annual deficit, the Philatelic Agency, subunit of the stamp division, is on a paying basis. Stamp collectors are helping Uncle Sam carrying his postal burden. Although formed twelve years ago, the Philatelic Agency was founded with little thought of profit.

AIN'T IT SO?

FOUND: Yesterday near high noon, a real optimist in the Government service. When Swarmi Fedd spied him he was wearing sun glasses. You know what kind of day it was.

STILL they come. The more the merrier.

Success of The Federal Diary's jig-saw puzzle tournament at the Kennedy-Warren the evening of March 30 is more nearly assured.

Yesterday's entrants included Miss Ora A. Smith, War; Hoyt Barnett, Commerce; Walter Heiner, Architect's Office, Treasury; O. A. Martens, Internal Revenue, and Helen P. Taylor, General Accounting Office.

Come just a little closer now and let's talk about the rules:

Each entrant is entitled to bring a friend. The friend may or may not be in the Government service and will be known as the "kabitzer." In golf, it's a "gallery." In bridge and jig saws, it's a "gallery." You will not find "kabitzer" in the dictionary. But a kabitzer is your public, who urges you on and who makes those remarks, sometimes irritatingly, sometimes helpful, oftentimes amusing. But be sure to bring your kabitzer. Havv Fredd has agreed to be Swarmi Fedd's kabitzer.

ONLY the entrant may actually work the puzzle. But for "time out," the kabitzer may "sit in." Suppose Swarmi Fedd wants to light a cigarette to regain his nonchalance or get a cup of coffee so the puzzle pieces will not run together of their own accord; that's "time out." Then the kabitzer may assume an important place at the table and jiggle the jig saws. You might call it teamwork. You might not. Play starts promptly at 8:15 p. m. So be there at 8 p. m. and you'll be "in." Maybe later you'll be "all in."

Swarmi Fedd was seen at his old tricks of window shopping yesterday. "That would be a nice prize for the ladies," he mused. Mr. Fedd's mind naturally dwells on the ladies. He promises to say soon what the prizes will be, but meantime, that coupon, where is it?

Mr. Livingston now is engaged in an economic research statistical service in a Midwestern city.

A RAPIDLY increasing demand for teachers who understand parent problems and who have more knowledge of child development preceding school experience is resulting in a greater interest in nursery schools throughout the United States, according to the Federal Office of Education.

"The preschool years are being recognized as of more developmental importance than any succeeding period of life," says Mary Dabney Davis, office of education specialist in nursery-kindergarten-primary education.

More than half of the nursery schools in the country are now sponsored by or served in some way by colleges and universities for which they act as laboratories in the preparation of teachers, and for research in the field of child development.

Serving parents, public health and social welfare workers, student teachers and research workers in such fields as nutrition, psychology, medicine and sociology, nursery schools are found in 121 cities of 35 States, the District of Columbia and Hawaii. New York has 35 schools, California 21, Illinois 19, Michigan 17, Massachusetts 15, Ohio and Pennsylvania 11 each. More than three-fourths of the schools have been organized since 1925. Children in attendance range from 2 years 8 months to 4 years 2 months. The average age range within the groups is 2 years 5 months.

A friend of mine grew excited when he read a headline "Senators Favor 15% Cut," until he discovered it referred to Government clerks' pay and not mortgages. The question of the hour is: Will gullible Government clerks persist in paying union officials nice, juicy salaries in spite of the fact that these officials favored a 15% pay cut for them?

"Ain't" it funny? The big boys always call their own views "Educational," while they label the little fellows' ideas "propaganda."

BILL AT ANNAPOLIS ASKS PARK LEASES

Changes in Hyattsville Paving Regulations Is Object of Another Measure.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 21.—The Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission would be empowered to lease or rent lands acquired for park purposes in the Metropolitan District, for concessions or other business enterprises, under terms of a bill presented in the House of Delegates today by Dr. George Edmunds, chairman, in behalf of the Montgomery County delegation.

The Prince Georges County delegation offered a measure amending the charter of the town of Brentwood to make June 30 the limit for the payment of taxes in the fiscal year, and directing the sale of property upon which taxes are unpaid. A year and a day would be allowed delinquents to redeem their property under provisions of the bill.

Another bill by the Prince Georges delegation embraces regulations governing street improvements in Hyattsville. It provides that whenever laying pavements, curbing or other kindred improvements are to be made, the mayor and council of the town must first obtain consent of more than 50 per cent of abutting property owners.

Three new measures proposing legislation for Frederick County also originated in the House. One provides for making the county's fiscal year the same as the calendar year, instead of the subdivision as of July and January under present law, and the county commissioners would be required to make the annual levy as of January 1. Another places the sheriff on a flat salary of $2,250 per year, in lieu of fees. Under existing law the sheriff's pay is left to the discretion of the county commissioners. The sheriff would have power to appoint an office deputy, two riding deputies, a jail warden, and turnkey, whose salaries would be paid by the commissioners out of fees from the sheriff's office.

Epping Forest on the Severn River, a community colonized largely by Washingtonians, would be incorporated and have a mayor and council as governing body under terms of a bill by Delegate Zachariah Johnson, chairman of the Anne Arundel County delegation. The council would be vested with powers similar to other like bodies, and the bill, among other things, directs an issue of $10,000 bonds to provide for water and electric light plants.

Reeder Urges Legion Unity to Get Results

Solidarity of membership is the best way legionnaires can protect their rights, Vice Commander G. Stuart Reeder of the Southern Maryland District, American Legion, told members of the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Post, American Legion, at a meeting last night in the County Building at Bethesda.

Vice Commander John Mann of the post presented the names of fifteen new members for admittance to membership. The post also voted to aid Citizens Military Training Camp enlistments. A buffet supper was served after the meeting at the Masonic Temple in Bethesda.

Dewey set forth in his affidavit that Mitchell's tax return for 1929 showed a purported net loss for the year of $48,000 and that accordingly he had paid no tax. Dewey personally examined Mitchell, who voluntarily submitted last Thursday, the affidavit said.

Sylvester Surrenders.

Horace C. Sylvester, jr., vice president of the National City Co., surrendered today on a third degree forgery charge growing out of a $10,020 loan made to John E. Ramsey when he was general manager of the Port of New York Authority.

Sylvester pleaded not guilty and was held for trial under $2,500 bond furnished by a surety company.

Ramsey resigned recently as general manager of the port authority after it was disclosed that he had received the loan in 1931 while the National City Co. was managing a syndicate organized to dispose of $66,000,000 worth of port authority bonds.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT is one of the more insistent suggestions reaching this column that there is a picture in the offing which Washington will view with unusual interest and pleasure. Its locale is wholly within the National Capital and events of prime importance to this community are pictured necessarily throughout the length of the film.

Of course, these reports could not pertain to any film play but "Gabriel Over the White House," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production scheduled for the Palace Theater the week beginning Friday, March 31.

The cast of "Gabriel Over the White House" is headed by Walter Huston, in the role of the President, Karen Morley and Franchot Tone. None of these sterling players has been what might be termed prevalent on local screen these past few weeks. Of Miss Morley it may be said that she is more or less becoming the official feminine exponent of what young women prominent in Washington are like.

It leaks out that City Manager Carter Barron and his associates on the loewcal Loew staff sneaked a look at "Gabriel Over the White House" yesterday and were so impressed by the many virtues it possesses—especially now that they have called in all the prints and completely remade the portions pertaining to the hunger marchers and their Washington foray—that they are intent on screening it for the ladies and gentlemen (sic) of the dramatic desks not later than tomorrow noon.

Incidentally, the same week "Gabriel Over the White House" is penciled in for the Palace, the stage at Loew's Fox will be occupied by Signor Ruggiero Egenia di Rudolpho Columbo, the twelfth son of an Italian contractor living in San Francisco, where he was born in 1908—the son, not the contractor—and his orchestra.

Reduced to its lowest common denominator, that would be Russ Columbo and His Band.

And speaking of orchestras, as nobody was up to a moment ago, word reached the dramatic desks yesterday morning from Mr. John O'Connor, a fellow who hangs out at 1697 Broadway, in New York, that Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians will open a week's engagement at the Earle Theater on Friday, April 28.

This should make about the thirty-somethingth week the Pennsylvanians have played for the Crandall-Stanley-Warner interests in Washington, having made their first local appearance at the Metropolitan under these eager auspices.

For the Earle engagement, the orchestra will be augmented by the Lane Sisters, "Babs" and Her Boys and Tom Waring, whose ballading has been sorely missed on the Pennsylvanians' recent past appearances in the Capital.

It was Tom's warbling of "Sleep," "I'll See You in My Dreams," "Sleepy Time Gal" and other somnolent lullabies that was a prime factor in the band's early success here. His presence now will add 50 per cent to the organization's box-office pull.

But the day's grist does not consist exclusively of items of the cinema and its stages.

From Charles Washburn, outrider of America's First Gentleman of the Theater, one learns that "Pigeons and People," which George M. Cohan is bringing into the National Theater next Monday night as an American Theater Society attraction, represents approximately the eighty-second play Mr. Cohan has written for, or adapted to, the native stage.

And from Patterson McNutt—who is by way of being a brother of William Slavens McNutt, celebrated writer and scenarist—one of the early harbingers of Rachel Crothers' "When Ladies Meet," announced for the National the week of April 3, who accompanied Mr. Washburn on his weary Tuesday round of the newspaper offices, are to be apprehended tidings of great joy concerning the cast of Miss Crothers' sparkling comedy.

It seems that Selena Royle, Spring Byington, Herbert Rawlinson and Walter Abel all contribute importantly to a sprightly evening in the theater in this gracious work.

And you may care to know that in addition to signalizing Grace Moire's vaudeville debut at Loew's Fox, this Friday, March 24, also will mark the first anniversary of Phil Lampkin's engagement as "guest conductor" at the same theater. Mr. Lampkin has done splendid work during his first year on F street. After four or five years more, I hope they make it permanent!

Also, Manager Hardie Meakin of RKO-Keith's is entertaining the active membership of the National Press Club and their ladies as his guests at tomorrow night's midnight public preview of "King Kong," the gooseflesh epic.

Well, even if they HAD issued scrip, what makes you think you could have got hold of any of it?

ALEXANDRIA COUNCIL MEETS INFORMALLY

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

An informal meeting of the Alexandria City Council was held last night, at which a representative of the auditing firm of Ernst & Ernst, of Baltimore, which recently conducted an audit of the city's financial affairs, explained the new system of bookkeeping.

City Attorney Carl L. Budwesky proposed to carry out the recommendations of the auditors. Final action is expected to be taken at the next meeting, Tuesday night.

In reference to the suggestion made that the commissioner of revenue examine all unpaid personal property and by the tax bills for 1932, and certify a list of all bills representing erroneous assessments to the city collector, Mr. Budwesky suggested there are several possible objections to this procedure, one being that this service is not required of the commissioner by law, and that an assessment once made by the commissioner is assumed to be correct until the taxpayer shows that it is erroneous.

It is also recommended that a card index system be etsablished in the office of the commissioner of revenue for records of personal property taxes and that the police department be instructed to rigidly enforce the ordinance requiring reports of persons moving from one residence to another. The commissioner, according to Mr. Budwesky, has agreed to maintain the record if the proper equipment is furnished.

The city attorney believes the suggestion that an item of $93,750, representing one-eighth of the proceeds of the sale of the gas plant and set up as a revolving fund, be combined with the general fund, can not be complied with. This sum, he contends, must be retained as a revolving fund and constitute a charge against the general fund as long as it is borrowed by that fund, and that if the revolving fund is abolished the amount must be expended for permanent improvements.

In reference to the fidelity bonds recommended to be required of the various city employes, a resolution specifying such bonds has been prepared.

noiseless Gas REFRIGERATORS

For years Washington has known Electrolux, the gas refrigerator, outstanding among automatic refrigerators because of its trouble-free principle, constant, dependable service and extremely low operating cost. Recently General Motors introduced Faraday, the new gas refrigerator. And because they both use gas, they are permanently noiseless; free from complicated machinery.

It is of important significance that General Motors makes Faraday. This great organization knows the public demand in automatic refrigeration, and has found the way to supply it in the gas refrigerator.

Both Electrolux and Faraday are now on display at our show rooms. Only a small down payment will put one in your home and then you have two full years to pay the balance in easy monthly installments. Drop in or telephone, and we'll send a representative to tell you the whole interesting story.

QUICK FACTS ABOUT THE Gas REFRIGERATOR
- Permanently noiseless
- 6c a day average operating cost
- No complicated machinery
- Maintains constant, steady cold
- Freezes plenty of ice cubes
- Easy to install
- Only a small down payment required
- Two years to pay the balance

ASSESSMENT PLAN SUSPENSION ASKED

Montgomery Commissioners Seek Two-Year Delay in Tax Revision.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4208.

Despite their belief that the assessment plan authorized by the 1931 session of the Legislature is the wisest and fairest plan under which to make future reassessments or equalizations of assessments of all of the property in Montgomery County, the county commissioners yesterday unanimously recommended the Legislature suspend the reassessment law for two years.

The commissioners announced that they had been convinced by the opinions expressed by taxpayers at hearings on reassessments that, first, it is only with extreme difficulty that the "full fair cash value" required by Maryland's general tax law can be determined at this time because of the widespread general economic conditions, and, second, that it is almost impossible to convince any taxpayer that the citizens' assessment should be increased at this time, either by way of equalization or otherwise.

They dispensed with the services of Maj. Phil D. Poston and R. E. Hamilton, members of the board of assessors created by the act, leaving Chief Assessor A. H. Griffith to assess new property. The two members of the board were released "without prejudice."

Money expended in connection with the revaluation of property in the past eighteen months has been well invested, the commissioners declared, as the records as to construction, value and size of all structures and parcels of land are county property, giving the county for the first time a complete and detailed description of all suburban county property which can be used later in equalization of assessments.

The commissioners announced that the next four Thursdays will be devoted to hearing petitions for reduction in assesments from residents.

Petitions asking that pay of school teachers be maintained at the highest rate possible and that there be no appreciable curtailment of the services now rendered in county schools were received from several associations. The Takoma-Silver Spring High School also urged that teachers should receive no cuts in pay not shared by other State and county employes. Section 8 Chevy Chase, Citizens Association urged that the first unit of the new Western Suburban High School be started immediately; a resolution from a mass meeting held at Bethesda, with Robert E. Bondy as chairman, by parent-teacher and civic groups, urging completion of the school program and a letter from Mrs. Mortimer O. Stabler, citing approval of the Wednesday Club of Sandy Spring of resolutions adopted by the mass meeting were among those received.

Three Inspectors Put On Police Trial Board

Inspectors O. T. Davis, J. F. Beckett and A. J. Headley were formally appointed members of a special Police Trial Board yesterday by the District Commissioners to hear charges of drunkenness against Capt. Joseph W. Pierson, suspended commander of the second precinct.

Inspector B. A. Lamb, in charge of the Traffic Bureau, was named an alternate on the board.

The Chesterfield FORMULA—what is it?

The formulas and processes which make Chesterfield a milder and better-tasting cigarette are secret—to prevent others from copying them

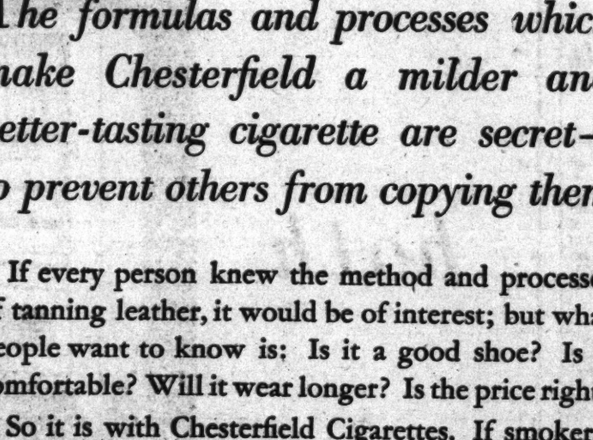
If every person knew the method and processes of tanning leather, it would be of interest; but what people want to know is: Is it a good shoe? Is it comfortable? Will it wear longer? Is the price right?

So it is with Chesterfield Cigarettes. If smokers, men and women, knew all of the formulas and processes of manufacture, it would be of interest to them; but what smokers really want is the result.

Everything that goes into Chesterfield Cigarettes is as good as money can buy.

Every process has in it all that science knows about cigarette manufacture.

The formulas are secret to prevent others from copying them. The mildness and the better taste you may prove for yourself. May we ask you to try Chesterfield?



Wherever you buy Chesterfields, you get them just as fresh as if you came by our factory door

They Satisfy—people know it

JOBS IN THE WOODS.

President Roosevelt's first unemployment relief project is founded on a worthy ideal, but it faces a number of practical difficulties. The theory behind this plan was expressed in a recent address by Prof. R. G. Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture. In respect to reforestation he said:

"We have a magnificent opportunity now. Here are millions of acres needing the labor of men. And here, throughout the land, are millions of men looking for a chance to work. The forests need the men, and the men need the work the forests offer."

Regarded from this naive viewpoint the plan to put 250,000 men to work in the national forests can not be assailed. There is undoubtedly a great deal of work that ought to be done in the forests. Some areas need replanting, some need trails and lookout station for fire prevention, etc. The Government is not in a position to pay for this work at union wage rates. President Roosevelt, therefore, proposes to pay subsistence wages to a limited number of men who volunteer for this service. His Civilian Conservation Corps would be entitled to food, lodgings, clothing, medical attendance and not more than $30 per month.

Care was taken to select for this unemployed army a type of work that would not mean competition with any established industry. But that has not been sufficient to mollify organized labor. The American Federation of Labor is bitterly opposed to this program because it fears that the $1 per day wage would have an adverse influence on all wages. Because of this opposition Chairman Connery, of the House committee on labor, would not introduce the bill. It was sponsored by Majority Leader Byrns in the House and by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, in the Senate. Hearings on the bill may be expected to bring forth protests from organized labor groups.

Congress may also be expected to take into consideration the labor argument dealing with the practical difficulties of organizing large groups of unemployed men from the cities into effective working units in the great open spaces. The camp life contemplated would probably be unsatisfactory to the majority of the unemployed who are not accustomed to living in the open and doing heavy manual labor. Furthermore, it would take them away from the centers of industry where jobs are most likely to be available when business picks up. Jobless men may not consider working for $1 per day under these circumstances any better than accepting charity at home. President Roosevelt's promise of a large grant of funds to the States for direct relief may conflict with the plan for unemployment camps.

The President's message did not ask for additional funds immediately. Unobligated funds now available for public works would be sufficient to supply the conservation corps for several months. It is apparent, however, that if any work is to be done considerable money will be necessary for the construction of camps, for the purchase of tools and equipment and supplies for the men. Wages alone, even at the low rate of $1 per day, would amount to $90,000,000 per year for 250,000 men.

TRADE WITH THE SOVIET.

Soviet Russia needs a new dumping ground. The economic program of the Soviet was rather seriously disrupted when Great Britain broke its commercial treaty with Moscow following the Ottawa conference. Now Britain has called a halt to the negotiations for a new commercial treaty because of the arrest of four British subjects in Russia on trumped-up charges of sabotage. On another front the Soviet is facing a serious loss of trade. The Hitler dictatorship will probably cut off the guarantees which the German government has been extending to manufacturers dealing with the Moscow regime. Chancellor Hitler is a bitter foe of communism. A schism between Germany and the Soviet seems inevitable.

These changes in the European situation are probably the oustanding reason why a new drive is being made for American recognition of the Soviet. Moscow's commercial monopoly is losing its markets. Something must be done to replace the markets which the Soviet has had in England and Germany. Italy does not offer any encouragement. France put an embargo on Soviet goods in 1932. Where can the Soviet turn for an outlet for its dumping?

The change of administrations in the United States has given the Soviet hope that it may use this country as an outlet for its products of slave labor. Deluded "liberals" in this country have fallen into the trap and are asking for recognition of the Soviet on the theory that Russia is ready to buy vast supplies of American goods. They point to the fact that American exports to the Soviet in 1931 were $103,000,000 compared with $12,500,000 in 1932. This sharp reduction, they say, is the price this country is paying for failure to recognize the Communists. But this country did not recognize the Moscow government when the export business to Russia was good. The refusal of the United States to recognize the red regime has no bearing on this fluctuation of trade.

The products of forced labor can not be shipped to this country, unless an actual shortage exists. Dumping and unfair competition are forbidden by law. The American people will not relinquish the safeguards which have been set up to protect them against competition with forced labor and against the unfair practices of a state monopoly.

With or without recognition, extensive trade with the Soviet is impractical. Russia is not in a position to buy from this country, except on credit, which Americans would be fools to furnish. The United States can buy almost nothing from the Soviet without striking a blow at American industry, agriculture or labor.

INEFFECTIVE PEACE TREATIES.

As was to be expected, French acceptance of the Mussolini plan "in principle" is accompanied by reservations which may nullify the efforts of the Italian and British governments to bring about a four-power peace agreement. France suggests that the nature and extent of proposed treaty revisions be defined; that Poland and the Little Entente must be treated as equals of the big powers; and that when frontiers are to be altered the nations concerned shall be consulted. Finally, the proposed pact must be within the framework of the League of Nations.

If these modifications should be adopted, why should there be a new peace pact? The League of Nations covenant is a peace pact to which all the parties concerned have subscribed. So is the Kellogg pact.

While the European powers talk of drawing up a new peace treaty, Japan proceeds to tear up such treaties.

Prime Minister MacDonald tells the reporters in Paris that the moral support of the United States is ardently desired. What about the moral support of European powers in regard to the nine-power pact and the Kellogg pact, trampled in the mire by Japan? What are treaties worth?

Herr Hitler prescribes the death penalty for critics and political opponents in Germany, and tomorrow he will require the Reichstag to abdicate its powers in his favor. Repression of civil rights threatens to precipitate an explosion. Hitler's ferocious domestic program promises to leave him little opportunity for making trouble in the foreign field. If he should become a full-fledged dictator, however, he will sweep aside the French amendments of the Mussolini plan as inconsistent with Germany's intention to tear up the Treaty of Versailles. He speaks of abhorrence of war, but all his moves are toward domestic and foreign war.

SOUND LEGISLATION.

While the people heartily applaud President Roosevelt's efforts to relieve the depression, a distinct air of uneasiness is evident throughout the business world as word goes out from Washington that great experiments are to be proposed, requiring enormous expenditures. The economy bill enables the President to go far toward balancing the budget. What the country can not understand is how the budget can remain balanced if several hundred millions are to be expended for relief in the States.

Congress is rapidly losing its enthusiasm for emergency measures which have not been carefully worked out with regard to the budget. The farm relief bill doubtless will pass the House, where debate is limited and amendment impossible; but the Senate is preparing to scrutinize the bill carefully, both with regard to expenditures and constitutional limitations. A farm relief bill is universally desired, but experience with the Farm Board warns Congress not to act too hastily on the theory that huge expenditures will bring relief. A conflict of powers, giving rise to a controversy between Congress and the President or his ministers, would be very unfortunate; and yet such a conflict would be almost unavoidable if the farm relief bill should be enacted as it stands. The bill attempts to grant the taxing power to the Secretary of Agriculture, which of course can not be done. Such a provision would be set aside as unconstitutional.

Too much haste in putting through legislation may actually destroy the Government's efforts to meet emergencies. All legislation should be constitutional beyond question, so that measures undertaken may not be delayed or frustrated.

THE DEMAND FOR PIE.

Democratic senators and representatives who threaten in private to form a bloc to frustrate further legislation proposed by President Roosevelt until he has given them assurances regarding patronage are taking dangerous chances. The public is in no mood to brook factionalism. The delay in the beer bill is unnecessary, and apparently has been brought about as a hint of what Congress can do when its appetite for pie is thwarted. A longer delay, on some vitally important relief measure, would raise a storm of protest.

President Roosevelt should not be asked to turn aside from national emergency work to dole out patronage. Jobs can wait, but hunger can not wait. He is trying to make jobs by wholesale for men who do not enjoy a pull with legislators. The senators and members who press for special consideration of favorites will not help the unemployed if their insistence monopolizes Mr. Roosevelt's time.

The President is doing the work of the whole people. In due time he will distribute political places to deserving Democrats, and no Republican with a grain of sportsmanship will criticise him for so doing. For the present, however, political jobseekers and their congressional patrons will do well to wait until the public necessities have been met.

THE NAVY AND JOB RELIEF.

Secretary Swanson is making an effort to have naval construction included in any program of public works that may be undertaken. Few activities offer so many advantages to labor as ship construction. Mr. Swanson estimates that $85 out of every $100 that is spent for naval construction goes to labor. The other $15 is used for the purchase of materials.

A great deal of the work undertaken by the Government for the relief of unemployment has been disappointing in its results. Road construction, for example, may be undertaken without delay, but much of the work is done by machinery. A large proportion of the money spent for highways goes into materials.

It is doubtful whether any activity provides such a large return to labor as does shipbuilding. By building up the Navy during this time of slack employment the Government could obtain the maximum of actual employment relief for its funds.

Another factor is important. Any reclamation projects that are undertaken will mean further overproduction of crops, thus defeating the Government's own program of crop reduction. Public buildings that are constructed will cost taxpayers a great deal in upkeep costs. There is grave danger in times like the present that the Government will construct more buildings, highways and reclamation projects than the people need, and more than the taxpayers can afford.

But the need for naval construction is not open to question. The United States is far below its treaty limit. Unrest and aggression are abroad in the world. Other powers that are heavily armed give little heed to the pleas of the United States for disarmament, because this country has failed to build up to its treaty strength. A decision of Congress to go forward with the development of a Navy of full treaty strength would be a powerful influence in bringing about disarmament in Europe.

No one has proposed that vast sums should be spent within the next year on the Navy. The building-up program should be gradual. Under such an arrangement $60,000,000 per year would be sufficient to give the Navy reasonable growth toward parity with Great Britain. The necessity for national defense should alone be sufficient to prompt Congress to this action, but when the Government is also contemplating an unemployment relief program, naval construction offers an opportunity to kill two birds with one stone.

The American Federation may never be reconciled to the appointment of Frances Perkins as Secretary of Labor, but it can't deny that she will make a fine generalissimo of the forest labor army.

Presidential proposals are now running into the "if" and "but" stage in Congress, just as a reminder of the shortage of pie as a circulating medium.

Mr. Matsuoka is about to try to convince President Roosevelt that American national policy should be made subordinate to munitions sales to Japan.

CANADA AND HER MARKETS

From the Manchester Guardian.

While Premier Bennett's speech on reciprocity is causing unbounded surprise in Canada because of his lifelong advocacy of trade development within the empire rather than with the United States, the Canadian press, regardless of party, is emphatically welcoming the prospect of reciprocity in trade with the United States.

Equally surprising is the tendency of the Conservative press to write down the advantages of the Ottawa agreements and to indicate that a treaty with the United States offers better prospects of improving trade conditions.

The Manitoba Free Press sees in Mr. Bennett's speech a renunciation of the fiscal beliefs he has advocated since his entrance into public life more than 40 years ago. It traces the disillusionment of Mr. Bennett since 1930. It declares that he found the tariff war with the United States ruinous, and adds:

"But Mr. Bennett had faith that the British Empire would come to the rescue. Hence the Ottawa conference last summer, with its pretentious program—which is likely to have its niche in economic history as a perfect example of sentimental futility.

"Mr. Bennett's statement in Parliament February 27 suggests that he has at last cast illusions behind him and is prepared to face realities.

"These are among the realities: The United States is our natural market. There is no substitute for it, either inside or outside the empire. Either Canada gets access to this market or she faces stagnation and perhaps actual retrogression. If the United States market is opened to us we can sell at profitable prices our primary products and raw materials.

"Now that Mr. Bennett has put the extinguisher upon himself, it is to be hoped that we shall have no other strident and voluble orator expounding the depravity of doing business along these lines."

POST HASTE.

When is a tax not a tax? Apparently when it is paid to the grocer rather than Uncle Sam.

This double-quick pace the Chief Executive has set for Congress has the added advantage of rendering it short-winded.

It is officially spring, but possibly you have noticed the accent is still on fishy.

There have been various budget chiseling exhibitions, but it remains for Director Douglas to show what can be done with a meat ax.

It is going to be interesting to see how much will have to be spent for the poor man's white-collar drink to provide $150,000,000 in revenue.

A census of the congressional fledglings would show a large percentage just aching to make their maiden flights of oratory.

Congress says 3.2 wine is not intoxicating. It might also be added that it isn't wine.

Austrian bank troubles started things a few years ago, but today the world is immune to minor-nation contagion and it isn't due to vaccination.

The President will drop to second place in dictatorial powers if the agricultural czardom is established.

Spare the blushes, Congress, you are going to be so far outdone in the abdication business by the Reichstag that you may feel better.

At a certain stage grape juice in transition contains only 3.2 per cent alcohol. Trust those resourceful Californians to sell it to you then, and if later nature takes its course, who should worry?

The difficulty with the four-handed game proposed by Italy is that France doesn't like to play with duces wild.

Retroactive release for illicit beer barons seems only a fair accompaniment of free-for-all consumption.

Uncle Sam will have to invent new names for all his outside delegates looking in and ambassadors present, but not voting, in various and sundry world confabs.

If Secretary Wallace is made a Montezuma to turn over the mazuma to the farmers, how about letting Miss Perkins distribute a little queenly largess among female workers?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

COURAGE.

This is courage: To remain
Brave and patient under pain;
Cool and calm and firm to stay
In the presence of dismay;
Not to flinch when foes attack,
Even though you're beaten back;
Still to cling to what is right,
When the wrong possesses might.

This is courage: To be true
To the best men see in you;
To remember, tempest-tossed,
Not to whimper, "All is lost!"
But to battle to the end
While you still have strength to spend;
Not to cry that hope is gone
While you've life to carry on.

This is courage: To endure
Hurt and loss you can not cure;
Patiently and undismayed,
Facing life still unafraid;
Glad to live and glad to take
Bravely for your children's sake,
Burdens they would have to bear
If you fled and ceased to care.

Any Little Nation Can Whip a Big One if the Big One Waits for Somebody to Save It

By ROBERT QUILLEN

TODAY there are millions of Americans, rich and poor alike, who sit with folded hands and patiently wait for something to happen.

A few rare and restless spirits are pacing the floor like caged creatures from the jungle, but the quiet millions resignedly await the will of destiny. Something placed them where they are; now let it come back and move them.

The situation isn't new. The safe and sane people who compose the majority have very little part in shaping their lives. They merely adjust themselves to their environment and follow the sign posts.

The daring pioneers were a discontented minority; the majority always waited at home until the Indians were killed and roads built.

The ordinary citizen isn't captain of his soul or a maker of opportunities. His religion and his politics and his prejudices were absorbed from his early environment. His job is one that chance offered. His mate is one that circumstance selected from the group of ten he was permitted to know. His friendship grew without design.

No detail of his life is a result of free choice. At no time did he examine the world and its contents, consult his taste and his reason, and pick the one thing in all the earth that pleased him best.

From the beginning he ate what was set before him, took what was offered, followed the way of least resistance, drifted with the current. If there were no strawberries on the table, he took the largest prune. And then he developed the prune habit and told his children he didn't believe in strawberries.

Is it any wonder that mediocre men get somewhere if they know where they are going.

Roosevelt—the Teddy one—said he was merely an ordinary man who worked at it harder than others.

Within the memory of middle-aged men we have had three Presidents who were professional public servants. In their youth they chose politics as a career and set out to climb. They reached the White House because they had little competition.

There isn't much competition for a man who knows where he is going. The others are just waiting for a ride. And they are willing to go where the train goes if somebody else will drive the engine.

POLITICAL COMMENT

The Mileage Grab.

Kansas City Times.

It doesn't cost members of Congress any more to travel than it does other folks who travel in the same way, but the members are allowed 15 cents a mile. The difference between 15 cents per mile and the railway charge is pure velvet. It seemed to Senator Borah, who brought the matter up, and to 34 other senators who supported him, that while Congress is driving to cut down Government expenses, members of Congress should be willing to reduce their velvet. So the Idaho senator proposed that the mileage allowance be made 5 cents per mile, which rate still would leave a small margin.

But 42 senators were opposed to the Borah amendment to the economy bill, and the saving was not effected. This gratuity to members of Congress "just grew," as many other Government expenditures have grown, without any justification whatsoever. It is granted not only when members travel, but is granted as a between-sessions allowance, whether the members go home or stay in Washington. The present session, for example, followed immediately on the expiration of the old Congress. The holdover members remained in the Capital. They are allowed mileage of 15 cents just the same. When the session ends they will be allowed the same mileage again. For members living on the Pacific Coast traveling expenses at this rate means about $900 per round trip.

There is no more justification for this excessive mileage than there is for the allowances granted veterans for disabilities not connected with military service.

But More Coming.

Well, the bureaucrats can at least say that it was better to have held fat jobs and lost them than never to have had them at all.

Maintain Uncle Sam's Credit.

Minneapolis Journal.

There is a close relation between the two great emergency bills placed before Congress by President Roosevelt—the one on banking and the other on balancing of the budget.

Both fundamentally are problems of national credit. The banking structure of the United States is closely linked with the finances of the Government.

Restoration of public confidence in the sound banks of the Nation was a vital necessity. Americans rallied nobly in that emergency, and the banks are reopening to business as usual.

No less important is the maintenance of the credit of the National Government. It is hard to realize that the Government's credit could be impaired, but nothing else could result from a continued "going in the red." Short term loans have met the current deficits, but instead of being paid off, it was necessary to renew them., refund them, and postpone the day of payment. As these obligations piled up they became part of the assets of the banks.

A President's Job.

Topeka Capital.

President Roosevelt met the banking debacle head on and by dealing with it promptly and effectually gave the country its start on the road to recovery in general. What it called for was courage and common sense, together with an understanding of public psychology, which is politics. The President has all three qualities in a high degree. Now he comes to a quite different group of problems, beginning with farm relief. They will call for somewhat different qualities and equipment. In grappling with them the President can count on public sympathy, but the job is more up to him and public cooperation has a more minor part to play. The severest test of his capabilities of leadership is yet to come, and with it his political troubles.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Farmer Can't Live on 1918 Level—Must Go Back to Horse Power.

To the Editor of the Post—Sir: I am a Republican, but this is no time for party politics. It therefore affords me great pleasure to indorse heartily all that President Roosevelt has so far recommended to Congress for action. He has shown courageous statesmanship.

I also feel with him that his last recommendation on farm relief is an experiment, but justified because of the crisis; although I am persuaded it can not be of much permanent help to either the farmer or the Nation.

Like all other business men the farmer is up against the same laws of supply and demand, plus the changing economic factors in our civilization. The manufacturer and the business man, whether large or small, has had to adjust his mode of operation to meet conditions. These changes have been various; sometimes consolidations, sometimes splitting into smaller units, sometimes reorganizing the individual institution, sometimes reequipment of plant, sometimes a change in the article manufactured or sold, and often an entire change in the method of selling.

The weakness in President Roosevelt's farm relief plan appears to be in the supposition that the farmer can continue to do business in the old way. The industrialist and business man has not been able to. How the farmer can get around the almost inexorable law of change is beyond me to imagine.

Like the business man, the farmer must liquidate—squeeze the water out of farm values based on war times. He also, like the business man, must abandon the farm that is antiquated or worn out, leaving only the better and more efficiently operated farms. Next he must do more intensive and, I might say, specialized farming. Next he must know his market demand as he has never done before. Probably the most important of all, he must get back to horsepower farming and spend more time on the farm raising the things he uses, rather than "joy-riding" in automobiles. He raises as much corn as ever, but he buys gasoline. He raises as much cotton as ever, but he buys silk stockings for himself and silk dresses for his daughters, imitation Oriental rugs for his wife and golf sticks for his sons.

The farmer, like the business man, speculated in the boom days—he bought land at top prices and raised crops all out of proportion to the demand, when, had he worked his "homestead" conservatively, he would now be sitting high and handsome.

The President's bill, as I understand it, allows the farmer to continue to do business as of 1918. It can't be done. The business man can not do it—he tried it and failed miserably.

The farmer must start again with a log cabin, rag carpet, homespun clothes, oxen and, perhaps, if lucky, horses, and work about 24 hours a day. GROVER AYRES.

Washington Men Should Be Chosen for District Commissioners—Plenty of Good Material.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The statement, in resolutions passed by the Southeast Business Men's Association and sent to the President, that the kind of Commissioners Washington would like are "men who know the wants of our people" hits me just right. Most of our Commissioners in the past have taken more or less of a real interest in the National Capital, but I think the records will show that those who have done the community the most good were real Washingtonians of experience who tackled the job in a true neighborhood spirit.

If a Commissioner has social standing, political influence, college culture, or a brilliant Army or Navy record so much the better. But plain good judgment, honesty, local pride and free-for-all good nature are really important. There is such a thing as being too much of a live wire or too dignified and self-important or too self-opinionated to make good as a city head. There are plenty of plain average citizens who would make the finest kind of Commissioners when it comes to that. You can depend upon it that there are men who have grown up in the discipline of the Police and Fire Departments who if given a commissionership would make a first-rate job of it.

The Southeast Business Men are about right. It is too bad there are not a good many more associations like theirs to speak out in favor of dyed-in-the-wool Washingtonians for District jobs. DISTRICT NATIVE.

Writer Thinks Supreme Court Will Hold Beer Bill Unconstitutional.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A news item in The Post says that F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Antisaloon League, asserting that the beer bill is "the entering wedge for the return of the saloon," declares that a suit to test its constitutionality will start as soon as possible.

I am old enough to know something about the effects produced by pre-Volstead beer, the alcoholic content of which was practically the same as that of the proposed revenue-raising beer bill. Seasoned drinkers could consume an astonishing amount of the beer of my day without being seriously affected mentally. But there were many persons, especially young beginners, who could not drink more than a few glasses without being classed as intemperate.

My belief is that the Supreme Court will rule that the beer in question is intoxicating and unconstitutional—that is, unless, as in the famous legal tender greenback opinions, it relaxes the strict letter of the Constitution in deference to a serious national emergency. W. P. T.

FIRST LADY VISITS AMARYLLIS EXHIBIT

Wives of Cabinet Members Go With Mrs. Roosevelt to Greenhouse.

America's First Lady yesterday attended the second day's exhibition of the twentieth annual amaryllis show of the Department of Agriculture being held in the department's exhibition greenhouse at Constitution avenue and Fourteenth street northwest.

Accompanied by a number of ladies of the Cabinet, Mrs. Roosevelt went to the show yesterday morning and spent some time browsing among the blossoms. Another visitor of high rank was the wife of the Spanish Ambassador, Senora de Cardenas.

During lunch hour yesterday nearly a thousand employes of the Postoffice Department and the Internal Revenue Bureau visited the greenhouse. Members of Congress have been especially invited to attend today.

Friday and Saturday more than 20 bus loads of young women from seminaries and colleges in and around the District are expected to attend the show. The hours are from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

D. A. R. Chapter Is Host At Music Entertainment

Seventy-six Chapter, D. A. R., entertained national and State officers last night at the home of the chapter regent, Mrs. Clyde M. Hamblin, 1429 Iris street northwest. Mrs. Elizabeth Collison-Hill, pianist, and Mrs. Ruth Halstead featured a musical program. Mrs. David D. Caldwell, retiring vice president general, and Miss Helen Harmon, candidates for the office, were present.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Harry C. Groves, Mrs. George M. Grimes, Mrs. Fred B. Linton, Mrs. Pedro Capo-Rodriguez, Mrs. Jean Labat, Mrs. Ada C. Payne and Mrs. Arturo Y. Casanova.

SO THIS IS RENO

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Sister: You get the letter today because you have pleurisy and because I am so sorry you are sick. How in the world did you ever get such a thing? Do take good care of it and get well soon.

Aileen and I went today up in the mountains into the clouds to Lake Tahoe and Emerald Lake. Lake Tahoe is 200 square miles, the second largest lake in the world (the other in Peru), at such an altitude (7,000 feet above sea level). One side of the lake is California, the other Nevada. The best hotel, rustic but very large and grand, is not available to the summer divorcees, who must stay at a hotel on the Nevada side, the ballroom of which divides the States. A judge told me here how once last summer he married a couple in Nevada by asking them to step half way across the room. Although the road up there today was lined with fruit trees in white blossoms and it was summer weather in Reno, in Tahoe the snow was piled up four or five feet on the sides of the road, and we made snowballs. The driveway leading up to the best hotel is unpassable on account of the snow. It is unbelievable, after all the warm weather we have had. The season there does not start until the middle of June, and they say there is snow there throughout the entire summer, with never a hot day. It wouldn't suit me with my alligator tastes. The lake is 1,500 feet deep and so deliciously clean and clear that 40 feet look like 2.

On our way back we stopped to see the monument to the Donner party, a large party of pioneers (1847), half of whom starved to death within several hundred feet of another large lake (now named after them) that is full of fish, if only they had known it was there. But a 40-day snow hemmed them in so that they could only make 20 feet a day. Before the survivors were rescued the party had taken to eating each other, which scared away the Indians who had come to lend them assistance. How amazed they would be to return now and see 40 miles of snow sheds and tunnels where the train threads around some of the highest peaks, or the daily air-service over these mountains!

I am planning now to stay right here until the promised papers arrive. If I go to California (you are allowed to leave after the 42 days are over, while you are waiting for the default decree) the signature might arrive while I was gone and I would lose a day getting home. If it ever comes, I want to shoot right out, leaving at least Aileen and Seymour to lament. All the others are new and raw recruits. I am almost the oldest Reno inhabitant. The newcomers ask me for all kinds of information. I feel like the "last leaf upon the tree."

With much love for you and mother, devotedly, ELIZABETH.

Stocks Yield More Ground As Utilities Lead Declines

Rails Make Futile Efforts to Resist Drop; Sales, 1,208,930 Shares.

New York, March 21 (A.P.).—Security markets made heavier drafts on last week's gains today. Stocks bent under selling that was directed chiefly against utility issues, rails finally joining the downturn after ineffectual efforts to rally around midday.

Utility equities seemed depressed by forecasts of rate reductions and expectations that steps would be taken toward effecting tighter control by regulatory bodies. American Telephone was down nearly 4, Detroit Edison dropped 5 on the reduction to $1 from $1.50 in the quarterly dividend, while Consolidated Gas, North American, Public Service of New Jersey, United Corp., and Columbia Gas lost from 1 to 3.

Rail shares, looking forward to Washington developments in their favor—notably, a move to repeal the recapture clause and regulate competitors—tried to pick up the thread of the advance, but lacked sufficient strength for much of a rise. Publication of Union Pacific's February earnings, showing an operating deficit of $79,498 against income of $822,595 a year ago, may have had a dampening influence. Shares of that road finished 3 points lower; for New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Louisville & Nashville losses approximated a point.

American Can, Westinghouse, U. S. Steel, Allied Chemical, Case Harvester, Macy, American Tobacco "B," Lambert, Liggett & Myers "B" and Loose Wiles were down from nearly 2 to 3 points. National Biscuit, Sears-Roebuck, Woolworth, Union Carbide, General Motors and Du Pont lost a point or more. Coppers eased with a shading of the domestic quotation on the metal, while sugars met profit-taking. Sales totaled 1,208,930 shares.

Brokers pointed out that the market's technical position had been weakened by recent covering. The short position at the end of last week, it was said, had probably been reduced to the lowest level in some time, though commission houses assumed that it had since been increased.

Stocks.

Further inroads were made into last week's gains. Utilities led declines, and the average loss was 2.4 points. Sales totaled 1,208,903 shares.

Bonds.

Weakness of Federal issues prevented a rally in bonds. The volume of trading increased to $10,168,000. Losses averaged four-tenths of a point.

Curb.

Wheat.

Prices went down as corn and oats advanced. Fear of liquidation was blamed. May wheat sold at 51⅜ to 51⅛ cents.

Cotton.

Further declines of $1.25 to $1.45 per bale carried prices below the level of March 3. The general market was down 24 to 29 points. May sold at 6.18. Liverpool reported a featureless market.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Gold mining shares and gilt-edged securities featured the trading on the stock exchange today, prices rising on wood, general buying, but the list closed under the best prices of the day on profit taking. Foreign bonds were firm while transatlantic issues and oil shares were easy. The closing tone was firm.

Paris—Trading on the bourse was inactive pending further details of the Mussolini plan and other international negotiations. The tone was slightly weaker following the decline in 3 per cent rentes. The closing was barely steady.

Berlin—Holiday on the boerse today.

New York, March 21 (A.P.).—The curb market topped off a session of heaviness with a rather sharp last-hour recession in prices today. Volume increased on the late dip, though not to an extent suggesting a resumption of heavy liquidation. Total sales were about 170,000 shares in contrast to 100,000 yesterday.

Wobbly support in utilities and other leaders encouraged enough professional selling to cause declines running from 1 to 5 points in a widely assorted list of issues.

Closely held stocks, both senior and junior, gave way most easily as evidenced by a drop of 5 points or so in American Gas & Electric preferred. Singer Manufacturing and Quaker Oats preferred. Popular leaders like Electric Bond & Share, Aluminum Co. of America, Deere & Co., Gulf Oil and Swift & Co. backed up 1 to 2 points.

Oils were inclined to move ahead in the early trading on some buying ascribed to the better prospects for regulation of output, but their small gains were lost in the late selling.

Security Storage Votes $1.25 Share Dividend

At the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of Security Storage Co. held recently, a dividend of $1.25 per share on the capital stock of the company was declared payable April 10 to the stockholders of record at the close of business April 6, books to be closed between said dates respectively.

More Sugar Refineries Will Advance Prices

New York, March 21 (A.P.).—Several more sugar refiners today announced price advances of a tenth of a cent per pound in refined, bringing the quotation to 4.20 cents.

Copper Closes Lower.

New York, March 21 (A.P.).—Some sales of domestic copper have been made at 5¼ cents a pound, it was reported today, although most custom smelters are holding at 5½ cents. The foreign price range was slightly lower at 5 to 5.07½ cents, against 5.05 to 5.10 on Monday.

Dried Fruits Steady.

Larger Companies Earn 12 Per Cent of 1929 Totals

New York, March 21 (A.P.).—With most of the larger companies reported, it now appears that corporate earnings in 1932 were close to 12 per cent of the boomtime totals of 1929.

A tabulation by Standard Statistics Co. shows that net earnings of 612 companies, including 36 railroads and 60 miscellaneous utilities, aggregated $354,564,000, compared to $1,138,488,000 in 1931, and $2,995,916,000 in 1929.

Despite large deficits by such lines steel, and railroads, it appears from this tabulation that business as a whole, insofar as represented by larger corporations, managed to operate at a profit.

This was in part due to the relatively good showing of the utility group, which showed its earnings reduced only 26 per cent from 1929, but the industrial division, thanks to the comparative stability of such lines as food products, chemicals and tobacco, managed to show a small profit, amounting to $37,201,000 for 512 companies. This, however, was only about 2 per cent of the total for these same companies in 1929.

The 36 railroads showed a deficit of $85,517,000, compared to a profit of $543,609,000 in 1929, but the largest deficit for any group in the tabulation appeared in that traditionally prince and pauper group, iron and steel. Here 27 companies showed an aggregate deficit of $119,385,000, against a profit of $321,847,000 in 1929.

The group which showed earnings actually above 1929 were four cigarette companies, with net of $62,723,000. This was a little under their peak year of 1931, when their profits totaled $64,970,000, but was well above the 1929 figure of $56,086,000.

Groups showing a relatively high percentage of 1929 earnings included utilities, 74 per cent; food products, 56 per cent; cigar and tobacco (exclusive of cigarettes), 46 per cent; miscellaneous drugs and cosmetics, 64 per cent; miscellaneous services, 33 per cent; office and business equipment, 33 per cent; chemicals (industrial), 32 per cent; leather and shoes, 28 per cent; retail trade, 20½ per cent.

Studebaker Action Takes in Rockne

Friendly Receivership Case Extended to Include Detroit Concern.

South Bend, Ind., March 21 (A.P.).—Extension of the friendly receivership ordered by Federal Judge T. W. Slick for the Studebaker Corporation here last Saturday has been made to include the Rockne Motors Corporation, of Detroit, Mich. The action took place today in Hammond, Ind., where Judge Slick is holding court.

As a result the Rockne production and sales forces will be concentrated in South Bend. Today's petition, like that of Saturday, was filed by the Edwards Iron Works of this city.

Hastening plans to put South Bend plants back into production as soon as possible, officials of the Studebaker corporation today announced the body department and press shop employes will be called back to work on Wednesday. It was stated assembly workers will be recalled by the end of the week.

FLOUR MARKET.

Spinning Capacity Is Slightly Less

Plants in February Run at 95 Per Cent Rate; Under '32 Period.

(Associated Press.)

The cotton spinning industry was reported yesterday by the Census Bureau to have operated during February at 95 per cent capacity, on a single shift basis, compared with 95.1 per cent during January this year and 92.5 per cent during February last year.

Spinning spindles in place February 28 totaled 31,088,382, of which 23,659,100 were active at some time during the month, with the average, on a single shift basis, being 29,541,551, compared with 31,254,598; 23,677,968 and 29,707,532 for January this year, and 32,232,310; 25,189,748 and 29,812,083 for February last year.

Active spindle hours for February totaled 6,286,441,996, or an average of 202 hours per spindle in place, compared with 6,787,576,855 and 217 for January this year and 6,566,805,913 and 204 for February last year.

BONDS FAIL TO RISE AS FEDERALS SLUMP

Session Turns Dull, With Increased Turnover of $10,168,000.

New York, March 21 (A.P.).—Weakness of United States Government securities in the bond market today adversely affected other categories of listed loans and prices generally were unable to rally.

It was another relatively dull session, sales totaling only $10,168,000, par value. While this was an increase over yesterday's sluggish business, the Federal section accounted for more $3,000,000 of the aggregate. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds lost four-tenths of a point.

Government issues apparently were affected partly by further uncertainties surrounding the Treasury's forthcoming financial plans. Reports that Secretary Woodin was studying a proposal to float a huge "baby bond" refunding loan, which might include the calling of the $6,000,000,000 Liberty fourth 4¼s next October, in addition to meeting some $2,000,000,000 in short-term maturities, received serious contemplation in financial quarters.

Declines in listed Government bonds ranged from 13-32 of a point to 1.7 points. Liberty Fourth 4¼s were the heaviest, traded at a loss of 16-32.

The rails were not altogether in agreement, but casualties were in the majority. While some liens of Santa Fe, Great Northern, Louisville & Nashville, Wabash and Union Pacific improved, there were numerous other carrier losses ranging from 1 to around 3 points.

The foreign department was irregularly lower. Most of the Germans dropped a point or more after earlier firmness and bonds of France, Poland and Italy were under pressure.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for March 18 were $34,963,576.01; expenditures, $25,190,801.68; balance, $453,169,263.56. Customs duties for 18 days of March were $6,488,222.04.

Foreign Moneys Break Sharply Before Dollar

New York, March 21 (A.P.).—Foreign exchanges broke sharply today in terms of the American dollar, especial weakness being displayed by the European gold currencies and the British pound sterling.

Selling of all exchanges became general as the dollar gave no indication of slowing up in its steady advance. Swiss francs, off 5½ points at 19.27 cents for cables, were 3 points below dollar parity. French francs dropped 1⅝ points to 3.92½ cents; Belgian belgas were down 5 points at 13.95 cents, and Dutch guilders 12½ points to 40.27 cents.

Sterling, apparently lacking support from the Bank of England control, lost 2¼ cents at $3.41½ for cables. The premium on forward sterling sales dropped to 1 cent per pound per month.

CORN VALUES HIGHER AS WHEAT IS LOSER

Fear of Liquidation Hits the Market; Oats Also Join Advance.

Chicago, March 21 (A.P.).—Wheat prices went down and corn up today, largely because of diverging views which traders took relative to agricultural measures before Congress.

Drastic regulatory and licensing clauses of the administration farm bill did much to pull wheat values lower. Many corn traders appeared confident, nevertheless, that the proposed enactment would result in a processing tax on black-strap molasses and on other imports which compete with corn. It was contended this would increase demand for corn, and bring about higher prices for that cereal.

Wheat closed weak, ⅛ to ¾ under yesterday's finish; corn, ⅛ to ⅜ advance; oats, ⅛ to ⅜ up, and provisions unchanged to 32 cents lower.

Liquidation Is Feared.

Contributing to wheat market weakness was fear of further liquidating sales of future delivery holdings of wheat in the hands of Government-sponsored agencies. Title, if any, of today's selling pressure, however, appeared to come from such sources. On the other hand, about the only good upturn in prices was associated with an erroneous interpretation of a Washington announcement about the Red Cross taking over Grain Stabilization Corporation wheat holdings. Temporarily, the point was missed that the announcement did not apply to Government-financed holdings of wheat future deliveries, estimated to aggregate 25,000,000 bushels.

Strength displayed by corn was based mainly on assertions in various quarters that the new farm enactments would permit the Secretary of Agriculture to levy a processing tax on any commodity which appeared to compete unduly with a farm product already subject to such a tax. This was believed to permit a processing tax on black-strap molasses, used extensively in distilling of alcohol. Foreign starches and imported vegetable and mineral oils also would be affected, and this, it was contended, should tend further to give corn values a hoist.

Revival of legalized beer was an additional bullish factor as to corn. Wintry weather likely to increase feeding demand tended also to push corn and oats prices upward.

Provisions lacked support.

COTTON PRICES CUT BY SELLING DRIVES

May Closes at 6.18, With General Market Down 24 to 29 Points.

New York, March 21 (A.P.).—A further decline of $1.25 to $1.45 a bale in cotton today carried prices well below the closing quotations of March 3.

May contracts broke to 6.18 in the late trading, making a net loss of 28 points and a decline of 79 points from the high reached on the reopening of the market last Thursday.

The close was at the lowest prices of the day with the tone barely steady at net declines of 24 to 29 points.

Easy Liverpool Cables.

The opening was 3 to 6 points lower in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables. Early offerings were absorbed by trade buying on a scale down. Buyers showed little disposition to follow up the bulges, however, and prices weakened later under increased liquidation.

Some stop orders were uncovered as prices broke through the March 3 levels.

There appeared to be selling from the South and local sources which may have been influenced by the absence of more aggressive support and the unfavorable action of the wheat and stock markets.

General List Declines.

March broke to 6.14 and October to 6.55 with the general list showing declines of about 77 to 95 points from the high prices touched on the advances of last Thursday.

Liverpool cables reported a quiet and featureless market there awaiting Washington news, with trading chiefly local and said the inquiry for cotton cloth in Manchester was poor, with yarns irregular. Houses with continental connections were credited with buying a little cotton here during the early trading, but this was apparently offset by the Liverpool selling.

Exports today, 26,782, making 6,015,309 so far this season. Port receipts, 17,770. U. S. port stocks, 4,440,388.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was irregular, but generally lower today under increased liquidation, promoted by the weakness of stocks, lard and cotton. Closing prices were 3 higher to 6 lower. Sales were 41 contracts, of which 36 were in exchanges from May to September at 29 points difference.

The firmness in corn, steadiness of crude oil and further advance in hogs were ignored. Bleachable spot closed 3.90; March, 3.94; May, 4.01; July, 4.15; September, 4.29.

Mule Returns to Dump After Each Sale

Tyler, Tex. (U.P.).—City commissioners here wish they had a lot of mules like Swayback, flopeared quadruped, who returns to the city dump every time he is sold.

The mule first was sold in 1928, but returned to the dump in 1930 and was sold again. On the last day of 1932, Swayback was found grazing near the city dump again. He will be sold the third time if the owner can not be located.

FEATURES FOR WOMEN

Culbertson advises using caution to save points in contract play.

The Meanderer

Admonishes Wives of Stout Men to Lend an Ear; Visits Bargain Basement, Quality Style Show and Hardware Store.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

The wife of the short, stout man may pass him word that a tailor the Meanderer visited in an F street men's wear shop has ways of lengthening and slenderizing the heavy man's lines with correct tailoring. This tailor, from a famous men's wear house in Rochester, N. Y., is taking measures and many orders for custom-made suits of imported woolens at a cost of $50, said to be lower than for many years for such tailoring. Hairline stripes, some of them nearly invisible, make a popular choice, particularly for the short man. Plaids not too distinct and shepherd checks also are favored. An order for the made-to-measure suit today or tomorrow is completed and delivered in ten days.

Bold Chinese embroidery on the back of a heavy, natural color Shantung lounging robe, done in black, gold, maroon, blue or tan, makes the garment artistic and striking. Either men or women may find this robe appealing. The F street men's wear shop mentioned above is showing it.

A golfing coat for men, more like a vest than a coat, may be bought separately or ordered to match a suit. The vest has sporty fitted lines and is worn instead of a sweater.

From the "black shirts" of Italy came the inspiration for a clever black-topped pale gray suit shown in a fashion show on F street. The pale gray skirt is worn with a black taffeta blouse and jacket, and with an extremely smart quilted taffeta, Ascot-tied scarf.

"Speakeasy ensemble" is a timely fashion note during these prohibition repeal days. The "speakeasy ensemble" is of striking black and white. It is an evening dress some of the time, with a daring low back outlined with a narrow pique collar effect, and a front corsage of white daisies. The jacket accompanying the frock diverts it into dinner or less formal possibilities. The novel gown was one of those most enjoyed by the spectators in the semiannual "Quality Street" style show in an F street shop.

A demure paragraph to follow the above concerns the "Alice-in-Wonderland bandeau," a popular hair ornament pleasing Washington women. In the big F street department store where the Meanderer examined the bandeaus—selling alike to women and misses—they cost from 50 cents to $3, depending upon the material. Tortoise and metal ones of simpler designs are 50 cents, and elaborate rhinestone trimmed evening bandeaus may be had from $1 up.

A corded gingham-like material makes a most attractive tailored blouse for $1.95 in an F street bargain basement the Meanderer likes to visit. There, too, there are irresistible children's garments for as little as 58 cents, and dainty bits of underwear for the little girl for 28 cents.

The boys of the family will want the jig-saw for making puzzles at home that is featured at $1.50 in a hardware store on G street. The boards for mounting pictures and instructions for using are supplied at the store, also.

Bird houses of straw, said to attract birds more readily than any other type of bird houses, are in many shapes and sizes, meant accordingly for blue birds, for wrens, for tree swallows, orioles, robins and chicadees sell in the big hardware store offering the jig-saw.

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

If March 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:45 a. m. to 8:15 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:20 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 5:15 p. m. to 6:15 p. m.

Astrological influences will quite likely be productive of much business activity on this day. Much money will change hands and good profits should come to those initiating business transactions. Affairs of the heart may run into troublesome moments.

The child born on this March 22 will in all probability not have a smooth and easy passage through life. He will have to work mighty hard for all that he gets and he will quite likely encounter many severe frustrations and set-backs. He will make his way, however, and will find his rightful place in the community.

If March 22 is the date of your birth, you are undoubtedly a person who is not as regular in his habits nor as industrious as he might be. You are inclined to schedule your time and plan things well ahead, then to procrastinate about doing them. If you actually do as much work as you plan to do you will go far. You are, strangely, most prompt and careful about taking care of your financial obligations. This is due in part to the fact that you are uneasy of mind when bound in any way to another individual. You are very much of a lone wolf and you find it hard for yourself to work in harmony with others.

Born on March 22, you are a firm believer in the policy of always putting up a bold front; even when times are hard for you and money is scarce you invariably succeed in keeping that fact hidden. You are too proud. The women born on this date make fine home-builders, good mothers and unusually helpful wives. Any man married to one of these women can rest assured of having a mate who will pull right along with him in all his affairs, and one capable of exercising keen judgment in matters of a business nature. They are very even tempered, not at all given to quarreling or nagging. They are happy people, and pleasant to be with.

Successful people born on March 22:
Charles W. Marsh, inventor.
Laura Jean Libbey, author.
Emilio Aguinaldo, Philippine leader.
Thomas Crawford, sculptor.
Stephen P. Andrews, philosopher.
August Gemunder, violin maker.

Tomato Jelly Salad.

2 cups tomatoes
1 cup water
4 celery leaves
2 onion slices
1 teaspoon salt
2 bay leaves
4 whole cloves
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
½ cup cold water

Mix tomatoes, cup water, seasonings, sugar. Cover and simmer 20 minutes. Press through sieve. Heat to boiling point and add to gelatin which has soaked 5 minutes with ½ cup water. Stir until gelatin has dissolved. Pour into mold and chill until stiff. Unmold on lettuce and top with salad dressing.

Daughter of Willys Will Marry Mexican

Paris, March 21 (A.P.).—The engagement of Mrs. Virginia Willys De Aguirre, daughter of John N. Willys, the American automobile manufacturer and former Ambassador to Poland, to Jose de Landa, of Paris, a member of a distinguished Spanish-Mexican family, was announced today.

Both now are at Casa Florencia, the Palm Beach home of Mr. Willys, where the marriage will take place March 30.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Petalled sleeves, all hand made, either match or contrast a smart evening gown. (Worn at a premiere.)

To be fur trimmed or not to be fur trimmed in your spring coat is something that you have to give a little thought to—it won't do to be tempted or dazzled at the last minute by a silver fox trimming that you know used to cost $300—and is now $50.

Unfortunately, we can not rely upon our designers or manufacturers for our taste. There are quite as many garments offered us for sale which show decidedly bad taste as those which show good taste. But we needn't give ourselves away by buying them! In coats, for instance. Your smart spring coat, with interesting details of cut and workmanship—new sleeves, odd pockets or skirt treatments—can not gild the lily further with fur trimming and still be in good taste. The coat, well cut but strikingly plain as to detail, which offers lovely fur trimming, is a coat which shows good taste. Take your choice—either the fur is posed on the coat, and the coat must be toned down to suit and carry the fur—or the coat is all important, and no fur is added as a death knell to its smartness.

The broad shoulder is expressed in coats for sportswear or street wear only, and seldom fur trimmed. The zouave type of sleeve, with fullness confined at the wrist, is another smart and new detail for this type of coat. And the straight, loose, nonchalant box type of line is, of course, de rigeur in this coat.

For the dressier coat, lines still follow the figure. In these, capelet effects are smart, but capelets themselves not quite as smart as formerly. Some full sleeves and some shoulder epaulette effects are good in dress coats, but the widened and square shoulder, no. This wider shoulder effect is, instead, achieved in the cut of the coat—seamings across the shoulders, or collar effects that are square and look almost like bibs.

And for every kind of a coat there is a scarf—sometimes of the same material, sometimes of brightly colored silk that contrasts the coat but is unmistakably a part of it, and sometimes the scarfs are of flat fur, and can be worn with this coat or with a one-piece frock.

The choosing of a spring coat is important. When readers write and ask me if I think they can get along with only one coat, I answer no. If you simply can not stretch your budget to include one street coat and one dressy coat, then buy one this year and one next—and choose very, very carefully a coat that will not go out of style, that will wear, and that will look chic and elegant. You can do this, you know.

How many things could you make of organdy this organdied summer? All so fresh and refreshing, so chic and flattering—I say, is there anything like a touch of white organdy to make an outfit look like a million dollars? Well, if you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, you can find out how to make a dozen or more delightful things out of organdy for your spring outfit. And all from little pieces—an organdy remnant can cost as little as 10 cents, you know—enough for one of these lovely gadjets for your delight. And with this leaflet, you can make organdy pretties if you have never before sewn anything in your life—just send for it and see.

* * * *

Petaled sleeves—never old, never new. Either in the form of a wee cap that hangs loose from the shoulders, or in the form of bell-shaped sleeves, as you wish. It's quite the mode today to wear something like this over your evening decolletage—Lanvan showed one such model, with hand-petaled black sleeves, on a cire satin dress. And I remember sketching a little cape of petals for you, oh, well, over two years ago! Petal by petal—who couldn't afford such elegance, made in one's spare finger time!

Au revoir!

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

During a recent sojourn to the Nation's Capital I visited about (as I usually do) and one of my most interesting visits was one of the exercise salons. In talking with the instructress (and what pep she has) I asked her to give me one or two of her favorite exercises so that I might impart them to you.

She feels just as most of the movie stars do, it is definitely important that one exercise every day for real benefit. For that reason she urges her clients to attend a class, or have appointments with her for private exercise, every day until they have become supple and attained the measurements they desire. Then she gives them a simple routine to follow at home night and morning and asks them to enroll in a regular weekly class or better still twice a week to keep fit. Her slogan (and isn't it a good one?) is:

"Never too young, never too old—
Never too hot, never too cold—
To exercise . . ."

She dissipates the idea that to be a physical culturist one has to dress and look like a frump, eat unappetizing food and go bravely through all kinds of difficult exercises. She says the real reason for physical culture is not only to make you look attractive, but to feel full of pep and vitality. All professional beauties give day-by-day attention to systematic exercise. Gone are the days when endless hours are spent on picturesque chaise longues. Beauty is seldom inherited. It is devoloped, and systematic exercise, rightly directed, can help any woman to attain charm, poise and above all, health. Surprisingly, she has many of the older senatorial ladies and she helps them to get rid of that "settled down" look. She recommends that every woman stand on her head for five minutes every day to equalize and distribute circulation! Practice in this fashion:

Place a pillow under shoulders, then feet up against the wall as high as possible, or on the side of the bed if you prefer (put something under hips, too). The weight should be on shoulders and neck.

For constipation, she suggests walking on hands and feet with knees outside of arms. Imagine you are a bear and walking about. Try it.

For tummy (her description) lie flat on back on the floor. Clasp first one knee then the other with arms and pull to your abdomen. It's rather difficult to analyze, but this is important, when you draw the knee toward abdomen, the toes should be leading out, not up, and then stretch the leg out slowly (and she emphasizes slowly!).

So many women have said, "I can't exercise, I get exhausted too easily." To these women she advises: first, one strenuous exercise, then an easy one, alternating always with a little deep breathing between. Also always alternating; first, an arm exercise, then a leg exercise. Good advice for all of us, even if not residents of Washington.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

BENT BACKS.

There is more than one kind of arthritis of the spine, a group of disorders far from infrequent, especially when we accept the truth that most of the cases of chronic lumbago, chronic sciatica of the kind that hangs on indefinitely, and many of the cases of low back pain belong in the group.

The kind we are considering in this story is that which bends the back and fixes it in a curved position, a common name for it being spondylitis deformans. It is the disorder that is responsible for the deformity in the many we see whose backs are bent nearly double and are stiff as well.

It generally begins in young persons, and males are affected far more frequently than females. The name signifies that it is a chronic inflammation of the joints between the spine, and that it causes deformity.

The cause of the inflammation is not known. In fact, we are wholly in ignorance as to why it attacks one man rather than another. We know of no reason why it should attack the reader of this article, and today rather than some other man and on some other day.

It is easier to understand why it causes the back to bend out of shape. The normal spine is not straight. There is one curve in the neck, another in the chest, a third back of the abdomen, and a fourth in the pelvis. Because these curves are there, the head and upper part of the body get fewer jolts than would otherwise be its portion. If any one of several things goes wrong more than one of these small curves becomes larger and some degree of deformity results. In the case of spondylitis deformans the curving, and especially that in the chest region, becomes so exaggerated that it seriously interferes with breathing, and girdle pains and other pressure pains often result.

The objective of treatment is to prevent the development of excessive curving. Efforts to stop the progress of the disease and to prevent stiffening and locking of jointe are not very satisfying, but if directions are carried out the body can be kept reasonably straight, interference with free breathing can be prevented, and pressure pains can be warded off.

When the disease is in an earlier stage the patient must go to bed and remain there for a considerable time. No pillows are allowed under the head, though they may be used under the shoulders and lower back. A better plan is to remain in bed in a plaster shell with the upper spine bowed back slightly. There are daily exercises in deep chest breathing and in turning the head from side to side.

Later on, the sick man sleeps in a half cast as above, but goes about during the day wearing a spine support. The weight is to be kept off the spinal column as much as possible and the back is to be kept straight.

The breathing exercises are for the purpose of lifting and lowering the ribs. Therefore, they must not be abdominal. Passive motion, massage and use are effective in keeping the neck straight and able to rotate and bend.

L. S. writes: Will it do any harm to drink six to eight glasses of water every morning before 10 o'clock? All the fruits and vegetables I eat will not help me to cut down the laxative as this amount of water will.

REPLY.

This is too much water. But as between that and constipation on the one hand or taking laxatives on the other, the water should be the least harmful.

A PERFECT COUNT.

Caution in play is always a fine principle and many a Declarer can save himself points by merely looking out for every possible contingency. The hand below was played by Mr. Julian Barth, of New York City, and while at first glance it seems simple enough, the fact remains that very few players would have been as careful in their plans as Mr. Barth was.

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

North: ♠ 9 7 6 ♡ A 10 2 ♢ A Q 10 7 ♣ A 9 5
West: ♠ Q J 10 5 2 ♡ 5 3 ♢ J 9 8 6 ♣ 4 2
East: ♠ K 8 ♡ Q J 9 8 ♢ 3 2 ♣ Q J 10 6 3
South: ♠ A 4 3 ♡ K 7 6 4 ♢ K 5 4 ♣ K 8 7

Mr. Barth

North	South
1♢	2NT
3NT	Pass

The bidding does not call for any comment and, naturally, West's Opening lead was the Queen of spades. East unblocked by playing the King and returned the low spade, which Declarer again passed. For lack of anything else to do, West returned the third spade, which Mr. Barth won with the Ace. Eight top tricks were apparent, and the ninth was possible through either a break in diamonds, a finesse in diamonds or a break in hearts. Mr. Barth's first play, therefore, was to lead a low heart and finesse the Ten in Dummy. East won with the Queen and returned the Queen of clubs, whereupon the Declarer made the one brilliant play of the hand. He allowed this card to hold, knowing that in this way he was certain of obtaining a perfect count on the West hand. When another club was returned he cashed 2 club tricks and 2 heart tricks, finding that the latter suit did not break. West, meanwhile, was having his difficulties and was forced to discard both of his good spades in order to protect his Knave of diamonds. Consequently, with the count firmly placed in his mind, Mr. Barth led over to the Queen of diamonds and returned to the King in his own hand. It was a simple matter to place West with the remaining two diamonds and, consequently, the Ten was good for the twelfth trick and the Ace for the thirteenth.

This extremely careful play earned a just reward, but the hand is also interesting from another angle. Had Declarer found the four diamonds in the East hand and also four hearts, he would have assured himself of a perfect squeeze by passing the club. Without passing it, the squeeze could not have been executed because Declarer would have had no card to use to force East to discard.

The hand belongs to that type which looks extremely simple but which is frequently abused.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

Magnifying His Problems.

A certain type of mother has a tendency to over-emphasize the seriousness of her child's difficulties.

If, occasionally, he has no appetite she immediately begins to worry about his being undernourished and hovers and fusses over his meals. If now and then he gets into fights she forsees that he will be the sort who will always get into trouble with other people.

If his school report is not all it might be, she harrasses teachers and principal to give him special help and struggles and frets with him over his lessons at home.

If he occasionally loses his temper she talks about his "rages" as if there were something abnormal about them. If his sleep is sometimes disturbed or if he evidences the least fear, she at once begins to worry about the effect of past shocks and talks about "phobias."

In short wherever such a mother looks at her child's behavior she finds it full of problems. The fact she exaggerates every fault and sees in every little temporary trouble the ominous indication of an unwholesome trend shows that she herself is suffering from neurotic anxieties which instead of recognizing for what they are, she projects as "problems" upon her child.

It is perhaps not a bad idea, when we tend to worry about our children, to ask the opinion of a disinterested third party, a teacher, a wise family friend, as to whether our youngsters seem to him to be as badly off as they seem to us.

In this way we can check our attitude with the objective judgment of another, and perhaps sufficiently allay our anxieties to prevent our children from developing real problems simply because our own worries have made us magnify theirs.

2,000 SEE GALLAGHER STOP TOW IN SECOND ROUND

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE new deal label which the Nation at large is threatening to wear out before Mr. Roosevelt's administation is comfortably seated, can be applied with due cause to the ball club that Messrs. Cronin and Griffith are bringing back from the South for presentation to Washington fans and the American League in general.

The base hits of the Washington Club during the past few years have rung out often but not loud enough to permit the Nats to score with the frequence of their recognized rivals, the Yankees and the Athletics, and it is this condition that Griffith sought to correct during his midwinter dealings in the player market which have resulted in the new deal.

This season, for the first time within the memory of this department, the Nats boast four ball players capable of breaking up a ball game with booming shots over the park limits. I have reference to Heinie Manush, Goose Goslin, Cronin himself, and Fred Schulte, who this year will join forces in the Washington offensive.

Goslin Carried Burden Alone in 1924.

Even during the pennant-winning years of 1924 and 1925, the Nats boasted no more than two players who could conscientiously be called home-run hitters. In 1924 Goslin alone carried the home-run burden with occasional help from Joe Judge, whose home-run prowess receded rapidly when the business office added 20 feet to the right-field wall in 1921.

The next season Joe Harris came along with his frequent home runs to lend Goslin a hand at this department and the extra-base clouting of these two virtually slugged Washington into the pennant. They carried their long shots over into the world series, each clouting Pirate pitching for three round trips, although the Nats took the short end in seven games.

After the passing of Joe Harris in 1926, Goslin alone remained to carry on as a home-run hitter of the Nats that season. Buddy Myer and Sam Rice hit for the circuit within the park at odd moments, but there was none to truly strike terror into the hearts of opposing pitchers.

1932 Averages Enlightening.

Each season since the pennant-winning days, the batting average of the Washington Club has been respectable, but the difference between a pennant and a first division berth was chiefly the lack of a long-range attack. Bucky Harris and Walter Johnson were forced to stand by and bemoan their own lack of the long wallops that broke up ball games in favor of the opposition.

Last season's team batting averages showed the Nats in fourth place, only six points behind the leading Athletics and only two points behind the second-place Yankees, but compared to the 173 homers by the Yankees and 160 by the A's, the Nats could show only 61, which earned them sixth place in the league in this phase of the game.

The absence of this home-run clouting by the Nats was strikingly reflected in the season's run totals which showed 1,002 for the Yankees and 981 for the A's compared to the Nats' meager 845.

Schulte and Goslin Newcomers.

Manush and Cronin were the potential home-run hitters of the Nats last season, along with Carl Reynolds, but the latter's absence from the game for seven weeks in midseason robbed the Nats' attack of its full significance. The departure of Reynolds, which brought the Nats Goslin and Schulte, is calculated to make a vast difference in the long-range qualities of the club's attack.

Goslin, with his 17 home runs last season, is conceded to be the new leader of the Nats' long-distance offensive, with Manush in the chief supporting role, with 14 homers to his credit. Cronin slammed 9 for the circuit last year, as did Schulte. Thus in exchange for the 9 homers of Reynolds, the Nats gain the potentialities of the 26 that represented the work of Goslin and Schulte last season.

But lurking in the background is an added long-range threat of the Nats. None other than Dave Harris boasts the best home-run-hitting average of the entire cast. At bat approximately one-fourth as many times as the Nats' leading homer clouter of 1932, Heinie Manush, Harris slammed 6 homers compared to Manush's 14. If there is a break in the Nats' outfield front, the home-run line-up will not suffer from Harris' presence.

Bush Instills New Hustle In Reds

Says Club That Lost 50 Games by 1 Run Is No Pushover.

LIFE these days is just one round after another of opportunity for Donie Bush, pepperx new manager of the Cincinnati Reds—opportunity to do the apparently undoable.

After piloting Minneapolis to the top of the American Association, Donie is back in the big leagues tackling the job of resuscitating the Reds. He has plenty of enthusiasm, loads of optimism, and a few ball players, chief among them Chick Hafey, champion hitter of the league in 1931; a good center fielder in young Moore; a much-needed first baseman in Jim Bottomley; a slow, but hard hitting catcher in Ernest "Schnozzle" Lombardi, and two hard-working, capable right-hand pitchers in "Red" Lucas and Si Johnson.

With the addition of another experienced pitcher, Bush believes the Reds of 1933 will be "in the running." He has hopes not only of pulling them out of the cellar, where they finished a full dozen games behind the Cardinals and Giants last year, but moving as high as fifth or sixth place.

Lost Too Many 1932 Games By One Run.

"The Reds lost a flock of games by one run, nearly 50 of them," Bush told the Associated Press. "Now that is simply murder and if hustling can overcome that habit I believe the boys will furnish it. I sincerely believe that the Reds no longer will be pushovers. They missed Hafey's punch most of last season. With Chick back in shape, I consider the team stronger now in every department. The catching staff of Lombardi, Hemsley and Manion is as strong as any in the league."

One trade with the Cubs sent away Babe Herman, the one-time slugger of Flatbush, a .350 hitter in most parks, but a disappointment in the wide reaches of Redland Field. Donie got Moore, a .300 hitter, to play alongside of Hafey. With him came young, warlike Rally Hemsley, to help Lombardi with the catching, and Bob Smith, fading out as a big league pitcher, but still available for relief duty.

Bottomley Bolsters Weakest Infield Spot.

The trade that brought Bottomley in from St. Louis, where he failed to hit .300 last year, sharing a regular post with Jim Collins, bolstered the weakest spot in the Cincinnati infield. At second Bush has George Grantham, capable enough as a hitter with .292 last season, but slowing up afoot, and at short the brilliant little Leo Durocher, a sparkling fielder.

Morrissey Has Landed Berth At Third Base.

Young Joe Morrissey won the third base post last season when he hit .241 his first year up. The reserves are the fragile veteran, Andy High; Young Otto Bluege, from the American Association, and Clarence "Foots" Blair, Pacific Coast veteran, neither of whom hit .300 in the minors.

The third outfield job is a toss-up between Harry Rice, American League veteran who came back this year from Minneapolis, Wally Roettger and Taylor Douthit, neither of whom hit consistently through the past few years.

For lack of batting punch, one game after another drifted away by a single-run margin from Lucas and Johnson. "Red" won 13 and lost 17 and Johnson 13 and 15, grand records under the circumstances. The only pitcher on the staff to berak even was the 42-year-old left-hander, Eppa Rixey, with 5 and 5. Larry Benton, another sturdy toiler, won 6 and lost 13, Bennie Frey 4 and 12, Ray Kolp 6 and 10.

G. U. Votes Carolan Another Captaincy

Football Leader Is Elected Head of Next Season's Court Team.

Sandy-haired Tommy Carolan, a junior in the school of arts, yesterday was chosen to lead the 1933-34 Georgetown University basket ball team by the unanimous vote of his teammates. It is the second captaincy bestowed on the Long Island youth, who also will lead the Blue and Gray football team into action next season.

A graduate of the Hun Prep School at Princeton, N. J., where he starred in sports, Carolan is one of the few three-letter men ever developed at the Hilltop. He played end in football and first base on the baseball team.

He received honorable mention on the all-American court team selected by a popular magazine last season. Two years ago, his first as a member of the varsity, he topped the team in scoring and almost succeeded in defeating Pittsburgh single handed with a splurge of 17 points.

He was second in scoring this year, trailing closely behind Ed Hargaden, Georgetown's potential all-American guard.

Jobless Amateur Learns He Can't Eat Medals But Can Eat With Them.

DETROIT, March 21 (A.P.).—When James K. "Jarring Jim" Bausch and Eddie Tolan, Olympic athletes, came back from the athletic wars last year to settle down to job-hunting, they concurred in statements that, until today, had been accepted by the athletic fraternity.

"You can't eat medals," said Bausch and Tolan, bitterly after failing for many days in search for employment. Today came John Lewis, one-time member of Detroit City College's track squad and of the 1928 American Oylmpic Team in the 400-meters event, to disprove that famous Bausch-Tolan remark.

Lewis, if he is not eating his medals, is eating on them. Unable to find employment, his funds about exhausted, he found himself in need of dental work. So he went to his big chest of medals, picked out three large gold ones, and took them to a dentist. The dentist melted them, used the necessary gold for Lewis' tooth repairs, and accepted the remainder in payment.

"If we ever have any money to spare, we're going to have John's new teeth engraved with the inscriptions which were on the medals," said David Holmes, City College coach, observing the gleam of the new medal dental work.

Crop Tossers Win A. A. U. Feature

Eliminate Crescents; Gray Sextet, N. E. Boys Also Win.

CROP PRODUCTION last night earned the right to meet the champion Sholl's quintet in the quarter-final round of the District A. A. U. basket ball tournament, swamping the Crescents by a score of 63 to 37 in their game at Tech High School. Listed as the feature of the program, the fray developed into a runaway soon after the second half got under way as the eventual winners rolled up their staggering total of points.

But there was enough keen competition and thrills in the remaining games to satisfy the customers in the stands. Northeast Boys Club eliminated the Western Flashes in the 130-pound class, winning by a count of 37 to 32, and United Typewriter Grays scored over the Howitzers in the senior girls ranks by a 26-to-21 margin. Miller Furniture tossers were awarded a forfeit over the Triangle A. C. when the latter appeared late for their game.

Grays Rally to Win Verdict.

The Howitzers seized the lead in the first half of their battle with the Grays, principally through the fine work of Atkins, who led the team in scoring with 13 points.

Trailing by a score of 13 to 11 as the second half got under way, the Grays rallied and quickly tied the score, going into the lead, finally, where they remained until the finish. Imlay, who scored 21 points, was outstanding for the victors.

Miller and Kaplan starred as the boys from the vicinity of Rosedale Playground eliminated the Flashes. Miller located the hoop for 10 points and Kaplan tallied 6. Boundford, Flashes' center, led both teams in point-getting, with 12, but team work, and not individual brilliance, decided the issue.

Parrick Hero for Crops Five.

A young fellow answering to the name of Wick Parrick spread woe and desolation in the camp of the Crescent supporters with his goal-gathering propensities. Twelve of the 28 field goals credited the winners were made by Parrick.

Barker, Crescent forward, kept his team abreast of the Farmers in the first half with his brilliant work. The count was 26-21 at the intermission. Barker's total for the evening was 20.

A. G. O. to Meet Mercury In Tourney Fray Tonight

Some of the fastest basket ball of the A. A. U. tournament to date is expected tonight on a four-game program at Tech High Gym featured by a clash of the War Department A. G. O. and Mercury fives. This clash and the battle of the Potomac Boat Club and the Brookland Boys Club are in the 145-pound division which has recorded a new high mark for tournament rivalry here. Other games will find the Satellite girls meeting the Als A. C. and the French A. C., 130-pounders, facing the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

War Department is defending the city senior crown and impressed with a first-round victory over the Triple Tau team. Mercury gave the tournament dope a jolt by eliminating Company F, of the Hyattsville Guards.

Daily Battle Now Faced By Nats

Crowder and Stewart to Face Atlanta Club Today.

Regulars, Yannigans List Practice Game for Tomorrow.

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 21—The addition of one of those Regular-Yannigan games to the spring schedule for Thursday today ordained that the Nationals will be playing a ball game every day until the regular opener with the Athletics on April 12.

Tomorrow afternoon the long competitive travail begins inauspiciously enough with a meeting against the dear old Atlanta Crackers, who play over here so often that you expect to find one of them mixed up in your orange juice at breakfast.

Tomorrow, however, does hold some distinction, for it will serve to usher into the Washington picture Walter Stewart, erstwhile nemesis of the Nats, who will be manufacturing his first perspiration for the Capital cityans. Stewart and Al Crowder will divide the pitching labors against the ragamuffin Atlanta team, which needs a composite dry cleaning almost as badly as it needs a new infield.

Whitehill, Weaver Hurl For Yannigans.

For the Yannigan-Regular affair Thursday, Manager Cronin has decided on a pretty respectable piece of strategy. Instead of permitting the Yannigans to choose their own pitchers from among the secondaries on the staff, Cronin today presented them with Earl Whitehill, favorite enemy of Washington's sluggers, and Monte Weaver, who won a couple of games in the league last year.

Cronin decided on this in view of the fact that the regulars need a lot more practice against big league curves than they have been getting in the cut and dried batting drills down here. Eddie Linke and Bob Friedrichs are to pitch for the regulars.

The most prevalent thought in camp, however, is the impending visit of the Cleveland Indians. The slim margin by which the Tribe beat them last week over in New Orleans hasn't set very well with the gents of the local club, and there is actually talk of "getting revenge," a strange state of spirit among a group of lads who are supposed to be more hired than heroic, more addicted to pinochle than patriotism.

Nats' Big Shot Hurlers Face Tribe.

Cronin has not as yet made his pitching selections for the two games to be played with Cleveland. Probably only the big shots of the flinging staff will be utilized.

Today's practice at the ball yard was exactly like yesterday's which, oddly enough, was exactly like the day before, which &c. The newspapermen down here have been reduced to a lather in their vain search for news. Each day they rush hopefully up to Mike Martin and ask with a voice that would bring great bulbous tears to the eyes of a brass gargoyle:

"Are you sure there wasn't anybody hurt today?"

Lives of 29 Are Saved By Coach's Alertness

Santa Clara, Calif., March 21 (A.P.).—Clipper Smith, University of Santa Clara football coach, played the part of a "road hog" last night and received thanks for it.

Smith was driving on the outskirts of Oakland when he noticed a San Jose-bound bus afire under its running gear. Unable to attract the driver's attention, Smith forced the bus into the ditch. The 29 passengers escaped unhurt. The bus was badly damaged.

Brazilians Withdraw From Davis Cup Play

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, March 21 (A.P.).—The Brazilian sports confederation decided today to withdraw from 1933 Davis Cup competition. The illness of Ricardo Pernambuco and the inability of Nelson Cruz to leave his business to compete made it impossible for Brazil to gather a strong team for its first-round matches with Chile, scheduled to start March 31.

JERSEY CITY FRANCHISE RETAINED

International Votes to Assist Owner in Financial Way.

NEW YORK, March 21 (U.P.).—Settling the most vexatious problem that has risen in the International Baseball League's history, directors of the league today decided that the franchise of the Jersey City Club would remain in that city for the 1933 season, under the operation of its present owner, Sam Colacurcio.

At this twenty-second meeting to untangle the muddled affairs of the club, the directors agreed to assist Colacurcio financially in case he should have difficulties before the season ends. This is the second time in the league's history that such an agreement was made. Last year the league aided the Toronto Club.

The directors agreed to aid Colacurcio after he produced evidence of personal financial backing.

To Announce Manager Tomorrow.

Colacurcio expects to announce the 1933 manager of his club and the training camp on Thursday. He said the manager probably will be selected from Clarence "Pants" Rowland, Ed Holley, of Montreal, or Mike Kelly, of Newark.

The directors arrived at this decision after Walter Johnson, famous pitcher and former manager of the Washington Senators, had withdrawn his offer to purchase the club because of his inability to obtain more than a 30-day lease on the Jersey City Stadium.

Proposals also had been made that the Jersey City franchise be shifted to Providence, Reading and Atlantic City.

Last season the Brooklyn Dodgers operated the club on option.

The club was indebted to Brooklyn and St. Louis, of the National League, and New York, of the American League. It is understood that these clubs have canceled most of the money owed them, at the request of the International directors.

Stribling Will Fight McCorkingdale Again

London, March 21 (A.P.).—Announcement was made today that W. L. (Young) Stribling, Georgia heavyweight, had been matched with Don McCorkindale, of South Africa, for a 12-round bout in Albert Hall April 6. The two met recently in South Africa, with Stribling taking the decision.

The winner probably will be matched with Larry Gains, Toronto Negro, who holds the British Empire heavyweight title.

Stribling recently was suspended by the French federation for three months for an unsatisfactory showing in his bout with Pierre Charles. The American boxer was disqualified for holding in the eighth round.

Pennsylvania Near Baseball on Sunday

Senate Approves Bill by 26-23 Vote; Teams Must Wait Until 1934.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 21 (U.P.).—Action looking to the first major change in Pennsylvania's blue laws of 1794 was taken today when the State Senate approved the Schwartz House bill permitting Sunday afternoon baseball and football if State-wide and municipal referenda approve granting licenses for sport.

The vote was 26 to 23.

Two more steps are needed before the bill becomes law. These are House concurrence—considered certain—and Gov. Pinchot's signature.

The baseball and football licenses the Schwartz proposal would legalize, could not become effective until 1934, because of the referenda to be held in the 1933 election.

OWEN PLAYS THIRD FOR TIGERS

Former Newark Star Definitely Slated for Infield Job.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 21 (A.P.).—Marvin Owen appears to be definitely slated for the third base position this season on the Detroit Tigers. With Hank Greenberg eliminated from consideration for that post by his inability to field bunts and short hits fast enough, the slim San Jose, Calif., youngster apparently has the position cinched, barring mishap.

Owen was a member of the pennant-winning Newark team in the International League last year and was named most valuable player in the league.

Haas, of Chisox, Out With Hurt Ankle.

Pasadena, Calif., March 21 (A.P.).—Gloom hung heavily over the White Sox training camp today when it was learned that George "Mule" Haas will be out for a week and possibly longer with a bad ankle.

Haas, one of the three stars obtained last winter from the Athletics, hurt his ankle sliding into a base in Sunday's game. Today the swelling increased and Manager Lew Fonseca, worried lest the wound be a fracture, ordered an X-ray. Until the X-ray picture is developed, Fonseca will be the most worried man in baseball.

Canadain 60-Yd. Mark Is Set by Metcalfe

Toronto, Ont., March 21 (A.P.).—Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette University Negro flash, won the 60-yard sprint title of the Canadian indoor track and field championships here tonight and avenged an early season defeat by the Southern flier, Emmett Toppino, of New Orleans.

Metcalfe flashed over the distance in 6 2-10 seconds to set up a new Canadian indoor record and nose out Bert Pearson, Hamilton schoolboy, and Toppino, in a blanket finish. Pearson placed second and Toppino third.

Glenn Cunningham, University of Kansas star, who has been racing sensationally at the mile this year, ran the 2 miles in 9:39.6, to win easily from Lloyd Longman, of Toronto.

Argentine Race Driver Indianapolis Entrant

Buenos Aires, March 21 (A.P.).—Paul Riganti, prominent Argentine racing car driver, today announced he was sailing for New York early in April to compete in the 500-mile auto classic at Indianapolis May 30.

Riganti will drive the same car Juan Gaudino drove in the Indianapolis race last year. Gaudino is accompanying Riganti as assistant pilot and mechanic.

JOE JUDGE'S HOMER AIDS DODGERS

MIAMI, Fla., March 21 (A.P.).—Although held to six hits by three St. Louis pitchers, the Brooklyn Dodgers bunched four of them with two passes in the eighth inning, scored four runs and beat the Browns, 5 to 4, today. Joe Judge hit a homer in the first inning.

Stiles was the victim of the Dodgers rally. A triple by Jimmy Jordan, recruit shortstop, sent in two runs and put Brooklyn ahead.

Yanks Rally in Ninth, Beats Braves.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 21 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees landed on Buddy Lake, Boston recruit, for five singles in the ninth inning and the Braves tossed in two errors to give the Yanks five runs and an 8-to-6 victory today. The triumph gave New York a 4-to-1 lead in their series.

The Braves did their heavy scoring off Ed Wells in the third, picking up four runs on as many hits and a two-base error by Bill Werber. A pinch hit by Earle Combs drove in the winning Yankee run.

New Orleans Nosed Out By Tribe.

New Orleans, March 21 (A.P.).—A combination of the Cleveland Indians' regulars and rookies nosed out the New Orleans Pelicans, 6 to 5, today in the third game of their exhibition series.

The Indians were forced to retrieve the game in the eighth inning. With the aid of five bases on balls granted by Pearson, the Pelicans had tied the score at five runs in the fourth inning, but were unable to rally. The Cleveland hurlers held New Orleans to five hits.

Right to Jaw Ends Battle Of Heavies

Birmingham Fighter Unconscious After Sudden Finish.

By DAVE HERMAN.

THE fighting machine that Marty Gallagher turned out to be spat deadly fire last night at Portner's Arena, Alexandria, as the Foggy Bottom Irishman, appearing in the greatest shape of his fistic career, knocked out Bob Tow, Birmingham, Ala., heavyweight, in 1 minute and 20 seconds of the second round of their scheduled 10-round match.

It was a tearing, snorting Gallagher that came charging into the Dixie fighter, a Gallagher that roared his challenge and threw his blows with telling effect.

The finish came with startling and dramatic suddenness. Gallagher had rushed from his corner to answer the bell in this round. He closed in on Tow in the center of the ring, engaged in a brief exchange of blows, and then chased Tow into a neutral corner with a right to the jaw. Marty followed up with a right to the back of the Southerner's left ear, which began to bleed profusely.

Tow Stumbles Drunkenly Toward Foe.

Tow almost sank to his knees near the ropes as Gallagher drew away, but managed to straighten up and stumble drunkenly over to the center of the ring. Here the 205-pound Irishman realized that only one good blow was needed to finish his man.

He hurled a ponderous left at the groggy Tow, who ducked, only to be met by a terrific right flush on the jaw.

The crowd of 2,000 saw the battered form of the 185-pound Tow sink to the canvas with a thud. His eyes were glassy, and he fell as if stabbed or shot. He dropped first on his back, attempted to get up, but quickly rolled over. Four more times he rolled over as Referee Charlie Short intoned the fateful 10 seconds.

Tow's handlers worked frantically in their corner in an effort to revive him, but without success. A few minutes later he was carried to his dressing room in a delirious condition. His ear was swollen badly and there was a bad knot of the back of his neck. It was fully half an hour before the Southern heavyweight was able to recognize his manager, Jimmy Erwin.

Similar K. O. Handed Tow By Knight.

The blow dealt Tow on the back of his ear was similar to the knockout sock handed him by Joe Knight, former N. B. A. light-heavyweight champion, in the third round of their fight at Twin City last September. This blow plus two punches to the jaw did the damage.

The program was studded with knockouts, and the customers were able to witness but 11 rounds of fighting that consumed hardly an hour of their time.

Jesse Belt, District welterweight, knocked down Kid Erdman, of Baltimore, in 45 seconds of the first round with a looping right for a count of nine and clipped his foe again after he got to his feet, but Referee Short put out the stop sign.

SINGING HEART, 5 TO 1, WINS TROPICAL PARK FEATURE RACE

Filly Scores By Three Lengths

Golden Fate, Odds-On Choice, Second and Kate Third.

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 21 (A.P.).—Officers of the U. S. S. dirigible Akron, now moored here, were the honored guests of President Frank Bruen and the Gables Association this afternoon.

The feature event, a 6-furlong test, fourth on the card, was named the U. S. Akron Claiming Purse, and the visiting gentlemen of the clouds, viewing the event from the balcony of the president's suite in the clubhouse, saw J. V. Stewart's filly, Singing Heart, register a three-length victory over the odds-on favorite, Mrs. A. J. Contento's Golden Fate. The Howe Stable's Kate, another three lengths back, headed Captain Red out of the picture.

Singing Heart, a 5-to-1 hazard, ran the distance in 1:12 3-5 over a dried-out track.

Singing Heart to Fore Entering Stretch.

Golden Fate had too much taken out of him racing Bedight into submission. Singing Heart was nicely rated in third position until the last quarter mile. Jockey J. Renick brought the winner around the leaders turning for home and the daughter of Strolling Player easily drew away from Golden Fate. Kate closed quite a gap to annex the show position.

Uppercut and Golden Effort drew most of the play in the opening contest and they obliged by running one-two as named with the former first home by two lengths. Baptism took the show three additional lengths away. The first two horses staged a duel for a half mile after which Uppercut's superiority began to tell. He drew away in handy style through the stretch. Golden effort was easily second best. The winner returned $4.20.

Second Straight for Fire Mask.

Fire Mask, a shifty miss from the Coldstream Stud won her second straight start of the meeting in the half-mile juvenile dash. The Pot au Feu filly had a good three lengths to spare over Bubbling Ways and returned favorite players exactly even money. Her Hero lost the place by a length and a half. The winner assumed command shortly after a good start and after opening a safe lead in the first quarter mile, free wheeled the remainder of the journey.

ANOTHER HURDLE FOR CROPS

Crop Production Loan Office will meet another hurdle in its search for the Government Basket Ball League title tonight when it engages the D. C. Firemen. The tilt is scheduled for Bolling Field, action starting at 8 o'clock.

A. B. THORN IN NEW POST.

Friends of Arthur B. Thorn, former Woodmont Country Club golf professional, will be interested in knowing that he has connected with Leo Walper's driving course located on Wisconsin avenue in Bethesda.

Thorn, known as the stylist of District professionals, expects to assume his new role as soon as the weather permits. He was connected with Woodmont for ten years, and is considered one of the most popular professionals in the Middle Atlantic sector.

BARRY IN EXHIBITION.

A four-round boxing exhibition between Donald (Red) Barry, Washington heavyweight, and Mickey O'Connor, will feature tonight's program for the benefit of the American Legion at Carpenter's Hall. Johnny Bowen, lately turned promotor and manager, has arranged for the matches. His brother, Ray, will face Roma LaBoma, in a four-round exhibition.

VILLAGERS MEET TONIGHT.

Ciro's Village Baseball Team will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at Manager Tony Barruto's tonsorial parlor, 1002 E street northwest. All players and any new candidates are requested to attend.

Good Baseball Material Scarce at Roosevelt High

IN Lynn Woodworth's opinion, a baseball player is precisely what the name implies and is not to be identified as a first baseman, pitcher, outfielder, or by any other term which may lead one to believe that the player is capable at only one position on the team. To suit Lynn, a boy must be able to fill more than one position, and it is on this basis that the Roosevelt High School mentor is proceeding with the construction of his 1933 nine. Baseball talent around Thirteenth and Upshur streets is scarce and must be used wisely if the school is to have a winning club.

Jimmy Garner, a pitcher, who made good in his first year with the team three years ago, but failed to live up to expectations in the two succeeding seasons, is back again as dean of the mound corps. Woodworth has a world of confidence in the lad whom he believes will blossom into a real star—some day.

Teaching Sherman, Curtin To Pitch.

For a supporting cast, he reached over and pulled Joe Sherman off first base and relieved Charley Curtin of further duty at third, and is instructing them in mound etiquette. Sherman, a southpaw, did a turn in the box last season after the entire pitching staff had been plastered for several dozen hits, and he looked better than the boys who called themselves pitchers. Curtin is an unknown quantity, but gives evidence of being able to shove them plateward with better than average speed.

One catcher, but a good one, represents the entire list of candidates for that position. He is Jake Fradin, who, after a successful 1931 campaign, managed to become ineligible last season.

The only infielder corralled thus far is Carlton Giovanetti, whose ability is pretty well established. He hangs out in the vicinity of second base. Giovanetti is a smooth fielder and good hitter and will be one of the team's mainstays.

Davis Ahearn, who was a little light on stickwork last year, but offset this disadvantage by covering an enormous amount of territory on the defense, and Rube Hayman are the leading candidates for outfield berths. Hayman is big and fast and developed rapidly last season after a slow start.

Flynn and Steele to Be Missed.

The graduation of "Lefty" Flynn, now seeking a job with a major league club in the South, and Ray Steele deprived the team of a couple of fence-busters who would be of invaluable assistance to the team.

While resting from duties of dozen-odd tasks imposed upon him Woodworth has found time to get started with preparations for the track team and to organize a tumbling team. He plans to concentrate on the weight and field events in track, since the school's new stadium is still an enormous mud puddle. The tumbling team will give an exhibition the latter part of next month.

Coleman Favored To Throw E. Dusek

Latter Confident, However, of Victory Tomorrow at Auditorium.

After depositing Rudy Dusek on his cauliflower ear last Monday night, Abe Coleman, the baby Goliath of the grunt and grimace artists, feels reasonably certain that he can do the same to Rudy's younger brother, Ernie, whom he meets tomorrow night on Mr. Joe Turner's mat at the Auditorium.

In dumping Rudy, Coleman supplied Ernie with a higher and finer motive for winning tomorrow night, for the Duseks are not divided among themselves, and if you beat one you have to trim the other.

Ernie, a mere stripling of 205 pounds, is just growing up in the wrestling game, and, if he hurdles Coleman this time, bigger and more lucrative matches await him. The two are old rivals, but never have they been permitted to tug one another around for longer than 30 minutes. Coleman is a slight favorite for no particular reason, but it has been authoritatively stated that he will have to show his best to win.

Ladies with paying gents will be admitted free, and children will be taxed only 25 cents.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: TROPICAL PARK, MARCH 21.

Well, friend, it looks like we are trying to load up an ark, a la Noah. My winners comes in pairs—two yesterday and two today. Uppercut stepped down for me in the opener and I had high hopes that we were going to have a gala day. But aside from watching Claremont, the favorite, romp home, I had little to enthuse over for the rest of the way. The track was slow this morning, dried out quickly and was fast by the time the feature rolled around. Promises to be fast tomorrow. I have picked these accordingly. BILL.

FIRST RACE—Might do worse than play MAHOMET in this sprint. Word has been passed around that this one is on edge. SINGLE STAR packs a lot of speed and seems capable of holding the place from the others. SEMESTER to take care of the show award.

SECOND RACE—PRINCE DRAKE showed excellent form the last time, turning in a winning effort. Should go well in this company. GO FORTH and RAGTOWN BELLE appear to have an edge on the others.

THIRD RACE—KAI-FINN, an old friend of Marlboro days, jolted the boys several times at Havana and has had one warm-up at this course. Was outclassed and didn't show anything. Tomorrow, I expect this one to stand them on their heads for the five and one-half furlongs. CAPITALIST and WACKET for the rest.

FOURTH RACE—GENERAL A looks with BEAU JOLIE for the big end of the purse. This pair share top weight of 118 pounds. PORTER'S DREAM was let go the other day and with only 96 pounds up is dangerous, to put it mild.

FIFTH RACE—FIRST RUN threw me down but I'm a glutton for punishment. Will string along tomorrow. BOLINTY was thought to have some class once and may take the place from BRAN MUFFIN.

SIXTH RACE—MISS GORINNE, if she draws a live apprentice rider, will have more than a passing chance to upset this group. MAJOR LANPHIER is the one to beat. GULLY JUMPER is in good form but wants a longer route.

SEVENTH RACE—PERNICKETY ran into trouble last out and with clear sailing tomorrow should account for this purse. ROCK POINT and ABSOLUTE to take care of the others.

Hyattsville Plays Title Game Tonight

Meets Allegany Five at Cumberland for Western Shore Crown.

Hyattsville High School's basket ball squad leaves today at noon by motor for Cumberland to engage the Allegany County High quint of that city in the deciding game of the Western Shore series in the State scholastic championship tournament. The match is scheduled for 9 o'clock tonight in the Cumberland National Guard Armory. The Hyattsville squad will remain over night, returning tomorrow.

Hyattsville, which has swept through Franklin High, Baltimore County champion; Annapolis High, Anne Arundel County titlist, and Bel Air High, Harford County standard bearer, will take the floor against Allegany with its strongest line-up. Nevertheless, Allegany is regarded as the favorite. To gain the Western Shore final, the Cumberland quint soundly defeated Bethesda-Chevy Chase High, a team which twice this season has conquered Hyattsville. However, Coach Stan Jenkins, of the Hyattsville squad, has scouted the Allegany quint and figures Hyattsville has an even chance to vanquish the Western Marylanders.

The winner of tonight's game, if past performances mean anything, will go on to conquer the Eastern Shore finalist and achieve State laurels.

Mrs. Haynes Is Third at Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N. C., March 21 (A. P.).—Maureen Orcutt was the only golfer able to master a 20-mile-an-hour wind in the North and South Women's Tournament today, and she not only won the medal with a 78, but got off to a running start in her quest for her second consecutive Pinehurst title.

The Englewood, N. J., veteran was the only one of 69 starters to crack 80, and but six of the remainder posted scores under 90.

Mrs. Hills' 92 Card Disappoints.

The day's big disappointment was Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, co-star with Miss Orcutt in the Florida tournaments and her opponent in the North and South finals last year.

Handicapped both by the wind and a recalcitrant putter, Mrs. Hill had to be content with a 92, which just did put her into the championship division.

Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, Wis., one of the best of the younger crop of feminine stars, shot an 84 today to sew up runner-up honors.

Mrs. J. M. Haynes, of Washington, turned in an 85 to win third place, and Miss Edith Quier, the Reading, Pa., star, tied with Mrs. C. R. Harbaugh, of Cleveland, for fourth and fifth positions. Each shot an 86.

Sixth and seventh places were divided by Helen Waring, of Pinehurst, and Grace Amory, of Great Neck, Long Island. They posted 88s.

All of the 13 players who shot a 93 or better made the first division. Four players tied for the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth places with 94s, and Mrs. Richard Clemson, of Middletown, N. Y., was eliminated on the second hole when Mrs. R. H. Barlow, of Bryn Mawr, Pa., sank a 15-foot putt for her place in the coveted 16.

Match play starts tomorrow and continues through Saturday. Eighteen holes will be played daily.

Today's 16 leaders follow:

Maureen Orcutt, Englewood	39	39—78
Bernice Wall, Oshkosh	41	43—84
Mrs. J. M. Haynes, Wash., D. C.	42	43—85
Mrs. C. R. Harbaugh, Cleveland	40	46—86
Edith Quier, Reading	43	43—86
Helen Waring, Pinehurst	43	45—88
Grace Amory, Great Neck	44	44—88
Mrs. Deborah Verry, Worcester	44	47—91
Betty Abernathy, Pittsburgh	47	44—91
Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City	45	47—92
Mrs. Gail Maxwell, Spring Lake, N. J.	48	45—92
Mrs. T. E. Windersein, Philadelphia	47	46—92
Mrs. J. J. Lawler, New Rochelle	48	45—93
Mrs. P. Ryan, Short Hills	49	45—94
Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Bryn Mawr	45	49—94
Mrs. J. W. Hoopes, Kennett Square	51	43—94

Experienced Baseball Squad at Maryland

From the way Coach Burton Shipley has been using his baseball pupils in practice, the University of Maryland nine will depend mainly on the following players, at the outset, at least: Jones and McGuire, catchers; Gorman, first base; Wolf, second base; Chase, shortstop; McAboy, third and Maxwell, Buscher and Davidson, also a clever southpaw hurler, in the outfield. McIlwee, a southpaw, and Ruble and Love, right-handers, are his other pitchers. Wyatt will likely be in the garden when Davidson hurls.

Nelson, a capable infielder, and Benner, outfielder, may join the diamonders when spring grid work is finished.

Petrolle Test For Ross Tonight

Young Chicagoan at Fistic Crossroads Against Veteran.

CHICAGO, March 21 (U.P.).—Billy Petrolle, battle-scarred Fargo veteran of fistic warfare, tomorrow night stands between Young Barney Ross, of Chicago, and a world's lightweight championship bout with Tony Canzoneri.

The ancient two-fisted puncher and chronic spoiler of titular timber and his ambitious but untried rival headline the revival boxing program at the Chicago Stadium. The stadium, now in receivership, has had no fights since January 13.

Sitting at the ringside will be Canzoneri, owner of the world's lightweight title, who will be here to scout the two boxers who are reputed the greatest threats in the division.

Ross Never Kayoed.

Petrolle had a chance at Canzoneri late last year, and Tony hammered out a decision.

Ross, who is 23 years old, has a record of 39 victories and 2 draws out of 43 professional fights. Barney has never been propelled to the canvas by a punch.

In less than a year, Ross has been brought from the preliminary class to the windup spots. He has shown class but he has never been put to a severe test. Petrolle is figured to furnish Ross the test he needs to determine whether or not he earns a shot at Canzoneri's bauble.

138-Pound Limit Set For Petrolle.

The fight has been a Long time materializing, simply because Jack Hurley, Petrolle's manager, would not agree to let the Fargo Express come into the ring at 138 pounds. Ross' managers, Plan and Winch, outlasted Hurley, however, and Petrolle is under forfeit to scale 138 pounds or less at the commission offices tomorrow afternoon. Ross will weigh around 135.

Early odds favored Petrolle, but even money rules now. Box office sales indicate a crowd of more than 12,000.

Charley Retzlaff, bony Duluth heavyweight and stablemate of Petrolle, battles Walter Cobb, of New York, in a 10-round preliminary.

G. U. Preps Announce Baseball Schedule

Fifteen games are on the Georgetown Prep School baseball schedule announced yesterday by Manager Frank Foley. All local high and prep school teams will be played while only one school outside of the District, Charlotte Hall, will be met.

April 4, Emerson, away; 7, Western, home; 11, Central, home; 28, Chevy Chase, home.

May 2, Rockville, home; 3, Episcopal, home; 5, Friends, home; 10, St. Albans, away; 12, Western, away; 15, Chevy Chase, home; 17, Eastern, away; 19, Emerson, home; 24, Charlotte Hall, away; 26, Eastern, home; 29, Central, away.

SOUTHEAST TOURNEY.

Three games are scheduled in the Southeast Community Center basket ball tournament tonight. At 7:15 the Marines play Miller Furniture, at 8:15 Buckeyes clash with Naval Reserves and at 9:15 Friendship House meets the Easton A. C.

DOR-A NINES MEET.

Dor-A baseballers of Riverdale, who will be represented by senior and junior nines in the Capital City League, will hold their second organization meeting Friday night in the home of Allie Bowers, 914 Maryland avenue, Riverdale.

Candidates for both teams will drill for the first time Saturday afternoon on the Riverdale Field.

LACROSSE VETS GET CALL.

Leonard Rombro, of Baltimore, on defense, and Ramsay Thomas, of Towson, Md., on attack, appear likely to be the only sophomores to break into the regular line-up on the University of Maryland lacrosse team this spring. Both appear certain to make the grade. Last year's regulars and reserves seem sure to fill all the other eight jobs.

G. U. ADDS TO SCHEDULES.

One additional match was added to the schedules of Georgetown University's golf and tennis teams yesterday. Penn, which recently returned to the Intercollegiate Golf Association, will send a corps of linkmen to this city for a match with the Blue and Gray on May 13. On May 9 William and Mary College sends its tennis team North for a match.

Capital City Unlimiteds Plan for Diamond Season

Eight Teams Represented at League Meeting, With Others Planning Entrance; Another Gathering Listed Before Opener.

RANKS of the unlimited division of the Capital City Baseball League were swelled with new additions last night as team managers met at the District Building to complete their plans for the 1933 campaign.

Eight teams were represented and several others unable to attend called the Sports Department of The Post to secure franchises. Pilots of the following teams were present: Congress Heights, St. Joseph's, Griffith-Blue Coals, Ciro's Villagers, Columbia Heights, Miller Furniture, Stanton Cleaners, and Woodley A. C.

Dor-A, Snitz Nau's All-Stars, and Fairfax Farms Dairy were unable to have men attend, but signified that they will be ready when opening day rolls around.

An 18-player limit was adopted last night, and June 15 was decided on as the final date for signing and releasing players. The league will begin its season the second Sunday in May, or the 14th of the month.

Teams will be permitted to use either American or National League baseballs for the games, which will be umpired by District of Columbia Umpires' Association men.

The unlimited division will hold its final meeting before the season opens on May 1, at which time the franchise fee of $15 must be paid. Teams not entered and desiring to secure a franchise should communicate with Secretary Bernard McCarthy at the Muncipal Playground Department, or call at the sports department of The Post.

Tonight the senior teams will meet at 8 o'clock in Room 313 at the District Building. All teams desiring to join are invited to have representatives attend.

Hitting the Headpin

BREVIERS clinched the pennant in The Washington Post bowling league yesterday at the Lucky Strike alleys by whitewashing the Pearls. With only three games to go the leaders boast a five-game advantage.

George Bergling and Tony Suess divided the individual pin-spilling honors yesterday. Bergling cluttered up the score sheet with 391 bottles for the best set of the afternoon, while Suess' 145 game was high. Breviers had a 563 game and Quads a 1,571 set.

Douglas, No. 1, and Centennial, No. 2, finished the season deadlocked for the East Washington Church League championship at Convention Hall last night, each winning 49 games and losing 29, but Douglas was awarded the title on a basis of total pins. It toppled 40,873 bottles during the season.

Three league marks were smashed last night as the league concluded its 1933 season. Vincent Reed rolled a 168 game, and his team, Douglas, No. 2, rattled off a 647 game and 1,751 set.

Columbians had a 574 game and 1,630 in the Odd Fellows League at Convention Hall. Frank Donaldson's 130 game and Wallace Donaldson's 344 set were high.

Joe Pricci blasted the maples for a game of 175 and set of 414 in the Columbia Heights League at Arcadia, as the Arcadia quintet rolled a 644 game and 1,847. It seems to be just about this time last year that Pricci picked off 197 pins at the Recreation drives for a world's record game.

Rupertus' 140 game and Cummings' 383 set were high in the Men's Lutheran League at Arcadia. Takoma Blues rolled a 609 game and 1,723 set, the latter a season's mark.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

REGARDLESS of whether the Federal Radio Commission continues as an independent unit or as a division of the proposed Transportation and Communications Bureau in the Commerce Department the idea has been suggested that it be provided with radio advisers from the different branches of the service.

This would include radio representatives from the Army, Navy, Bureau of Standards, Aviation and possibly the Coast Guard. If the Radio Commission is to be continued it is suggested that these service representatives be ex officio members of the commission, with a vote. If the commission is to be reduced to a division with a director the service representatives could be an advisory group.

The argument advanced in favor of such a move is the assertion that the Radio Commission concerns itself only with commercial broadcasting and that at present the Government services do not have a sufficient voice in the matter of allocations.

If the services were officially placed on the commission or in the radio division the entire radio spectrum would be represented—ship to shore, aeroplane, point-to-point communication and other classifications, as well as broadcasting.

"Broadcasting is only a part of the picture," an official remarked. "It is, after all, largely entertainment provided for commercial profit. The S O S band, and its proper guarding, is far more important. Also, communication with ships and aeroplanes. Army and Navy preparedness, coming under the head of national defense, must be given equal importance with entertainment."

An argument is that such a group of service radio advisers as proposed would fit well into the present economy plans. They wouldn't cost the Government a cent, inasmuch as they would be detailed from the Army, Navy and other branches of the service for this purpose. Also these service representatives would have the advice of their own experts, where, for instance, the Radio Commission has only a handful of technical experts.

The "Piano Concerto in De Minor" by Rubenstein will occupy the major portion of the program Josef Lhevinne will present over WRC at 9:30 p. m. It was Rubenstein who, while Lhevinne was a student at the conservatory in Moscow, invited the 14-year-old boy to play as a soloist at a festival concert which the Russian composer conducted.

CAPT. DAVID W. TODD, U. S. N., retired, new member of the Shipping Board, was the nearest to an absolute czar of radio during the war we ever have had in this country.

Capt. Todd was director of naval communications at the time. In addition to keeping an eye on radio mesages he was also chief cable censor.

Assuming the role of Pocahontas, the romantic Indian maiden of early American history, Fannie Brice will offer her interpretation of the adventures with Capt. John Smith (WRC, 8 p. m.). George Olsen and his music will be heard during the half hour.

A reader of this column asks the identities of Janet, Peter and Pan in the "Wheatenaville" sketches. Janet is Alice Davenport; Peter, Bobby Jordan, and Pan, Florence Halop.

There's a story behind the song that serves as the radio signature of Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians. This number, entitled, "Sleep," was not chosen at random for the theme melody of the Old Gold series. It has been the musical identification of the band for years.

Back in 1919, while attending Penn State College, Fred Waring heard a colored band blast this tune in ragtime tempo. The musicians, when he questioned them, didn't know who wrote it, or even its title—they just played it. So Fred did some musical sleuthing and discovered that the melody was a hymn, called "Visions of Sleep," written 30 years before by Adam Giebel, a blind organist of Philadelphia.

From Giebel he obtained the original copy of the song. He orchestrated it, wrote some new words, and with his newly-formed band began playing it. Since then the Pennsylvanians have played "Sleep" at every single performance and consider it their "good luck" melody.

A 45-minute recital of the Mozart masterpiece, "Requiem Mass," will be heard over WMAL at 4 o'clock this afternoon during the broadcast of the Eastman School Chorus and Symphony Orchestra.

RADIO JOE will move his program to Wednesdays from 7:30 to 8 o'clock, beginning tonight. His program will be dedicated to D. J. Kaufman, founder of the business, who celebrates his seventy-first birthday at this time.

Radio Joe moved from the Thursday time, which was from 8 to 8:30 o'clock, to "duck the Rudy Vallee orchestra and variety program, and in order to get back to the same hour where we have been running for over four years, and only one night later."

Analysis of Jack Pearl's fan mail disclosed that 65 per cent of the correspondence received since his debut on the Magic Carpet in September was written by women. Children ranked second, writing 25 per cent of the baron's mail. The remaining 10 per cent was from the men. The mail bags have been heavier each month, increasing from 410 letters in September to 4,600 in February.

AT 58, B. A. Rolfe has staged a comeback to the networks. This conductor has had more ups and downs, possibly, than any other musician on the air, having made and lost three fortunes.

French Group Expected To Fight Paying of Debt

Paris, March 21 (A.P.).—A stiff fight is expected to develop at tomorrow's meeting of the foreign affairs committee of the Chamber of Deputies, which will take up a resolution urging payment of the $19,000,000 war debt interest which was due the United States last December.

Before the committee makes a decision Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour probably will set forth their views.

1933 Canadian Budget Deficit Is $53,608,000

Ottawa, March 21 (A.P.).—Canada's 1933 budget, presented to Parliament today by Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes, shows a deficit on ordinary account of $53,608,000.

SPEED IS REQUIRED IN PUZZLE CONTEST

Individuals or Partners Can Compete March 30 at Kennedy-Warren.

Something brand new in contest ideas is promised for the night of Thursday, March 30, when Federal employes and their friends will strive to complete jig-saw puzzles in record time at the beautiful ballroom of the Kennedy-Warren, 3133 Connecticut avenue. Although many persons boast of their proficiency in assembling the variegated sections of colorful pictures, so far as known there never before has been a contest such as the one now planned under the sponsorship of the "Federal Diary" column of The Washington Post.

Any employe of a Government department is eligible to enter and win one of the various merchandise prizes that will be awarded, and each may select a partner, whether or not the partner is a Government employe. It will be permissible for either one to relieve the other for rest periods, to work in conjunction with each other or to adopt any method that will enable the partners to work most quickly and efficiently. As some entrants believe that they can work more quickly alone, they may exercise their preference on equal terms with partnership teams.

The identical subject will be given to each contestant and all will start at the same moment. The first individual or team to complete the picture will be declared the winner and prizes will be awarded in the order that puzzles are completed. Full details of the forthcoming contest are revealed from day to day in the Federal Diary, which appears on page 4 of this newspaper.

Louisiana State Banks To Be Reopened Today

New Orleans, March 21 (A.P.).—All State banks in Louisiana were today directed to reopen tomorrow morning on an unrestricted basis in a proclamation issued this afternoon by J. S. Brock, State bank commissioner.

He said today's order was issued because "fear and panic seem to have passed." The order affects 151 State institutions which have either been closed or operated only on a partial basis since March 3, when a State bank holiday was declared.

Lehman Urges Curbing Of Utility Corporations

Albany, N. Y., March 21 (A.P.).—Declaring that "serious abuses" of the laws governing public utilities in New York State had been brought to his attention, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman today sent a message to the Legislature recommending that broad powers be given to the Public Utilities Commission for "direct and vigorous regulation."

LEGAL NOTICES

ROBERT E. KLINE, Jr., Attorney. 718 Union Trust Bldg.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT of Columbia. Arthur E. Turgeon (3710 24th St. N.W.), Plaintiff, vs. Caroline Elizabeth Turgeon (South Fork, Cambria County, Pennsylvania) and Robert Kitt (South Fork, Cambria County, Pennsylvania), Defendants. Equity No. 55371. Order of publication. The object of this suit is to obtain a decree of absolute divorce from the defendant, Caroline Elizabeth Turgeon on the ground that the said defendant has committed adultery with the defendant, Robert Kitt. On motion of the plaintiff it is this 7th day of March, 1933, ordered, that the defendants cause their appearance to be entered herein on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after date of the first publication of this order; otherwise the cause will be proceeded with as in case of default, provided a copy hereof be published once a week for three successive weeks in the Washington Law Reporter and The Washington Post. JOSEPH W. COX, Justice. A true copy. Test: (Seal.) FRANK J. CUNNINGHAM, Clerk. By C. E. STEWART, Jr., Asst. Clerk. 8,15,22

FEELLE & LESH, Attorneys.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE undersigned, Grayson M.-P. Murphy, Otis A. Glazebrook, jr., P. Erskine Wood, Edward O. McDonnell, John G. Pennypacker, James D. Sawyer, Charles S. Sargent, William P. T. Preston, J. S. Wilson, jr., Charles H. Baetjer, Frederick Osborn and Alfonso P. Villa, having formed a limited partnership pursuant to the laws of the State of New York, and desiring to do business in the District of Columbia as a limited partnership, have this day filed a certificate of limited partnership in the office of the clerk of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia; that the firm name of said partnership is G. M.-P. Murphy & Company; that the business intended to be transacted by said partnership is buying or otherwise acquiring, selling or otherwise disposing of in any manner or deal, whether on behalf of the copartnership or for others, stocks, bonds or other securities and property transacting a general securities and brokerage business such as is ordinarily conducted by New York Stock Exchange firms, conforming to the constitution and rules of the said New York stock exchange, and underwriting or subscribing for or assisting to procure underwritings or subscriptions for stocks, bonds or other securities and/or otherwise financing or assisting to procure the financing of corporate or other enterprises; that the said Grayson M.-P. Murphy, Otis A. Glazebrook, jr., P. Erskine Wood, Edward O. McDonnell, John G. Pennypacker, James D. Sawyer, Charles S. Sargent, William P. T. Preston, J. S. Wilson, jr., and Charles H. Baetjer are general partners; that the said Frederick Osborn and Alfonso P. Villa are special partners; that the said special partners have contributed as capital to the common stock of said partnership the following amounts in cash, namely: Frederick Osborn, $62,500.00, and Alfonso P. Villa, $37,500.00, and have also made additional contributions of capital to said common stock consisting in each case of securities and/or other property having the actual and agreed value hereinafter specified, to wit: Frederick Osborn, $112,500.00, and Alfonso P. Villa, $42,500.00; and that the term for which the said partnership is to exist commenced on December 14, 1932, and is to end at the close of business on December 31, 1934, subject to earlier termination at the option of any partner, in the event of a material breach of the articles of copartnership. Dated this 2nd day of March, 1933. (Signed) Grayson M.-P. Murphy, Otis A. Glazebrook, jr., P. Erskine Wood, Edward O. McDonnell, John G. Pennypacker, James D. Sawyer, Charles S. Sargent, William P. T. Preston, J. S. Wilson, jr., Charles H. Baetjer, Frederick Osborn and Alfonso P. Villa.

ADDED to the "Get your man," of the Canadian Northwest Mounted Police, might well be "and watch the game, deliver the letters, pay the bounties, conduct the inquest," and so on, for all of the many regular and special duties of the colorful Mounty.

He may act in any of his dozen or more roles as peace officer of the North when occasion demands. As an immigration officer and customs man he may watch the border; over the trails he often carries mail; when a claim is staked the Mounty may record it. He acts as an all-around welfare agent among the people of his territory. If a couple wishes to be married, the nearest member of the Mounted Patrol performs the ceremony, for every Mounty is commissioned as a justice of the peace.

Associated with horse racing longer than any other jockey, John Faulkner, of England, never yielded to the temptation of laying a bet on his favorite. Faulkner rode in his last race at 74, but he got in the saddle again at 102 to break an unruly mare. He died early this year at the age of 104.

Although the starfish generally has five arms, some are known to have had at least 40. The starfish's feet are the tiny tubes which grow on the underside of the arms.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MEDITATION ON THE BAMBINO'S WAGE CUT.

Fifty thousand dollars somehow
Seems to me a lot of "jack;"
At that sum a lotta people
Would be glad to take a crack.
Fifthy thousand? Just to fancy
Making that much money hurts,
And the anguish isn't lessened
When the Babe says flatly "Nerts!"

Fifthy thousand * * * Lemme figure * * *
That's a thousand bucks a week
With a half-year for vacation—
(Not a prospect very bleak!)
As I barely make a living,
In my crop it squarely sticks
When the Babe, when offered fifty Thousand dollars, answers "Nix!"

How to pay my rent's a problem
Keeping furrows in my brow;
Just to get some milk for baby
I'd go out and steal a cow.
I can stand the ordeal bravely,
But I stagger from the blow
When a guy who can get fifty Thousand smackers bellows "No!"

I am very nearly barefoot—
There are holes in all my clothes;
Through a winter of privations
My dear wife and kiddies froze;
I am fairly philosophic
And I'm very patient, but
When the Babe scorns fifty thousand
Well, I just go off my nut!

I like baseball and the clouters
Make a great big hit with me;
I regard George Herman Ruth as Having gifts of high degree;
I don't want to see him suffer
But my mind gets fuzzy when
I observe him there declining
Fifty thousand iron men.

If I were the king of swatters
And could sock the ball a mile,
Would I quibble over wages
That would let me live in style?
Though I once got eighty thousand,
Would I scoff at thirty less?
Would I fight for more than fifty?
Boy, you know my answer . . .
YES!

NO CHANGE.

Some people expect too much. Elmer Twitchell played his first 1933 round of golf the other day and declared bitterly: "Heck! My game isn't a bit better under Roosevelt than it was under Hoover."

Sing Sing, in its policy of putting prisoners to work at jobs for which they are best fitted, is balked by the presence there of a lion tamer, a cartoonist and a horse trainer. It looks like an ideal set-up for the production of an animated cartoon.

WELL, LET'S SEE—

Among the intricate problems of the day is how a man with a conservator can get some money out of a bank similarly fixed.

What has happened under Roosevelt is that the country has at last been given wizard control and free wheeling.

When we get real beer what will the country do with its ether industry?

DISTRICT BEER BILL MAY BE DELAYED BY PROPOSED REVISION

Loopholes Reported Located and Several Clauses Conflicting.

Numerous discrepancies discovered in the District beer bill as reported yesterday to the House may lead to an effort to revise it completely on the House floor, or substitute a re-written version of the measure when it reaches the Senate, The Post learned authoritatively last night.

A study of the measure has disclosed several provisions in direct conflict, most of which would interfere with operation of the local law as intended by members of the House District Committee, it was said.

One such clause would make it possible for a hotel, store or restaurant chain with two or more places of business to sell beer, whereas a single hotel, or corporation with a single stand could not place it on sale. This provision would not apply to individuals, providing they were not acting as an agent for a corporation.

Tighter Control Likely.

An effort also is under way to re-write other provisions of the measure, tightening control features and obviating possibility of tie-ups between breweries and retailers, it was learned. There may even be a last-minute effort to recommit the measure, so that necessary changes can be effected in the interest of making it the "model bill" sought by House leaders.

Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, author of the bill, said yesterday he intended to offer at least one amendment on the floor, altering section 11 of the Sheppard law, which was not repealed in the reported bill. Under his interpretation of this section, which forbids sale of beer in public places, hotels could not distribute the beverage. Some local lawyers contend, however, that section 11 was never intended to extend to hotels.

At all events, there is certain to be a fight on several provisions of the local measure before or when it reaches the House floor, and an effort made to substitute a bill less capable of misinterpretation.

Speculate on Revenue.

Representative Palmisano said yesterday he intends to ask for a special rule to insure the measure an easy road through the House. It may not come up on the floor until Monday, which is District Day.

With the District treasury sadly in need of new revenue, Auditor Daniel J. Donovan yesterday began building day dreams about the possible beer appetites of Washingtonians and the subsequent municipal revenue.

Figuring a glass a day for each of the 496,000 residents and 8 ounces to a glass, he estimated that the District might realize $1,000 a day revenue, with a local tax of $1 a barrel, which would amount to $365,000 a year.

"But all that depends on the capacity of Washingtonians," he added as an afterthought, "and on the quality of the beer."

There have been eight applications so far for licenses to sell beer in the District.

Eighth Unit Urges A. C. Smith Naming

Selection as Commissioner Favored by Brookland-Woodridge Group.

The Brookland-Woodridge Business Men's Association yesterday unanimously indorsed for District of Columbia Commissioner Arthur Clarendon Smith.

This makes the eighth association indorsing Mr. Smith, others being the Federation of Business Men's Associations with a 3,000 merchant membership, Central Business Men, Wisconsin Avenue Business Men, Cleveland Park Business Men, Southeast Citizens Association, Logan-Thomas Citizens Association and the Reciprocity Club of America.

Petitions are being circulated in the city urging his appointment. Those in charge express confidence that 10,000 to 15,000 will sign the petition.

The Chillum Heights Citizens Association at a special meeting last night indorsed the candidacy of William McK. Clayton for District Commissioner.

Hoeppel Urges United Policy for Veterans

Representative Hoeppel (Democrat), California, last night advocated a united front by all veterans' organizations of their legislative representatives at Washington, in an address before Vincent B. Costello Post, American Legion, meeting in the board room of the Municipal Building.

CORRECTION.

Through a misunderstanding with members of the vice squad of the Metropolitan Police Department, the address of a raid made Saturday afternoon was carried in a story in the columns of The Post as 1831 Connecticut avenue northwest.

The raid was not made at this address, but at another address in the same block. The Post regrets this error.

GIRL STEALS BABY, THEN ABANDONS IT

Infant and Carriage Taken While Custodian Goes Into Store.

An attractive young girl, clad in sport clothes, was being sought last night to explain why she walked off with a 6-month-old infant in its carriage yesterday afternoon, eluded police and searchers until after dark, and several hours later abandoned the baby unhurt almost a mile away.

In the center of a midafternoon shooping crowd along H street northeast, the baby, Hazel McEwen, asleep in her carriage standing in the doorway of a store near Eleventh street, suddenly disappeared. Mrs. Mary Redden, of 736 Fifth street northeast, left little Hazel outside while she stepped in to make a purchase.

Mrs. Redden had been gone less than five minutes, she said, when she returned to find the baby and carriage gone. A few moments later she met a friend, Mrs. P. A. Pickens, who told of seeing a young girl wheeling the carriage along H street a few blocks away.

Mrs. Pickens said she thought the girl a friend of Mrs. Redden, and merely smiled on passing. A frantic appeal was sent to police and an investigation was immediately begun by Detective Sergt. S. M. Wilson.

Shortly after 9 o'clock last night, Miss May Glotzback, a guest at the home of Sylvester Murphy, retired policeman, of 1121 I street northeast, found baby Hazel still asleep in her buggy on the sidewalk near the Murphy home.

Mrs. Vivian McEwen, mother of the baby, is employed in the daytime and leaves Hazel at the home of Mrs. Redden. When told of what had happened, Mrs. McEwen at first believed her estranged husband was responsible. He, however, is understood to be in South America with the Merchant Marine.

Detective Sergt. Wilson said he would continue his attempt to learn the identity of "a young girl dressed in sport clothes."

Postponement Picking Rover Successor Asked

President Roosevelt was urged in a resolution adopted by the Bar Association of the District of Columbia last night to defer the appointment of a successor to District Attorney Leo A. Rover until the Bar Association makes its recommendations.

At a special meeting Friday night the association will decide whether one candidate or several shall receive its indorsement.

I. C. C. PHONE QUIZ SET FOR APRIL 13

District Group Seeks Priority in Classifying Accounts of Local A. T. & T. Unit.

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday set April 13 as the day on which it will hold a hearing of protests against its classification accounts with regard to the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The Public Utilities Commission, together with the commissions of New York, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania, is preparing a case for presentation with the view of persuading the Federal agency to at least give the State and District commissions priority in classifying accounts of local subsidiaries of the telephone company.

Because of the pending litigation over rates of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., the District commission is especially interested in obtaining an early and favorable decision.

Although the question of depreciation has been formally ruled out as topic for the hearing because the existing I. C. C. order on the subject does not expire until next year, the local commission and other State commissions plan to make an issue of the matter.

Dr. Milo Maltbie, chairman of the New York commission, who is well known in Washington for his report on the street railways for the Senate, will participate in the hearing. William A. Roberts, special assistant counsel, will handle the District commission's case.

Representatives of the several commissions will confer here regarding the hearing on April 11 and 12.

Man Held and Inquest Ordered Over Woman

Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, acting coroner, announced last night that an autopsy will be held today to determine the cause of death of Mrs. Lydia H. Glorius, alias Gloria McNamara, 30, of 920 G place northwest. The woman entered Emergency Hospital on March 14, and died yesterday.

Following the woman's death, William T. Mangum, alias William Thomas McNamara, 33, of 920 G place northwest, was taken into custody by First Precinct police and charged with investigation in connection with the case.

U. S. OFFICIALS SEEK RULINGS IN NEW ACT TO REDUCE EXPENSE

Map Questions for McCarl on Leave and Pay Cut Maze of Details.

Screened on all sides by a maze of problems arising from the new economy act, the Association of Personnel Officers of executive departments and independent establishments will endeavor to find a way out of the quandary through a list of questions to be presented to Comptroller General McCarl.

Meeting yesterday afternoon at the Civil Service Commission, the association appointed a committee to draft these questions. The committee is composed of Percy L. Gladmon, of the Department of Agriculture; Mrs. J. Atwood Maulding, of the Interior Department, and John B. Switzer, of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The committee will submit the questions to the association at a meeting at 2 p. m. today. After receiving the study of the association, the questions will be presented to the Comptroller General.

Deductions and Leave.

An outstanding problem with which the questions are expected to deal concerns pay deductions and leave. The situation is complicated by the fact that the new law, becoming operative on April 1, will overlap three months originally intended to be covered by the old economy act, as well as taking in the year 1934, for which the old economy act had been reenacted.

Dissension is reported to have arisen in the Postoffice and some other departments over the fact that the furlough pay for 24 days has already been deducted, and employes have been denied any further furlough until a ruling is given by the Comptroller General.

Other problems which the Comptroller General will be asked to settle include:

Can legislative furlough (the statutory deduction of one month) accrued and unused on March 31, 1931, be allowed after April 1?

Administrative Furloughs.

Can administrative furlough (leave without pay applied to avert dismissals) accrued and unused on March 31, be allowed after April 31?

After April 1, 1933, will the salary deductions for one administrative day's furlough be computed at the base pay rate or at the base pay less 15 per cent, the maximum deduction allowed under the new law?

In cases where legislative furlough deductions have been made in excess of the amount required to March 31, which would be three-quarters of a month's pay, an absence was not had should (a) refund be made to employe, (b) should credit on 15 per cent be made?

Where employe has been absent in excess of the required amount of legislative furlough to March 31, and appropriate deductions have been made, shall there be any deductions for credit to the 15 per cent?

Impoundment of Deduction.

Does annual leave begin to accrue at the rate of 15 days per annum on April 1, July 1, or be retroactive to January 1 of this year?

Does annual leave accrued and unused on June 30, 1932, when leave was suspended, accrue and become available for use after April 1 under the new law?

Must the 15 per cent deduction be impounded for the fiscal year 1933 in the same manner as the 8 1-3 per cent deduction?

Must the impoundment of the 15 per cent deduction be made in 1934, even though estimates for that year took into consideration the 8 1-3 per cent deduction made during the current year?

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. yesterday was made defendant in a $25,000 damage suit, filed in the District Supreme Court by Edith Maud Morrow, of the Cairo Apartments.

Through Attorneys George E. Edelin and Theodore D. Peyser, she charges that while she was a passenger on a street car on the Conduit road, in September, 1932, she was badly hurt through sudden starting of the car.

Guide Uniforms to Be Urged.

A uniform for licensed guides will be recommended by a special committee named yesterday by the District Commissioners, comprising Inspector B. A. Lamb, Capt. M. D. Smith and Acting Lieut. Thomas Mason.

PARK SAVINGS BOOKS CHECKED SIX WEEKS BEFORE STUNZ DIED

Stockholders Are Liable for 200 Per Cent of Stock; 2 Records Reported.

The accounts of the Park Savings Bank were approved by national bank examiners six weeks before Robert S. Stunz, its executive vice president, committed suicide and left an apparent shortage of $1,500,000 to $1,600,000.

On this occasion the bank examiners made a thorough audit of the records and the necessary balance of the books was found. The only manner, it was stated in banking circles, in which Stunz could have concealed such a huge deficit would be by failure to record the deficient sum on the books which the examiners scrutinize.

Stockholders Are Liable.

Stockholders of the bank, which has a capital stock of $100,000, are liable for any loss in the bank to the extent of 200 per cent of their stock. That is, they may be compelled to forfeit the value of their stock, plus 100 per cent of its par value.

There is a $50,000 insurance policy on Stunz's life and a $150,000 indemnity bond, both payable to the bank. This will be used to offset any loss. If this is insufficient, the stockholders may be called upon to forfeit the stock, which had an aggregate par value of $100,000, and the shareholders would, in addition, be liable for another $100,000, making an expected total of $400,000 to be used against the deficit.

Duplicate Set Rumored.

There has been a persistent but unconfirmed report that Stunz kept a duplicate set of records, by which he kept track of thousands of dollars placed in the bank by depositors, but which was not entered on the books that were checked by auditors.

If a customer brought in a deposit the report has it, Stunz would enter a fraction of the amount on the regular accounts and place the bulk of it on his secret records. If a customer came in to withdraw money, he would consult his secret records and if a sufficient balance was entered on his books, the customer would be allowed to withdraw the desired amount.

Monthly Statements.

Customers' monthly statements were issued on the total of deposits, entered on the regular accounts and on the secret records. In this manner, the customer would receive a statement of his actual deposits, while only a fraction of them appeared on the regular accounts. The ordinary books are audited by bank examiners, and they all checked perfectly.

The difference in the amount actually deposited and the amount appearing in the regular records is understood to be $1,600,000. This will likely be diminished by the sum of money withdrawn by depositors from the accounts which Stunts recorded in his secret books.

GUARDING OF HENRY CASE JURY ORDERED; MOB PLAN REPORTED

Move of Justice Is Surprise; Trial of Harris Due to Take Several Days.

The utmost precautions were thrown about the jury sitting in the trial of Charles Harris, of Philadelphia, who is being tried in District Supreme Court on a charge of murder, it was shown yesterday when Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue ordered the United States marshal to take charge of the jury at the close of the opening session yesterday.

That means that the jurors will be locked in a hotel room during the nights they are in session. Also, they will not be allowed to communicate with other persons and all communications received will be censored.

Comes as Surprise.

The move by Justice O'Donoghue took Assistant United States Attorney Julian W. Richards and defense attorneys, Denny Hughes and Arthur M. Sager, of New York, by surprise.

Harris is charged with slaying Milton W. "Milsie" Henry, small-time Washington gambler last April 21. Henry was ambushed while he sat in his open automobile in front of his apartment in Brown street near Sixteenth street northwest, at 5:30 a. m. Five shots from a pump gun threw lead slugs into his body at short range.

Two Give Testimony.

Only two important witnesses testified yesterday. They were Mrs. Ida W. Jones and Walter K. Rollinson. Mrs. Jones testified she saw a man running shortly after she heard the shots fired, and Rollinson, a milk wagon driver, declared he had seen the street blocked by a large sedan from which apparently the murderer emerged to shoot Henry.

Rumors that an attempt might be made to free Harris from custody through overpowering his guards reached the courthouse yesterday and extra precautions were taken to make such a move impossible.

Henry is said by police to have been in bad with local gamblers because of a "double cross" he engineered in a racing coup that cost the gamblers much money.
